Teachers Are Needed Who Will Create Learning Experiences

If you pick up a handful of sand at an ocean beach, you will probably be impressed by the grains' apparent uniformity in size and shape. Yet, with sorting, you will probably find that hardly any two of them are identical.

A parallel is noted, when we look at any group of elementary school-age children. To the casual observer they all look very much alike. Even among teachers there has been a tendency to classify the students as "third graders" or "slow learners" or "problem children," overlooking the reality that every human being is a unique individual with his own characteristics, emotional and psychological make-up, dreams and aspirations.

To understand implies a process that is never finished and the possessor of understanding will be able to function in different times and places equally well.

Today there is a great need for teachers who can design and create meaningful learning experiences with and for their pupils. The kind of elementary school we need is not an unattainable goal or an ideal to be contemplated for some distant future. It is a learning environment which can well be structured now by well-qualified teachers whose actions are consistent with their commitments to children and to sound ways of learning and growth. Each child travels this road but once.

If you are about to decide on a future profession, may we urge that you seriously and prayerfully consider teaching in the denominational elementary schools as your high calling.

Congress Reviews Labor Problem

Two members of Congress from California testified July 28 at a hearing by the House Subcommittee on Labor in behalf of extending the "Conscience Clause" protection to all areas of employment covered by the National Labor Relations Act.

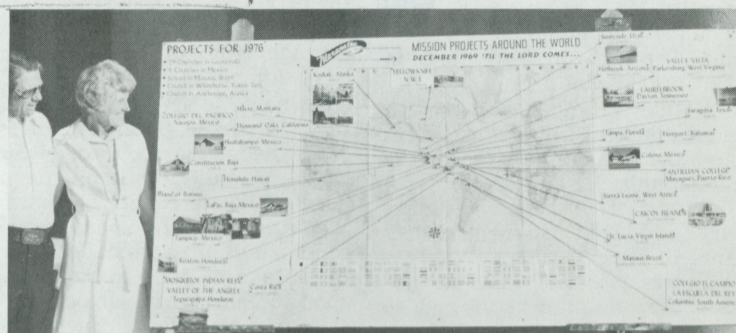

Congresswomen Shirley Pettis of Loma Linda, the only Seventh-day Adventist member of Congress, spoke of "the tenets of my religious faith" as she traced for the committee the consequences faced by Adventists and others who, for reasons of conscience, cannot take part in labor union activities.

Maranathans Help Build Church at Thousand Oaks

Eighty members of Maranatha Flights International spent one month (June 8-July 8) in Thousand Oaks, California, helping to build a new church for the congregation which has worshipped in rented quarters the past six years.

Most of the 80 worked two weeks, some less, and some the entire 31 days. They came from Tennessee, Colorado, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Oregon, Arizona and Ohio.

Maranatha Flights International is an organization of laymen who fly their own planes, drive, or go by commercial-air to specified places to build churches, schools, or medical and dental clinics in areas where otherwise they might not be able to build. Many use vacation time from their regular work to do this.

John Freeman, founder and president of the Maranatha Flights International, and Mrs. Freeman stand by the project map which shows the projects the Maranathans have carried on since 1969, and have planned for 1976.

The Thousand Oaks project was unique in that it was carried on with the object of raising funds with which to build churches in Guatemala and Mexico next winter.

They will go to Guatemala in September and will spend six months (different volunteers at different times) to build and/or restore 29 church structures, 16 of which were completely destroyed, and 13 damaged by the recent quake.

When the 80 members arrived in Thousand Oaks, the cement slabs and rough electrical wiring were already in.

INSPIRATION SAYS

"'Examine yourselves whether ye be in the faith.' Some conscientious souls, on reading this, immediately begin to criticize their every feeling and emotion. But this is not correct self-examination. It is not the petty feelings and emotions that are to be examined. The life, the character, is to be measured by the only standard of character, God's holy law. The fruit testifies to the character of the tree. Our works, not our feelings, bear witness of us.

"The feelings, whether encouraging or discouraging, should not be made the test of the spiritual condition. By God's Word we are to determine our true standing before Him. Many are bewildered on this point. When they are happy and joyous, they think that they are accepted by God. When a change comes, and they feel depressed, they think that God has forsaken them. . . .

"Exercise faith in God. How many there are who go through life under a cloud of condemnation! They do not believe God's Word. They have no faith that He will do as He has said. Many who long to see others resting in the pardoning love of Christ do not rest in it for themselves. But how can they possibly lead others to show simple, childlike faith in the Heavenly Father when they measure His love by their feelings?" Review and Herald, February 28, 1907

Chairman Frank Thompson (D-N.J.) of the Subcommittee on Labor stated publicly and privately that he believes the time has come for such a conscience clause to be included in the National Labor Relations Act.

In 1974, the National Labor Relations Act was amended to include private and for-profit health-care institutions, making it easier for them to become unionized. At that time, Congressman John Erlenborn (R-Ill.) sponsored an amendment that was adopted to exempt individuals whose religious convictions prevented joining or supporting labor unions. In January 1975, he introduced a separate bill (HR 1528) to extend this protection to all employees who are covered by the National Labor Relations Act.

As a result of numerous contacts with members of Congress from both parties, it was discovered that much of the early opposition to such a bill has evaporated. Reasons for this can be traced to the success of the health-care exemption under the 1974 revisions of the NLRA; decisions by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that employers and labor unions are guilty of religious discrimination when they fire individuals solely because

Nu-Vision Camp Gets Support

Support by state special-education departments in Sacramento is flooding the Church's newest outreach for witness, beginning this week at Camp Wawona.

Nu-Vision Camp, according to acknowledgements, will be serving a class no other group has sought to aid.

Blind and otherwise disabled children have registered from 32 regional centers for developmental disabilities: the Berkeley and Capitola Living Skills centers, Santa Clara County Outland Multi-handicapped Program, Stockton's Community Center for the Blind, Alameda County and Fresno Associations for the Mentally Retarded, various chapters of United Cerebral Palsy, State of California Southwest Regional Deaf/Blind Center, and Porterville State Hospital.

In addition, the State of Washington Services for the Blind is sending 15 campers; the State of Nevada Bureau of Services for the Blind is rounding up their qualified.

Gifts for more effective camping continue to arrive at Nu-Vision California Camping Headquarters, too. (Nu-Vision is the newest thrust of services to the blind by the Christian Record Braille Foundation with offices in Lincoln, Nebraska.)

A 25-foot unsinkable 14-passenger canoe has been donated. The fiberglass construction has a special flotation device which makes it drown-proof.

Five-Day Plans Being Held Regularly in La Sierra

During the past three years the Loma Linda community has been exposed to 43 Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking. About 1,500 locals have made progress in kicking the habit.

In 1973, according to Chaplain C. L. Turner, a cooperative effort was adopted to stage a Five-Day Plan every month, starting the first Sunday night. Sponsors are Loma Linda University Medical Center and the Loma Linda Community Hospital. The meetings are held in Butterfield Hall.

Stanley Kannenberg, health educator at LLU Medical Center, and Chaplain Turner of the Community Hospital are co-directors. They have the assistance of four or five medical doctors at each session.

States Turner: "Attendance has been as high as 75 and as low as 16 some months, but the average is about 35. The group is usually divided evenly between men and women."

Secret of success is motivation, and this is accomplished through instruction by the physicians' graphic illustrations and films, awakening human will power, and group therapy. "Smoking Sam" and "Smoking Sue," the two teenage mannequins, are often used to show what cigarette smoke leaves in the lungs.

"We lean heavily on group therapy," says Kannenberg. "Strength from their peers is a powerful support. We let them talk about their problems and tensions, and they gather courage from others who also have difficulties."

"A new life style is suggested to each person," Turner notes. "On the average, those who want to quit the habit have been addicted about 22 years. We urge them to abandon alcohol and coffee, and decrease the intake of fat and sugar. A good breakfast is advocated."

Nearly 55 million Americans smoke cigarettes today; currently about 800 die daily as a result. The average consumption is about a pack and a half (30) a day. The national cost is staggering. To the individual it means about $200 per year.

"It is amazing what five nights can do for those who really want to be free from the grip of nicotine," Chaplain Turner exclaims.

A new balanced diet is presented, which includes fruits and vegetables. Individuals are urged to take baths often and drink water liberally.

Eight laws of health are outlined for the group: Use water, exercise regularly, rest, nutrition, make good use of sunshine, breathe freely of fresh air, develop self control, trust in Divine Power.

"The nicest part about these programs," observes Chaplain Turner, "is when people come to us and plead for help to overcome the habit. They want help, and we have the help they need. The spiritual help they need is stressed and is woven into the Five-Day Plan."

"The long-range goal is," according to Kannenberg, "to introduce and develop a better life style, to improve their physical, mental and spiritual outlook for a healthier, happier future. It gives us a good feeling when we succeed," he concludes.

Fontana Juniper Avenue

This VBS Almost Didn't Happen

On July 3, 108 youngsters, most of whom were not Adventists, graduated from Vacation Bible School at Juniper Avenue Seventh-day Adventist church in Fontana, and happily toted their crafts and certificates home. But it nearly didn't happen.

At the beginning of the year, there was not even a VBS leader appointed. Although a few people said they would help, no one wanted to be in charge. For a few weeks, Sabbath school superintendent Samuel Benjamin despaired of even having a Vacation Bible School.

Finally, his daughter Lydia Benjamin volunteered. She accepted the responsibility with a willing heart, but when she began workshops to get helpers acquainted with the crafts and workbooks and to sort supplies, no one showed up, at first.

But prayers and persistence finally won. Suddenly adult workers from the church family began to appear, and young people by the droves volunteered to come in and help!

So, when 108 youngsters "stormed the gates of the church" as it were, Juniper Avenue was ready for them, and one of the church's most successful Vacation Bible

Schools ended on a note of triumph.

Miss Benjamin is thankful to the workers who rallied to the call, and to God Who inspired them to complete their appointed task.

APPROXIMATELY 135 CHILDREN were in attendance at the Calimesa Vacation Bible School. Associate Pastor Dean Belleau was in charge of a staff of over 40 who staffed the school.

Sunnymead Gets Pastor

Pastor Bruce A. Edminster has recently taken over the pastorate of the Sunnymead Church, replacing Elder Ervin L. Sorensen who has gone to the mission field.

B. Edminster received his Master of Divinity degree from Andrews University in 1975.

He has had terms of service as an associate pastor at the Garden Grove and El Cajon churches.

Mrs. Edminster is the former Mary Lou Nelson. She has attended both San Pasqual Academy and Loma Linda University. The Edminsters have three children, Jeromie, Allison and Heidi.

Conference Committee Actions

The Conference Executive Committee met Thursday, August 3. Here are a few of the actions and announcements that came out of the meeting:

ELDER LOUIS VENDEN, of Andrews University, has accepted the call to be pastor of the Loma Linda University Church. He is completing his doctorate and may not arrive until January 1. ELDER JAMES MERSHON has been asked to serve as interim pastor.

ELDER GEORGE CHUDLEIGH, youth director of the Oregon Conference, has been called to be youth director of our Conference replacing ELDER CLAY FARWELL.

ELDER JEFF PARK is being called from the Carolina Conference to be youth pastor with the Arlington Church.

ELSA STREICH is being called to be a Bible worker with the San Diego Spanish Church.

With PASTOR MARIO PEREZ going to Andrews University, PASTOR RIGO FERNANDEZ is transferring to the Colton-San Bernardino Spanish Church to be associate pastor.

PASTOR ALAVARO ACEVEDO is being called to be associate pastor with the La Sierra Spanish Church.

A BLACK EVANGELIST and a Spanish evangelist are being called to serve full time with our ethnic churches.

Thomas Cummings Becomes Medical Director

Thomas J. Cummings, MD, Loma Linda University graduate of the class of 1949 and a Fellow, American Academy of Family Practice, is newly-appointed medical director of the Monument Valley Hospital.

T. J. Cummings

Even though Dr. Cummings was elected to this office some months earlier, he had the responsibility of closing up his practice, preparing to take up his new duties. Thus he entered his new duties the latter part of June.

Before coming to Monument Valley, Dr. Cummings maintained a family practice in Auburn, California for some 18 years. Earlier he was a physician in Mountain Home, Idaho for four years. During the Korean War he served in the army.

Dr. Cummings has two doctors associated with him: Nicola Ashton and Cyril Hartman, both MDs. Both doctors have given years of service overseas for the Church.

As medical director, Dr. Cummings will oversee the physicians' staffing and direct the development of hospital services, in addition to routine medical responsibilities.

Yes, we are back home from camp meeting. The truck is unloaded and the boxes are all unpacked. We appreciated your stopping by the Adventist Book Center camp meeting display.

We are again planning Back to School Sales. Please note our schedule:

Bishop	September 4
Lone Pine	September 5
Ogden	September 18
Provo	Sept. 19-11 a.m.
Salt Lake	Sept. 19- 2 p.m.

Please reserve September 12 on your calendar. This date is our National Adventist Book Center Open House. Plan to drop by 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

Evaine Fehrer, Manager

Associated with him in the management of the institution is business manager P. A. Jorgensen.

Members of our conference constituency should take advantage of the privilege to become personally acquainted with Dr. Cummings, working for the Church on a salary quite similar to that of a minister.

The Lord will surely bless these men as they dedicate themselves to the Lord's work. Please remember Dr. Cummings in prayer as he carries this heavy responsibility that has been placed on him.

Mission Welcomes Teachers Ed and Betty Chapman

Ed and Betty Chapman, Hawaiian Mission Academy instructors in Industrial and Business arts, felt the embrace of the tropics and the Aloha Spirit as they arrived at Honolulu International Airport June 16 with their children, Matt, 20; Marty, 19, and Debbie, 17.

Though they are still camping while a mission home in Kaneohe is being completed for them, the Chapmans have been busy. Betty has been building lesson plans for her seven scheduled classes and Ed has painted HMA's newly acquired pickup truck.

Ed holds two master's degrees, one from San Jose State University in Industrial Education, another from San Diego State University in Psychology and Guidance. He graduated from Pacific Union College in 1954 with a B.A. in Industrial Education.

His teaching background include eight years at Fremont, California, high school and junior high, and two years at Ridgeview Junior High School in Napa before becoming director of vocational guidance in Napa County for seven years.

When Golden Gate Academy called for a team with their talents, the Chapmans responded. While there, Ed was career education counselor, work experience coordinator and vice-principal. Betty was college and scholarship counselor, purchasing agent, registrar and teacher.

Betty's experience and preparation include a B.S. in business education and an M.A. in counseling and guidance, both from Pacific Union College. She was counselor and teacher at Pacific Union College Preparatory School for three years. Her fourth year there found her counseling and teaching a class in bookkeeping.

Ed is an athlete whose hobbies are sports-centered. Tennis, swimming, surfing, skiing (both water and snow) and scuba diving top the list. Betty also enjoys sports, "though I'm not as competent as Ed." Her hobbies include fanciwork, needle point, crocheting, crewel embroidery, and cooking.

Debbie will be a senior at HMA. Matt will return to San Bernardino Valley College in southern California and Marty will return to PUC for his sophomore year.

HMA staff, students and constituency rejoice to welcome and utilize the Chapmans. Hawaiian Adventist children can plan on quality education in business and industrial arts.

The Chapman Family CCAD Holds Retreat

Students working in the Community Crusade against Drugs program held a summer retreat at Camp Waianae, July 16-19.

Mission President Lawrence Davidson had the Friday evening vespers, and testimonies were given by several students.

Students conducted the Sabbath worship service at Hauula church. That afternoon they visited the Crawford Convalescent Home to meet with and sing to the patients.

The 18 students participating this year in Hawaii have sold over $20,000 of journals pertaining to our health message and drug abuse.

How One Man Was Led to Literature Evangelism

Gary Peed's decision to enter colporteur evangelism came after a two-year search for Truth. His life style was making him uneasy.

An Adventist friend talked with Gary about the Sabbath, he grew interested in Adventist teachings. Then he came across a copy of The Great Controversy. When he finished the entire book three days later, he was thoroughly convinced that this was the truth. Then came a period of adjustment as he pondered its application to his own future.

While attending services at an Adventist church with his wife one Sabbath, he heard the term "colporteur" used. "What is a colporteur?" he asked his wife, Louise. Together they studied the dictionary. "A colporteur is one who distributes religious books."

"My way of life was far from Adventist standards," Gary recalls, "but still the idea of colporturing kept running through my mind. I began to think that perhaps Jesus was trying to tell me something. I stopped my occasional beer, but still clung to cigarettes."

When Publishing Director Gene Petrie went to Elko, Nevada, to fill a Sabbath appointment, Gary invited him to dinner. Petrie's colporteur stories whetted Gary's growing desire to "do something for the Lord." But there was the tobacco problem.

Petrie related the story of a three-pack-a-day farmer whose friend helped him over the habit by writing on a cigarette, "This or Jesus."

Later, as Gary reached for another "white coffin nail," he could almost visualize the inscription in bold relief.

"I have smoked my last!" he said firmly.

Two days later, he presented himself at the pastor's house and declared, "I want to be a baptized Seventh-day Adventist."

New company policy and personnel problems at work appeared to indicate a "closing door," but decisions were still to be made as he thought of supporting his family.

"Lord, if You will help us sell our home," he prayed, "I'll begin selling books."

A series of providential leadings brought a customer. All problems have not yet been solved, but, home sold, Gary is now finding the soul-satisfying rewards as he displays gospel literature in the homes of Elko.

Lone Pine Church Is Growing

With a gain in church membership, the Lone Pine Church is experiencing growing pains.

Lay Activities Leader Patricia Auvil has sponsored tract distribution and lay visitations. She is now conducting in her home, with the help of Dianne Logan, "Bible Story Hour" as an additional means of searching out possible Bible study prospects. Alta Bentz continues her contacts through tract-rack ministry and Bible studies where openings are found.

In Lone Pine there are two Church-sponsored TV programs aired each Sunday. One day Grace Workman, a talented artist and local resident, viewed one of the programs. Curious, she wrote in for more information about Adventists. A contact was made and she was given Bible studies. After attending church services for some months she requested baptism.

With the Lone Pine church getting new carpets, pew cushions, drapes, pulpit and platform furniture, church members may soon get a "new lift" and the church will be able to present a new public appeal.

LYNWOOD CONVOCATION NOW HISTORY—Weekend attendance held near 4,500 this year and nightly sessions crowded the 1,200 mark. Something seldom seen was one entire family—Dr. and Mrs. Harold Bailey, their three sons, Roger, Rick, Hal and daughter Cindy—who took over the primary division. Mrs. Kenneth Wood spoke to the ministers' wives two afternoons and Wallace Lighthall's voice will be remembered for the nightly Bicentennial feature, "That's how it began in Southern." H. M. S. Richards, Jr., and the King's Heralds Quartet opened the session. ABC sales went over the $39,000 mark. The nightly talks by Dr. Chalmers and Elder Kenneth Wood (Review and Herald editor) strengthened the membership and improved their homes. Nine men were ordained to the full gospel ministry and the departmental tent held the interest of many who walked through.

Evangelist Comes to Southern

The 30-year ministry of Southern's newest evangelist, Marcus Payne, stretches from pastoring in Nebraska (19-46) to being an Iowa Conference secretary before coming here.

In between he pastored in Kansas and Central California, became the lay activities and Sabbath school director in Northern and Southern New England plus holding the lay activities directorship in the Oregon Conference.

Elder Payne was born in Indiana and graduated from Union College. He initiated the Sabbath school involvement program in Oregon and Iowa, using the class as the basic unit for witnessing. He and Don Gray initiated the first "In-service" witnessing training class back in 1972.

His wife, the former Lenora

Lynwood Gets Associate

A Loma Linda University graduate this spring, Ronald Evans, is the associate pastor at Lynwood. He began with Southern as a camp counselor in 1972. Since then he's been an associate pastor at Glendale City (1973) and Temple City (1974-75).

His wife of one year, Joan, a nurse, was born in Glendale.

North Hills Gets Pastor

Pastor of the North Hills Church now is James William Walters. The B.A. graduate of Southern Missionary College ('68), while earning a Master of Divinity degree from Andrews University in 1970, co-edited a publication of the Student Forum there.

He has pastored in Savannah and Ellijay, Georgia, and been director of development at SMC where he graduated cum laude.

Priscilla, his wife of six years and a physical therapist, was born in Washington, D.C.

In a Nutshell

MAN PRAISES ADVENTISTS—While placing a Five-Day poster in a laundromat in La Crescenta, a man came up and wanted to know what the one posting it was doing. "Oh," he said, "I can't tell you what that means to me. I'm an ex-smoker. I went to a Five-Day Plan and I did not stop smoking. I went to the Schick Center and I did not stop. I tried a few other plans and I still did not stop smoking. One day I said, 'I choose to stop smoking,' and I remembered the things I had learned at the Five-Day Plan and put them into practice. I haven't smoked for two years, and I owe it all to this church and their wonderful plan to help others."

UNIQUE GRADUATION—The four eighth-graders at Santa Barbara this year were all girls—Rebecca Backus, Lillian Guild, Donna Louise Weeks and Carol Ann Wollarth. Howard Weeks, former General Conference Director of Communication and father of Donna, gave the address. The school has expanded its curriculum, added a part-time teacher and will offer the ninth grade when school opens this fall.

LITERATURE EVANGELIST GEORGE FRENCH has been assigned to a new project, that of supplying public libraries and public schools with bulk orders of Listen. Funds for this project will be solicited from civic-minded businessmen.

ELDER GORDON MATTISON, pastor at Fullerton, has accepted a call to join the faculty of Walla Walla College.

EARL LABRY, literature evangelist leader in San Diego for the past 6½ years, has received and accepted a call to Hawaii as their publishing director. Earl and his family will be leaving for Hawaii this month. NEIL BUSBY, leader in Orange County for the past 18 months, has received and accepted a call to Montana as their publishing director.

MEET SUE NELSON — She's one of five individuals to join the Northridge Church in the last year. Miss Nelson (left) attended a Five-Day Plan in January, started coming to church in February and was baptized in April. This year's Lynwood Convocation was her first. Sue has been on the nursing staff of the Northridge Hospital (critical care unit) for six and a half years. She is a Dallas, Texas, girl and a graduate of Pierce College. Evelyn Moore (right), who is connected with the dietary department at the Granada Hills Community Hospital, is the coordinator of the Five-Day Plan there. The other four who have joined the church involve an entire family—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Roddy and their two adult daughters.

Update ... from the president

ELDER EUEL ATCHLEY was introduced as the new pastor of the White Memorial Church on July 17, coming from the Mountain View Church in Central California Conference.

BREATH OF LIFE is now seen on Channel 13 at 9:30 each Sunday evening. Already the mail indicates that viewers have attended Adventist churches as a result of the telecast.

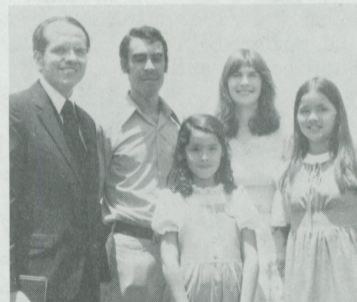

BAPTISMS for the second quarter of 1976 are not yet complete, but the church clerk reports at this writing indicate over 466 have been united with the church by baptism and profession of faith. We thank God for each of these new converts and pray they will be encouraged in their new faith by the officers and members of our churches.

THE ADVENTIST BOOK CENTER is sponsoring a parking lot used-book sale and open house Sunday, September 12, 10-4. Any church school or individual may bring used books to sell. Special discounts on new books will also be offered.

ELDER ORA McLEAN of the Upper Columbia Conference has been elected by the Conference Committee to serve as the lay activities secretary for the Conference.

REVIEW AND HERALD EMPHASIS—September 11-October 9. Be sure to fortify your mind with the great truths of the Advent message.

SCHOOL OPENS in just a few days. Every child from Adventist homes should be in an Adventist school this fall. A boy or girl in the Kingdom is worth any sacrifice.

Pine Hills Gets New Principal

Robert Gladden, his wife Sue and their two children have moved to Auburn from Dinuba where he served for seven years as teacher and principal at Dinuba Junior Academy. Mr. Gladden is the new principal of Pine Hills Junior Academy. Plans are under way for an excellent school year.

Other staff members are Elsie Williams, Vicki Hamilton, Jerry Zappia, Chris Johnsen, and Ron Ritterscamp. Home and School leader is Diana Blackburn. Dale Deane is school board chairman.

To supplement and enhance the scholastic program, Mr. Gladden plans to initiate intramural sports program involving students, staff, and even parents. Interested students may also enroll in the auto mechanics program.

On the spiritual side, students will be involved in planning and participating in chapel programs, choir trips, youth witnessing teams, Week of Prayer, and similar activities.

Parents of prospective students may contact Mr. Gladden for further information by calling the school, (916) 885-9447, or by writing directly to the school, PHJA, 202 Dairy Road, Auburn, CA 95603.

Registration is set for September 2, with school starting September 7. Auburn is located 30 miles northeast of Sacramento.

Cloverdale Program Discusses Weight Problems

The 44 persons who registered for the Wa-Rite Program begun recently at the Cloverdale church weighed in at a total of 8,626½ pounds.

The film "Melinda" was shown on opening night, followed by registration and testing. Dr. Ken Ridgley of Ukiah conducted the physician's interview for each Wa-Riter. Six registered nurses of the Cloverdale congregation helped record height and weight, blood pressure, resting pulse and skinfold.

Guest speakers were scheduled on successive evenings. Dorothy Toppenberg from Willits was interviewed regarding her weight loss and maintenance program. Leonard Wheeler of Rio Lindo Academy talked on the importance of proper and consistent exercise, and Myrna Plumlee of Pacific Union College gave a nutrition talk. Willard Clark, MD, of Healdsburg emphasized the physiological aspects of dieting.

Each Monday evening, lay members supported the professionals as cooking demonstrators, exercise leaders and commitment group counselors. All aspects of the Wa-Rite Program were geared to encourage each person to lose one to two pounds a week and to have a healthy attitude toward their diet.

While losing inches, each person gained insights into why he or she puts on weight and how the very serious possibility of heart disease, infections and other illnesses that plague the obese can be prevented.

Eight Are Baptized in Petaluma

Eight persons were baptized into Petaluma Church membership Sabbath, June 26, after months of study and preparation.

Former Pastor A. E. Anderson began studies with Judith White and George and Toni Holt. These continued in the subsequent Pastor's Class with Elder E. D. Sorensen.

Judith influenced Mel Bliss to begin attending services at the church by bringing him first to prayer meeting a few months ago.

Leland Kinard and Michelle Rogers are students at Redwood Junior Academy where a baptismal class has been conducted by Santa Rosa Associate Pastor Ted Allen.

Brenda Lemos, although not able to attend church school, has given her heart to Jesus, but she prayed for her older brother Adam "so we can be baptized together." They were!

Answering the phone recently, the pastor was greeted with "My wife and I want to become Seventh-day Adventists and join your church." A literature evangelist recently contacted a lady who is a former member of the Walla Walla, Washington, Church. She desires to return to the Lord and church fellowship.

Hayfork-Weaverville News

Youth Mission Service

Six Hayfork teenagers accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tomlin traveled to the Indian missions at Monument Valley, Utah, and Farmington, New Mexico, recently to gain mission work experience. At La Vida Mission, which has 45 resident students, they painted dormitory walls, built cabinets and assisted with auto mechanic work and office detail. On the return trip, they visited the Grand Canyon and Mesa Verde national parks.

Baptisms

Eight Hayfork and Weaverville young people were baptized during June and July. Conference President Helmuth C. Retzer and Manteca-Escalon Pastor Francis Ruddle baptized seven in the Redding church. Redding Pastor Charles Mellor baptized one teenager in a mountain creek near Hayfork.

Five-Day Plan

A county supervisor, two realtors and a school administrator were among enrollees in a recent Weaverville Five-Day Plan. Doctors Earl Mercill and John Kizziar of Hayfork joined Pastor L. Ray Hixson in this outreach program. Church members prepared an attractive buffet supper as part of the follow-up program.

Cooking School

Conference Health Services Director Charles Edwards conducted a cooking school the week following the Five-Day Plan, assisted by members of the Weaverville Church.

Gift Bible Visitation

About 35 families are studying the Gift Bible lessons in Hayfork. Marianne Mercill, Linda Kizziar and Joy Krischen are members of a team conducting house-to-house visitation. One couple who retired in Hayfork two years ago are now church members as a result of studies with Dr. Mercill, who devotes several nights a week to Bible studies.

Vacation Bible School

One hundred children—mostly non-Adventist—enrolled in Hayfork's recent VBS directed by Linda Kizziar. The church was filled with many parents for the closing program and reception afterward.

Church School

Hayfork members have just completed construction of a two-room school about two miles from the church, under the supervision of Ernie Krischen, school board chairman. Grades one to eight have been taught in one of the Sabbath school rooms by Teacher Al Lindquist and Aide Bev Strawn. Three students were graduated from the eighth grade in June.

Pleasant Hill VBS Held

About 75 children attended the Pleasant Hill VBS June 14-24 directed by Nancy Muth. Two-thirds were from non-Adventist homes in the surrounding neighborhood.

Notwithstanding the very hot weather, the many capable helpers created a happy and profitable time for the children making crafts, learning Bible stories and singing.

Many of the children participated in the commencement program June 24, each child receiving a certificate of completion. Pastor Arthur Escobar spoke on "Building for the Lord." After the program refreshments were served on the church patio where crafts were displayed.

"We trust the many lessons learned by the children will be an influence for good throughout the entire community," said Mrs. Muth. "There is no better way to reach the parents than through their children."

Nine Join Filipino Church through Baptism

Conference President Charles Cook officiated at the baptism of nine persons who joined the San Francisco Filipino Church June 19.

Six of the candidates were fruits of the It Is Written Revelation Seminar held in San Francisco. The other three were from the pastor's Bible class.

Aurora Artates was contacted by a literature evangelist who sold her a set of The Bible Story. Her name was referred to the pastor who arranged for family Bible studies, leading to the baptism of Aurora's teenage children. Aurora wanted to be baptized with her husband, a mechanic for TWA.

After two years of church attendance and participation in the pastor's Bible class Aurora decided to be baptized without her husband. Now he says, "I am the only one who is not baptized in the family. I hope that I can get my Sabbaths off soon so I can be baptized and join my family."

Edgardo Herrera and his wife Elisa were active leaders in the Methodist Church in Manila, Philippines, where they were well known in musical circles.

Coming to this country, the couple was attracted to It Is Written, signing up for the Bible course. Church members visited Edgardo and Elisa, inviting them to services.

After sitting in the pastor's Bible class for over a year and finishing two sets of Bible lessons, they decided to join the Church.

Alex Jayme's first contact with the Adventist message was in the Philippines where he worked with Adventists. After he came to America, the influence and concern of his Adventist employer sparked Alex's interest in Bible study.

Alex soon accepted an invitation to attend the It Is Written Revelation Seminar held in Concord. After the seminar he and his wife Alice attended the Bible class at the Filipino church, which led to their decision to be baptized.

With a friend, Barbara Polzin visited different Adventist churches, the Soquel campground and Pacific Union College. She became aware of the lifestyle of Seventh-day Adventists.

She invited her husband, Lee, and their daughter, Martha, to attend the It Is Written Revelation Seminar. The Polzins commuted from Oakland across the Bay Bridge to Pacifica for 20 weeks to finish the series.

There was another sacrifice, too. Barbara had to quit her job so she could keep the Sabbath.

Romayne Molaug, of Norwegian stock, was a very conscientious Lutheran. Her regular viewing of It Is Written gave her deep insights on the Sabbath question. She decided to keep the Sabbath in addition to Sunday.

Romayne's attendance at the It Is Written Revelation Seminar in San Francisco led her to continue Bible studies conducted by the pastor of the Filipino Church, never missing a class in the 20-week series. When the pastor announced that a baptism would be conducted after the studies, Romayne was the first one to decide for the Lord. Now she is very happy in her newly-found faith and has begun sharing it with her husband and friends.

God is still working miracles in the lives of people.

Seminar Follow-up Brings Them to Decision

Among the early arrivals at San Francisco's It Is Written Revelation Seminar in January were Ariane Wenzel and Sally Gamero.

Ariane and Sally had worked together at the Bank of America some four years before. There they had become acquainted with co-worker Versi Williams, a Seventh-day Adventist whose consistent Christian witness favorably impressed the two young women.

Then Versi left the bank to become the Bible instructor at the Market Street church in Oakland. Ariane took a trip "down under" to Australia. Sally continued at the bank. Contact among the friends was lost, not to be renewed until January 25. Ariane, back from her long trip, and Sally both arrived early—and were surprised to see one another. Their old friendship was quickly renewed.

The seminar continued with meetings conducted at the San Francisco Central church. Ariane and Sally were among the 30 interests who attended regularly.

The Spirit of God was already working with Ariane. Soon she was baptized. To Ariane's joy, her old friend from the bank, Versi Williams, came from Oakland to wish her happiness in her new-found faith.

Sally began to attend the Sabbath services and the pastor's Bible class. When Sally was baptized in April, Versi again came to witness the happy occasion for old friends.

But even months before the San Francisco seminar, legal secretary Marlene Pierce had called to ask questions about the Seventh-day Adventist Church. She had been watching It Is Written and wanted to know more.

Invited to church, Marlene came, slipping into a pew next

Russell Heigh at SAWS warehouse site

SAWS Builds New Depot

In Watsonville, on Riverside at Harvest Drive, next to the city maintenance yard, stands a huge old fig tree. Its roots are deep in history. This tree will be the landmark for the new West Coast depot of Seventh-day Adventist World Services. Ground was broken June 7 for the 15,000 square-foot facility.

According to SAWS Manager Russell Heigh, the warehouse will house and process used clothing and medical equipment for overseas shipment.

SAWS West Coast Depot had an active part in supplying tents, clothing, and other supplies following the Guam typhoon. Earlier this year SAWS provided aid to victims of Guatemala's earthquake. At time of disaster, SAWS works closely with the Red Cross.

The western warehouse is presently located at Monterey Bay Academy. The move is being made because SAWS needs more warehouse space and the school needs the additional room for its own activities. The fig-tree site was chosen after a year-long search. Plans call for occupancy by early September.

to Lucy Agee, an Adventist who had just recently moved to San Francisco from New York City. At the time, Lucy had no special friends, so Marlene, the It Is Written interest, became her friend that Sabbath.

Throughout last year, they were much comfort to one another. When Marlene was baptized, Lucy rejoiced with her to see how God was leading in their lives.

Meanwhile, another It Is Written viewer had written to Elder Vandeman with questions about the Church. In time the letter came to me and I invited the writer, Nurse Isabel Prado, to attend the San Francisco Seminar.

She couldn't come—she was on duty—but she readily joined the pastor's Bible class. From the start she never missed a Sabbath. Two weeks into the series, Isabel requested baptism. Following more Bible studies in her home, Isabel joined the Church.

The It Is Written Revelation Seminar continues in San Francisco even though the original 20 lessons have long since been completed. Six of the group have been baptized. God will bring many others. Of this we are confident.

A BAPTISM HELD July 17 for 17 persons was the culmination of efforts in both San Francisco and San Jose by the San Francisco Samoan Church. Ranging in age 11-70, the new Adventists come from such diverse faiths as Bahai, Catholic, Congregational, Mormon, and Pentecostal. The final night of the Samoan Church's crusade (held in the San Francisco Tabernacle church) saw a large crowd of visitors and members witness the presentation of Bibles, books, and diplomas to individuals who had completed a 24-lesson Bible course. Pastor S. I. Afa'ese (right) was assisted by enthusiastic members in the total program.

The roof goes on the addition to the Tucson Seventh-day Adventist Junior Academy.

Tucson Adds to School

God's work in the Tucson area has been strengthened by the addition of grades nine and ten to the school plant. Church members have discussed plans for a junior academy for several years, since the boarding academy is over 100 miles away.

Last year, with the addition of another teacher, James Nick, eight students were taught on the secondary level in the library. Because of the crowded quarters, a building was begun last spring.

Scheduled for completion this month, the addition will house the ninth and tenth grades, plus a music room and storage area.

Constituent churches Desert Valley, Santa Rita, Sharon, and Tucson Spanish realize that "nothing is of greater importance than the education of our children and young people."

Arizona Conference Ordains Three Workers

Three Arizona Conference workers were ordained during the worship hour at camp meeting, Sabbath, July 24.

Conference President E. Frank Sherrill preached the ordination sermon. Secretary-treasurer Tom H. Bledsoe gave the charge, retired evangelist G. D. O'Brien offered the ordination prayer, and Elder Sherrill welcomed the men to the ordained ministry.

Elder and Mrs. Reuben Wangerin have served in the Arizona Conference for the past 11 years. Beginning denominational service in 1942, Elder Wangerin worked at the Pacific Press, then went to East Africa as manager of the Africa Herald Publishing House in Kenya, he later served as publishing and Sabbath school director for the East African Union.

When the Wangerins returned to the United States, Elder Wangerin managed Book and Bible houses in Nevada-Utah, Greater New York, and in Arizona. For the past five years Elder Wangerin has directed the stewardship and trust services departments.

In 1940 Reuben Wangerin married Frieda Heubach, who took secretarial science at Pacific Union College. Mrs. Wangerin has been secretary to the treasurer of the Arizona Conference for 11 years.

The Wangerins have two daughters, Sharon Tymeson, an elementary school teacher, and Eileen Hoover, a nurse.

Elder and Mrs. Don R. Keele have lived at Thunderbird Adventist Academy for the past three years, where Elder Keele has served as principal.

Elder Keele has been a teacher, dean of boys and principal in Tennessee, South Carolina and Maryland before coming to Arizona.

Mrs. Keele, the former Della Victoria Sanderson, is a native Tennessean as is her husband. Mrs. Keele serves as a secretary at Thunderbird.

For the past four years Elder and Mrs. E. Ed Holton have pastored in the Arizona Conference. First in the East Mesa-Chandler-Apache Junction district and for the past year in the Prescott-Wickenburg district.

Before entering the ministry, Elder Holton worked in management in accounting, insurance, sales and adult education.

Mrs. Holton is the former Betty Jo Mullins of Texas. She is a graduate of the Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, Lubbock, Texas.

Pastor and Mrs. Holton have three daughters: Tracy, a sophomore at Union College; Edie, a junior at Thunderbird, and Stephanie, a fifth-grader at Prescott Adventist elementary school.

Chinle Church Holds VBS

On a recent Sunday morning, Mrs. David Lomeland took the Holbrook Mission van and, in several trips, picked up four dozen energetic Indian children ranging 4-13 years of age. The children were driven to the Vacation Bible School being held in the newly built Chinle Adventist church.

Veteran Indian worker Mrs. Frank Daugherty and the Orville Shermans went door to door announcing the VBS and inviting children to come.

Each day began with the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by gospel songs and stories. At craft time the boys made wooden airplanes while the girls constructed small clock shelves.

Sixteen children have begun attending Sabbath school. It is hoped this group can form the core for a regular Sabbath school in Chinle.

Maranatha Church Work

During their month's work a 27x130-foot Sabbath school departmental building was built and completed except for some finishing details.

Cement was poured for the church, and the building was framed and the walls put up.

The volunteers were housed in the Newbury Park Adventist Academy dormitories, except for those who had brought their own campers or trailers. While in Thousand Oaks, Maranathans also held their first International Convention.

Membership of the MFI is now nearing 1,500. John Freeman of Berrien Springs, Michigan, is founder and president; Leon Slickers, vice-president; Caris H. Lauda, executive secretary and chaplain; Kay Slickers, secretary, and F. H. Vanden Heuvel, project coordinator.

"We are planning to be in our new church in September," says Rockne Dahl, pastor of the congregation. "The sanctuary will seat 350 (400 including choir), and will be valued at $500,000."

Labor Union Discussion

of their failure to join or financially support a labor union organization in violation of deeply-held religious convictions; and a recent decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, whose opinion affirmed the decision of EEOC.

Other factors undoubtedly have been influential. In four states (Oregon, Washington, Montana, and Alaska) where public employees had been given conscience-clause protection by law, no serious repercussions have adversely affected organized labor. More legislatures on both the state and national levels have become convinced that this is not an anti-labor issue any more than the conscientious objector beliefs of Adventists during World War II were anti-American.

Testifying at the hearing on behalf of the bill introduced by Mr. Erlenborn, from the district that includes Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, were the following: Congresswoman Shirley Pettis (R-Calif.); Congressman Don Clausen (R-Calif.); Congressman Robert Duncan (D-Ore.), of Portland, who had been involved previously in efforts to enact such legislation; Congressman Floyd Hicks (D-Wash.), from the district that includes Auburn Academy; Elder W. Melvin Adams, director of the Department of Public Affairs and Religious Liberty of the General Conference; and Leonard R. Baldwin, of the Plymouth Brethren No. 4.

Because of the lateness in this session of Congress and the lack of time before the fall congressional campaigns and elections, it is doubtful the Congress will have time to act on the bill this year. One reason for conducting hearings at this time, Mr. Thompson's aide said, was to create a record in this session of Congress, giving it priority as old business when the new Congress convenes.

A mural of trees and tents sets the mood for the "camp meetings" being held at La Sierra. The scene was painted by Jan Schneider. Also pictured are the 40 costumed missionaries who belong to the church.

All Summer Camp Meeting Being Held at La Sierra

Camp meeting has been going on all summer long at La Sierra. A mission pageant, guest speakers, extra special music and folding chairs have all contributed to the spirit of services being held in the Alumni Pavilion while the La Sierra church is being renovated.

Song service starts the Sabbath worship hour at 8:30. Children gather in the front on the floor for the weekly story. Sabbath school follows the church service, then members head home before the heat of the day.

LLU/LA SIERRA

Behavioral Science Division Combines Departments

Loma Linda University's newest academic division combines the departments of anthropology-sociology; marriage, family, and child counseling; psychology; and social work into the division of behavioral sciences. The programs in administration of justice and Middle Eastern studies are also part of the division.

Formed July 1 within the College of Arts and Sciences, the division is directed by Anees A. Haddad, associate professor of sociology and coordinator of the Middle Eastern studies program.

A native of Lebanon, Haddad graduated from Middle East

"You must give some time to your fellow men. Even if it's a little thing, do something for those who have need of help, something for which you get no pay but the privilege of doing it."
 Albert Schweitzer

College in Beirut, and first worked as a minister in the Mid-East Division. He earned a master's degree in sociology from LLU. At the University of Southern California he specialized in the study of the family, earning a doctoral degree.

"The behavioral sciences are being strengthened by pulling the departments together," Haddad says.

Even before the division was formed, one out of every six undergraduate matriculating seniors in 1976 was from departments now within the division. The marriage, family, and child counseling department offers one of the newest of the University's graduate degrees, but Haddad says it is quickly becoming a much-sought-after degree. LLU is the only school in the denomination to offer a graduate program in this field.

Fifteen degree programs are offered by the division, four graduate and 11 undergraduate.

"Our majors are practical and we help in the placement of our students," says Haddad. "Every one of our master's graduates has a job."

A publication has been compiled by Vern Andress, assistant professor of psychology, to help the graduating senior prepare a résumé or apply to graduate school. It tells the student where to find a job suited to his educational background and how to land the job once it is found. Hints on how to have a successful interview are featured.

Field placement for on-the-job training while the student is still in school is an important characteristic of many behavioral science curriculums. Students pursuing careers in counseling, social work, and administration of justice are all given first-hand experience at various agencies in the San Bernardino-Riverside area.

Haddad sees the division serving not only students, but the entire University family and the Church as well. Each year the department of sociology-anthropology conducts a special orientation program for prospective student missionaries. A number of division faculty members hold dual teaching appointments in other schools within the University.

In an effort to open the lines of communication with denominational workers in the areas of behavioral science, a quarterly publication, The Adventist Behavioral Scientist, is being produced by division personnel. A series of monographs on missions is also being published.

"Adventist behavioral scientists are distinct from others in the profession," Haddad contends. "We interpret the theories of behavioral science in light of our beliefs."

Hamilton Gets New Post

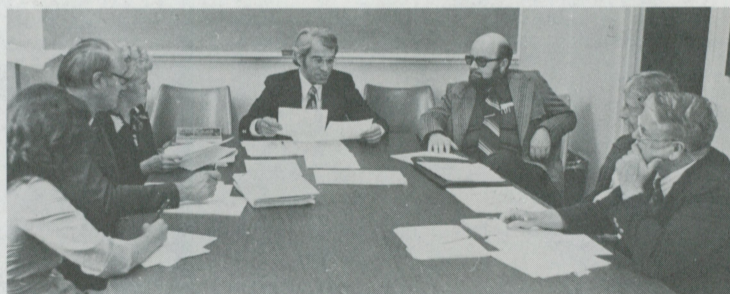

John T. Hamilton, director of public relations for the La Sierra Campus, assumed the added responsibility of Alumni Coordinator July 1.

He now serves as liaison between the alumni associations, the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education and President of the University.

Bailey Gillespie, president of the College of Arts and Sciences Alumni Association; Erwin Mack, president of the School of Education Alumni Association; and Donald Prior, vice-president for public relations and development, conferred with President V. Norskov Olsen in making the appointment.

Hamilton's talents are well known by the alumni. He has been "Mr. Music Man" at La Sierra for almost 30 years. In 1948 he started the "Collegians" which later became the "La Sierrans."

Activities of the alumni office on the La Sierra Campus will be administered by Hamilton.

Newly appointed director of the Division of Behavioral Sciences, Anees A. Haddad holds a staff meeting with the department chairmen. Pictured from left are Margaret Stevens, departmental secretary; Peter G. Strutz, chairman, department of psychology; June L. Horsley, chairman, department of social work; Dr. Haddad; Vern Andress, assistant professor of psychology; Fred Osbourn, chairman, marriage, family, and child counseling; and John Elick, chairman, department of anthropology-sociology.
