

U.C. STUDENT ASSOCIATION CONSTITUTION IS ADOPTED

On Thursday and Friday mornings, February 23 and 24, the long-awaited Student Association constitution was presented to the students in chapel. This constitution was the result of many long hours of discussion and hard work by the Student-Staff Council.

As is the custom with new bills coming up for passage by the student body, this constitution was posted for observation three school days before its presentation. It was apparently well scrutinized by several individuals for the presentation brought some lively discussion and proposals for amendments. However, after a half hour of discussion following the full reading of the constitution, it was adopted by the students with no alterations.

It was brought out that a Student Association improperly run will cause more harm than good and that there must also be a cooperative and harmonious spirit between the students and faculty if the Student Association is to succeed.

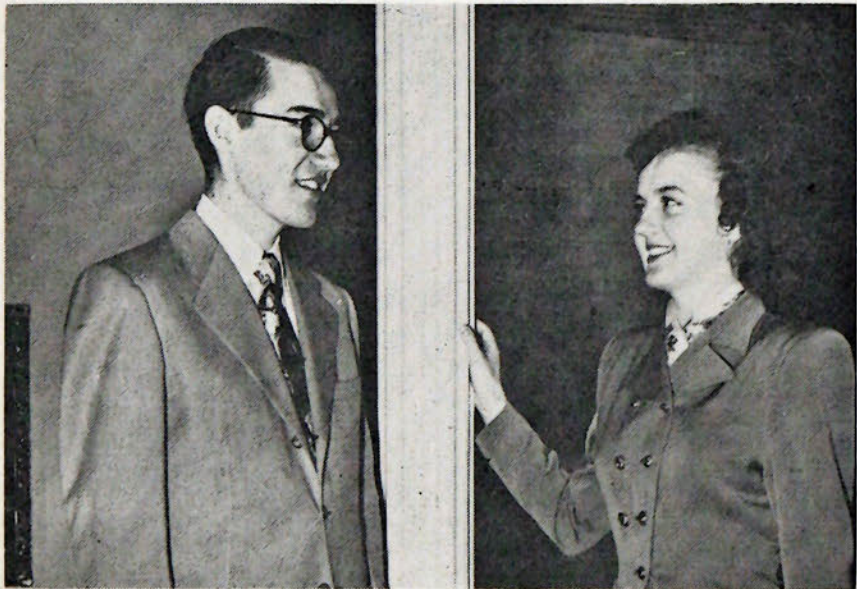

According to the adopted constitution the association will be a coordinating and not a governing body between the different clubs and other student-staff organizations.

The officers of the association will consist of a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and assistant secretary-treasurer. These will constitute the Officers Council whose duty it will be to take care of the association's business and see that all recommendations and actions are carried through the correct channels speedily. The officers of the association will also be members of the Student-Staff Council.

Provision is made for a Leaders Forum which will be made up of the presidents of all the campus clubs and will meet regularly to discuss problems which may arise on the campus.

The constituent student-staff organizations which will constitute the main committees of the association are as follows: Officers Council, Nominations and Elections committee, Courtesy committee, Promotion committee, CLOCK TOWER staff, Golden Cords staff, Student-Staff Council, and Leaders Forum.

Two Courtesy Candidates Are Chosen

Selected as the first bi-weekly candidates for the Spring courtesy coronation were Joan Sharp and Loicen Gabbert.

Hailing from Beemer, Nebraska, Joan is a junior with education and home economics as her majors. Among her other interests are the Colporteur Club and the noonday "Power Hour." She is known for her kindly smile and friendly disposition.

Loicen is a freshman religion major and calls Grant City, Missouri his home. Temperance work and Christian salesmanship are included in his "spare time" activities. His contagious smile and friendly interest in others have been a contribution to Union's friendly spirit.

Howe is to Conduct Week of Prayer

Elder W. A. Howe, Educational and M.V. secretary of the Southwestern Union Conference, will conduct the Spring Week of Prayer, which begins tonight.

Miss Marjory Jones, dean of women at Broadview Academy, and Elder K. D. Johnson, M.V. and Temperance secretary of the Texas Conference, will be here to assist Elder Howe.

Elder Howe plans to conduct this Week of Prayer on a more personal basis than the usual Week of Prayer. He wants to give each student the opportunity for a personal interview.

CLASS OF '50 CHOOSES GIFT

The senior class voted Saturday night that a campus lighting project would be the class gift to its Alma Mater.

The lighting will be of modern fluorescent type that will add beauty to the campus as well as efficient illumination.

The cost of the fixtures has been estimated at about $800 exclusive of installation.

The senior class gift committee spent much time culling and investigating the many suggestions that were offered. The vote Saturday night was taken on three suggestions—campus lighting, an ornamental fountain, and a school endowment fund. A large majority voted for the lighting after discussion of the three.

Temperance Society Oratorical Contest Is Tomorrow Night

There is much anticipation and interest in the annual oratorical contest to be held March 4 at 8:00 p.m. in the college gym. Elder W. A. Scharffenberg will be on the campus for the week end and will act as one of the oratorical contest judges.

Also visiting will be all the M.V. societies of the Seventh-day Adventist churches within driving distance of Union College.

Students attending chapel on March 3 will hear the orations of the 4 top academy student winners. These academy winners are coming from the various academies in the Central Union Conference. An interesting Sabbath School is also planned for the week end sponsored by the American Temperance Society.

Nominations, Elections Committee Adds New Members

The Nominations and Elections Committee has had its membership increased from nine to nineteen, as was voted by the student body sometime ago.

The membership consists of one staff member and eighteen students as follows: Three students from each of the four college classes, two from each dormitory, and two from the village.

Those elected for the second semester are as follows:

Classes Enjoy Parties

The sophomores had their class party at Robber's Cave last Saturday night. Approximately one hundred of them left the campus in two large city buses. They arrived a little after eight o'clock and went into the cave where a warm fire had already been prepared for them. Soon everyone was busy exploring the various tunnels in the cavern.

Margaret Pederson Wins Diamond Medal

Margaret Pederson is the second Unionite to win the Gregg Diamond Medal for successfully passing the 200 words per minute official shorthand examination for February. A new test is given each month. Miss Pederson had been diligently practicing under Mrs. Minium's direction.

The examination is brought to the college in a sealed envelope by a representative of the Gregg Publishing Corporation. It is opened by the one who is to dictate the test in the presence of two officials of the Gregg Publishing Company. Neither the teacher nor the student taking the test has ever seen the material before. This information on how the test is given is to correct the mistaken notion that the material for these official examinations has been practiced before.

Three short films were shown inside the cave in one of the longer tunnels. This provided the evening with plenty of laughs. Afterwards, hot chocolate and doughnuts were served. Following refreshments, Mr. Beaven relayed to the students the contents of a letter which he had just received from "Sad-Sack Stokes," the class president, who was in Colorado on a tumbling tour.

Mr. Beaven then told some hair-raising ghost stories. One of them, however, had more hair-pulling than hair raising.

At the cry of "all aboard" everyone headed for the buses. The faculty members who helped make the party a success were: Elder and Mrs. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Beaven, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Roehl, and Mr. and Mrs. Hense.

Mission Band Presents Memorial Service

A ceremony in memory of the late Elder Charles W. Robbins was presented by the Union College Mission Band at the Vesper hour, February 17.

Elder Don R. Rees, president of the Kansas Conference, told of the conversion of Elder Robbins in 1942, and his later activities.

Nature picture slides were shown to introduce the memorial program. Elder Robbins' picture was then put on the screen while Laurice Adams read, "In Remembrance"; Robert Pound sang "Lest We Forget," and James Hudgins prayed that Elder Robbins' "going might not be in vain, but that others might take up where he left off and that the example he left might inspire others to go out with a Golden Cord."

class Saturday night, February 25. Everyone assembled in the recital room of Engel Hall at 7:30 p.m. to organize into groups. Each carload made up a separate group and had a different list of things to obtain. Catalogs, license plates, butter-milk cartons, Prestone containers, railroad timetables, etc. were on the different lists of required materials. Prizes were awarded to the first three cars to return.

Refreshments of punch and doughnuts awaited the ambitious hunters as they returned with their "loot." The first car returned in less than one-half hour while the last one returned after one and one-half hours of searching. Table games took up the remainder of the evening.

FRESHMEN HAVE BARN PARTY, SEE FILM

Did some one say something about a Sadie Hawkins party? If one were to observe the appearance of the freshmen Saturday night, you would think some one must have sent a rumor around. Personalities

By VIRGINIA REYNOLDS

★ Bebe Kaldahl, a freshman nursing student, is one of North Hall's assets. She always has a ready smile through which her personality radiates. Being from San Francisco, she has that California look, her smooth tan blending quite well with her blonde hair and sparkling blue eyes.

If you second semester students do not yet know Bebe, you can look for her in the gym where she will be skating or taking part in a basketball game. Or drop in on a band rehearsal and you'll see her playing in the percussion section.

She is planning on going to summer school next summer in order that she may be ready to enter the Boulder-Porter School of Nursing next fall. We'll be seeing you there, Bebe.

★ One of our juniors, Don Woodruff, comes from Cuba, Missouri. He is majoring in mathematics with the thought of teaching after graduation. One might mention he has had two years' teaching experience already. Don is also interested in research work and would like to get into that field sometime, or perhaps radio physics, radio being one of his chief interests.

During the war Don was a RM3C on the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Bunker Hill. He saw action in the Northwest Pacific Theater, Okinawa, and Japan.

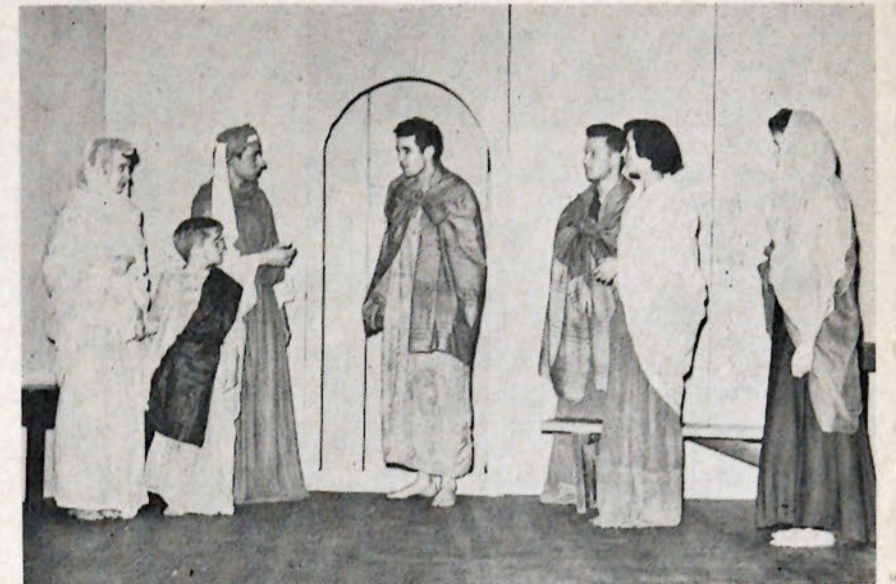

Last semester he held the office of vice-president of the male chorus. Don has many varied interests and we're certain he will do well in whatever he chooses.

M.V. Presents "He Came Seeing"

"He Came Seeing," a play written by Mary Hamlin, was presented by the Speech Club at the M.V. meeting Sabbath afternoon, February 18. The purpose of this play was to instill in the minds of people a greater knowledge of the truths we find in the Bible. The acting out of certain portions of the scriptures made the word of God impressive.

The play took place in Asa's home at the time of Christ's great ministry on this earth, and when the audience saw Joab, played by Delmar Tonge, healed by God they could see the reason why an individual would stand up for God who not only gave him physical sight but spiritual sight. His father, Asa, was played by Ed Ortner. Lois Jaynes portrayed Judith, his mother, who turned Joab out of his home because he was determined to follow His master. Hilkiah, portrayed by Bob Widener, was Asa's master and a Pharisee; Anna, was played by Velma Johnson. Both rejected Joab's message of our Saviour and turned him out as an outcast. By this act the neighbors were influenced to turn away from Joab. The neighbors included Carol Johnson, Ellis Olson, Billie Wright, and Marvin Case. Dick Townsend was the little boy in the play.

Carol Johnson, Dick Townsend, Bob Widener, Delmar Tonge, Ellis Olson, Lois Jaynes, and Velma Johnson as they appeared in the play, "He Came Seeing."

ALUMNI HERE AND THERE

Friends of Joe Espinosa, '49, were happy to see him back on the campus for a week-end visit. Joe is interning in the Texico Conference.

Two of last year's graduates who are now teaching, Ivy Jo Larsen and Mavis Emmerson, were recently seen here. Ivy Jo is teaching in Colorado, and Mavis, in Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Thomas, '46, have adopted a son, David Bruce. He is now four months old. Vernon is in his senior year in medicine and Coramae is dean of women at the White Memorial Hospital.

Carol Thomson, '49, of the Missouri Conference office, was here this past week-end.

La Veta Payne, '40, who was one of the gas victims at the Platte Valley Academy tragedy February 19, is recovering at her home here in College View. Her brother, Marcus Payne, '46, a worker in the Nebraska Conference, was here for a short time after she was brought home from the hospital.

G. Herbert Fleenor, '49, now stationed at Apartado Aereo 609, Medellin, Colombia, South America sends this message: "We are under martial law, with an 8:00 o'clock curfew, a strict censorship of mail, newspapers, and radio. Some horrible stories can be told from down here, some even worse than told in Great Controversy during the Dark Ages. Hundreds of our church members are refugees and have lost their homes, farms, and all earthly belongings, but God has protected them and only one has lost his life as far as we know. I have been arrested twice by the Secret Service Police along with others, but God is graciously caring for us all."

Cleo L. Speth, a graduate of Union College, '49, was married January 12 to Russel Anderson at Alcester, South Dakota.

Warner and Graves Are Ministerial Association Speakers

"When given an opportunity to go ingathering, or do some type of mission work, we college students use the excuse that we are too busy studying. But give us a chance to go to a movie or a basketball game, and we are there," said Jesse Graves at the Ministerial Association meeting, Friday night, February 17.

The two speakers for the evening were Dick Warner and Jesse Graves. Dick gave seven points in perfecting our characters, including the study of the scriptures and prayer. "We must put away preconceived ideas and ask God to guide our thoughts in our study of God's word to arrive at truth," Warner admonished.

"It's a good thing to talk to God about men, but it is better to talk to men about God," Graves said in summarizing his remarks.

Vespers Features Week of Prayer Theme

The Ministerial Association of Union College conducted the Vesper service in the College View Church on Friday night.

William Lehman, president of the association, acted as chairman and introduced the two speakers. He pointed out that our Week of Prayer differs from the prayer groups so common today in that we stress the individual experience rather than just the fact that it is a prayer week.

Joe Englekemier, the first speaker, took as his theme the question "Why don't we love Jesus more?" He explored the possibility of a reason why we should not love Jesus, and, finding none, concluded that we should seek to become more closely united with Him in the approaching Week of Prayer.

Daniel Townsend, the second speaker, stressed the fact that the Holy Spirit is being withdrawn from the world and that we must avail ourselves of His influence while He is still pleading with men.

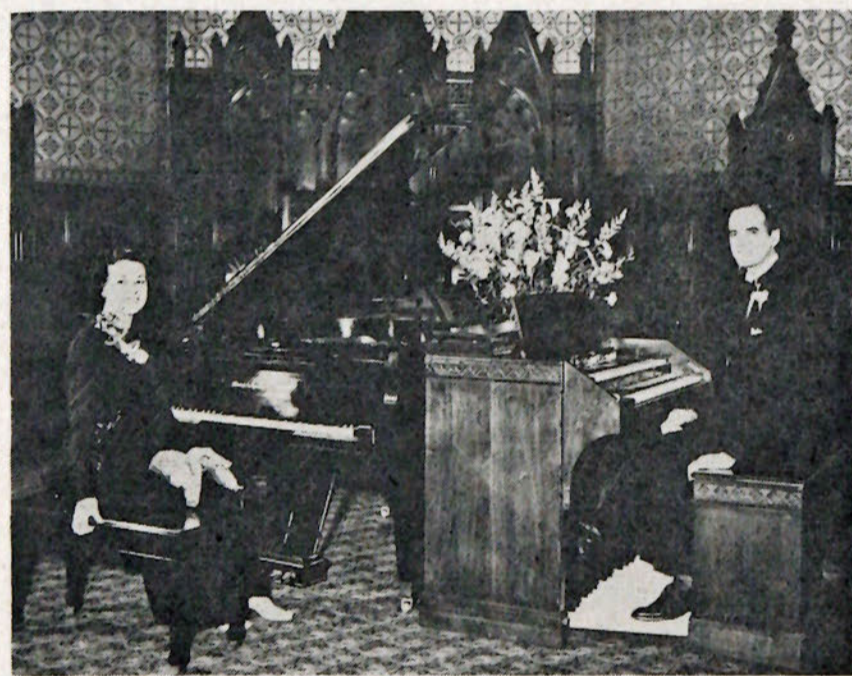

Merritt Schumann was chorister for the service, and the Treblettes, a girls trio composed of Eunice Olson, Bergitta Peterson, and LaVerne Vietz, sang the song, "A Little More Like Jesus."

Personal testimony was given by five persons who had been chosen to tell their experiences in past Weeks of Prayer. They were John Morris, Beverly Blost, Clifford Jaqua, Marilyn Nelson, and Harlyn Abel.

Patriotism is Theme of Speech Program

On February 21 and 22, the upper and lower division chapels listened to a patriotic program given by the speech department in charge of Mr. Logan and Mr. Beaven.

The program was given in the form of a pageant by two verse-speaking choirs composed of men. The choirs were robed in black and stood at either side of the stage.

In the opening scene the audience saw three gnome-like creatures, the historians who were pondering over history and were writing more books about it. Throughout the play it was learned that it is not only men such as Patrick Henry, John Brown, or Andrew Jackson that deserve honor, but it also belongs to those who have given their lives in war for their country.

One example in the pageant was of a young man from Paterson, New Jersey, who was pictured on an unnamed island, writing a letter home which undoubtedly was his last.

The second scene portrayed two young soldiers in a foxhole, one of whom had been wounded and was being cared for by the other. They had not known each other long, "but," said the choirs, "greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for one who has not yet become his friend."

In the third scene was depicted a mid-western mother receiving a telegram saying that her son had been killed in action.

As a closing thought the choirs stated that "there is a valor of Crown Point and Appomattox and Belleau Wood, but there is another valor unheralded, and unsung of boys like those previously mentioned, who gave their lives for their country."

Rose Chin, good bye. Don't be alarmed, he was only five years old. ★ Mr. Nelson asked his World Literature class to identify the word "skull" in a recent examination. One paper had this for an answer: "It's the hard bony substance encasing the brain. It is located atop the neck and forms a base for the scalp. If it were not for the skull, we would have trouble wearing hats. It is used on bottles to indicate they contain poison." Better study World Literature instead of Anatomy, Denny.

CLASS PARTIES

After a lot of laughs while playing charades and some other games, the style changed and an interesting film, "Danny Boy," was shown. Although it was sad in places, everything turned out beautifully and everyone went home feeling happy and gay again.

SENIORS' COSTUMING IS HIT OF PARTY

Seniors and their wives, husbands, dates, and children arrived promptly at 7:30 at the gym Saturday night, February 25, appropriately attired for the senior class "tacky" party. The various costumes themselves were enough to provide an evening's entertainment: some were unpressed, worn-out relics of by-gone years; some were new creations made of burlap or window curtains; and some just defied description. "Daniel Boone" was there with his bear-skin coat and rusty flint-look; back-woods mountain folk were there with their jugs and Big Ben clocks as time-pieces, and anyone in his "Sunday-go-to-meetin'" clothes was just definitely out of place. Eloise Tyrer received first prize for the best girl's costume; Charles Read received first prize for the best boy's costume, and Mr. and Mrs. George Pierson and their young daughter received the second prizes.

Shirley Boyer as chairman of the committee, was assisted by Charles Phillips, Burnett Tonge, Merlene Ogden, Versa Reed, and the co-operation and hearty support of the entire senior class.

★ On February 20, a male chorus, limited to 40 members, was organized by Professor Harlyn Abel. This male chorus consists entirely of businessmen of Lincoln.

★ On February 17, 1950, the Orpheus Male Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Hohensee, presented the lower division chapel program.

The curtain parted while the school song was being sung. The male chorus then sang:

"Down By the Ole Mill Stream," and "My Lovely Celia."

Richard Randolph played Gershwin's "Third Prelude," and the male chorus rendered two more numbers: "Wade in de Water," and "Plantation."

The Ambassador's Quartet sang "Lil' Close Harmony," and "Little Red Schoolhouse."

The male chorus closed the program by singing "Northern Lights," "Bendemeer's Stream," and "A Spirit Flower." As an encore they sang the Union College pep song.

The members of the chorus wore their new uniforms of red jackets, dark pants, formal shirts, black bow ties, and black sashes. This is the first time they have appeared in their uniforms.
