MORE THAN A THOUSAND well wishers gathered on the grounds of the new Weimar Institute on a recent Sabbath in a commitment of the 457-acre former medical facility to a center for education and rehabilitation. Located midway between Sacramento and Lake Tahoe on Interstate 80, Weimar Institute was purchased by a group of laymen dedicated to combining the medical, educational, and spiritual ministries of the Church in a united team. Dick Winn, former associate pastor of the Pacific Union College Church, serves as interim director, though ultimately he will be chaplain at the facility which was a tuberculosis sanitarium operated by a 15-county board.

Myers Coordinates Adventist World Radio in Europe

With more than financial support, the Pacific Union continues to back Adventist World Radio/Europe. Ron Myers has replaced Allan Steele as the second coordinator of operations from the Lisbon, Portugal, transmitter.

Ron, whose voice was heard from stations in Glendale and San Bernardino, now produces and voices 30 of the 75 minutes of English schedule weekly. He also coordinates the 10-program production centers in other languages and 16 independent Bible correspondence schools for AWR/Europe.

Anne maintains the office and correspondence with growing thousands of radio DX enthusiasts and others who write from everywhere in the world.

They are also responsible for AWR News and regular contact publications with English speaking listeners around the world.

"It wouldn't take much arm twisting to persuade us to stay beyond our initial one-year term," Ron writes. "There are so many needs, and so few workers."

Besides AWR, Ron and Anne are involved with local members and townspeople whom they find "wide open to the gospel.

"Among the Church's greatest needs in Portugal are a full-color press, a local Lisbon radio station (now possible under the new constitution), and faith that God is big enough to back up His promises to supply all our needs.

Witness with a Fair Exhibit

Have you ever worked your way along a street, tapping on doors and handing householders tracts until you gave up and went home to nurse your sore feet?

You can do a lot more tract distributing and friendly chatting without pressing a doorbell or climbing a porch stair. Have you tried it?

How?

Several million non-Adventists pop out of those doors and hustle down those stairs and roar away to the county or state fair each year. They can be coming your way! You can reach them right there at the great crossroads of humanity—the fairgrounds.

More than 100 churches each year follow the instruction of Ellen White and take time out from their ordinary duties to construct and man an exhibit at the fair for their church. Sometimes the emphasis is health, sometimes temperance, sometimes youth, sometimes good food.

This year it can be a spiritual message—something that will provide a more direct route to

Radio Possibilities Examined by GC

Most exciting possibility on the horizon is the exploration of up to three Adventist-owned-and-operated world-outreach radio stations.

The General Conference Committee has approved funds for a feasibility study by a firm of technical experts in the field of broadcasting. The study asks what equipment and facilities will be required in order to beam the Church's message into otherwise unreachable areas of earth.

The company has been provided with the audiences we hope to reach and four locations have been suggested as possible transmitter sites. In one location the company has been asked to study the possibility of reaching into mainland China via medium wave, if necessary going up to 250,000 watts. Other transmitters would concentrate on use of shortwave.

The divisions involved are interested, and laymen of the denomination have indicated strong interest in supporting such a project. They are not talking pennies in their interest either, but in the six- and even seven-figure range of finance.

Pending findings of the study, which will begin immediately, action will be recommended to Annual Council in October. In the interim the department is exploring the program scheduling and production problems as well as licensing and personnel. Locations must be in areas with fairly stable governments.

The proposition of church-operated facilities is based on the fact that this makes it possible to be on the air as many hours of the day as we can man the station and produce programs, and the programs can sound a clear message.

Cost over a period of 15 years would not be as great as part-time purchase of air time under restricted programming conditions.

Pine Springs To Host Black Youth Conference

The Black Youth Bible Conference is expanding. To be held at Pine Springs Ranch, August 25-28, 1977, it promises to be a rich mental, physical, social and spiritual experience.

This Union-sponsored event was first held in 1975 at the Soquel Campgrounds with 130 youth in attendance. Last year, some 259 youth from all over the Pacific Union converged on Camp Cedar Falls for a "mountain-top" experience.

The conference is not only expanding numerically, it is also expanding its subject areas. This year's conference will offer 16 separate workshops to choose from, compared with 10 last year. New workshops include such topics as spiritual gifts, how to grow spiritually, youth leadership, Christian dating, Biblical views on sex, so-

STUDENT CENTER IN GUADALAJARA

For many years Seventh-day Adventist young people seeking to enter the medical profession have enrolled at the University of Guadalajara, because Loma Linda University could not accommodate everyone who sought such training. As this is not a Seventh-day Adventist university, the young people found themselves pretty much on their own, so far as their relationship to the Church was concerned. And some have slipped away from Adventist fellowship.

Plans are now in operation to help remedy this situation, to make possible continuing fellowship with those of like faith while students are studying in an otherwise secular atmosphere. An Adventist student center has received General Conference and Inter-American Division approval and is under construction at Guadalajara. A pastor will be assigned to this center to help provide spiritual food for the students. Parents may know that their young people are no longer alone when they begin their studies at this non-Adventist university.

INSPIRATION SAYS

"There are many whose hearts are aching under a load of care because they seek to reach the world's standard. They have chosen its service, accepted its perplexities, adopted its customs. Thus their character is marred, and their life made a weariness. In order to gratify ambition and worldly desires, they wound the conscience, and bring upon themselves an additional burden of remorse. The continual worry is wearing out the life forces. Our Lord desires them to lay aside this yoke of bondage. He invites them to accept his yoke; He says, 'My yoke is easy, and My burden is light.' He bids them seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and His promise is that all things needful to them for this life shall be added. Worry is blind, and cannot discern the future; but Jesus sees the end from the beginning. In every difficulty He has His way prepared to bring relief. Our heavenly Father has a thousand ways to provide for us, of which we know nothing. Those who accept the one principle of making the service and honor of God supreme will find perplexities vanish, and a plain path before their feet."

Ted Jones Arrives in Northern as Market and E Street Pastor

Elder Theodore (Ted) T. Jones II, recently arrived in Northern to pastor the Stockton Market and E Street Church. He has served as associate editor of The Message Magazine at the Southern Publishing Association since August, 1975.

Ted Jones

A graduate of Oakwood College with a theology major, Elder Jones earned an MA in theology from Potomac University.

From 1958 to 1968 Elder Jones was a pastor-evangelist in the Central California Conference. Then he was called to the Far Eastern Division to serve as ministerial secretary, evangelist and teacher in the West and East Indonesia unions.

In 1971 he returned to Central California as associate lay activities and inner city director. Later, he returned to the mission field as chairman of the theology department at Bugema Adventist College in Uganda.

The Joneses have the distinction of being the first Adventist Black American family assigned to the Far Eastern Division, where he conducted evangelistic crusades in West New Guinea and Kuching, Sarawak, in East Malaysia.

We extend a warm welcome to the Jones family as they give strong leadership to the church and community in Stockton.

ELDER LAWRENCE M. NELSON was the evangelist for a two-week series in Camino recently. More than 30 persons made decisions for baptism. Pastor Don Winger was music director. The nightly program included children's movies, visual-aid preaching, special music and printed sermons.

Inner City Programs Can Help Prevent Delinquency

Church inner city programs are needed to help prevent youth from repeat sentences to state correctional institutions, according to James J. Ware, Jr., California Youth Authority board member.

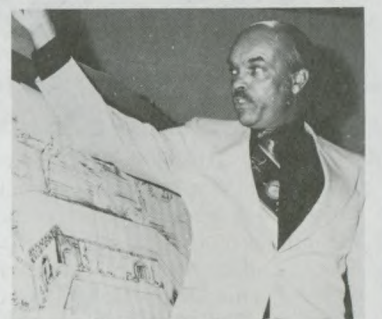

Ware spoke July 24 to community leaders and government officials at a Conference-sponsored rally held in the Inner City Community Services Center, 3600 Fifth Avenue, Sacramento.

Before many youth offenders are released, Ware said, he believes it's necessary that there be some type of inner city program available to help them readjust. "Some convicts stay in prison until the day they die because they do not have a concerned inner city dia the person has committed robbery, murder or rape soon after release. "You can imagine how I feel," he said, "knowing if we had just kept him locked up a day or two longer, someone might not have been a victim."

Urging Adventists to continue the work of the Center, Ware said most youngsters who turn to crime begin at a very early age.

The Center has been operated adjacent to McClatchy Park for four years and is staffed by full-time professionals and students from Oakwood College, Pacific Union College and Loma Linda University. It offers tutorial education, outdoor recreation, gymnastic and musical training during the sum-that PUC plans to operate a field school at the Center as soon as needed improvements are completed. Faculty members assigned to the field school will instruct and supervise 40 students each quarter on a year-round basis.

Although Adventists have provided the funding for the Center's operation, Inner City children and youth of all faiths are served.

program to train them to cope in today's society."

Stressing the importance of the Center and similar organizations in Sacramento, Ware said 47 per cent of youth who come before the CYA are from broken homes, 33 per cent are from poverty neighborhoods, 21 per cent already have criminal records and 52 per cent have parents with criminal records.

After releasing a young person from a correctional facility, Ware said, frequently he will learn through the news me-mer and fall months.

Lawrence Will, MD, chairman of the Nonprofit Inner City Corporation of Seventh-day Adventists, announced plans at the rally to enlarge the Center's services by adding a health food restaurant and rooms for improved medical facilities. He said also that the corporation has applied for revenue-sharing in Sacramento County.

At the end of the day the participants had a very nice selection of fossil shells of various kinds to show for their day's work. Fossils are important for the study of the history of our world.

Secretary Passes CPS Examination

Louise Pester, secretary to the youth director in Southeastern, has just received notice that she has passed the difficult CPS examination that qualifies her as a Certified Public Secretary.

Mrs. Pester sat for the two-day exam at Walla Walla College in Washington. The examination determines a proficiency in six areas: environmental relations in business, economics and management, business and public policy, financial analysis and the mathematics of business, communications and decision making, and office procedures.

Graduating Class Honors an Orangewood Teacher

Philip Saaty, an Orangewood Academy teacher since 1971, was presented Orangewood's Teacher of the Year award during the 1977 commencement exercises.

Each year, using a secret ballot system, the graduating class selects a teacher for this honor. The results are not revealed until the presentation of the award by the class president.

Mr. Saaty, the chemistry, biology, and life sciences teacher, came to Orangewood from Bagdad, Iraq, where he had been principal of the Adventist academy for 12 years. His love and concern for the students and willingness to go the extra mile with those having scholastic or social problems has endeared him to the OA students, faculty, and parents.

Sustentees' Retreat Is Scheduled

The much-requested Sustentees' Retreat will be held again this year at Pine Springs Ranch September 13-15.

Beginning Tuesday noon, the Retreat provides good food, relaxation, fellowship, talks and discussion geared to retired denominational employees.

Reservations are already coming in, so if you are on General Conference sustentation or are retired and have worked 15 years or more in denominational service, you are eligible to attend. Because ranch facilities are limited, we must confine this retreat to those who are living in Southeastern California Conference area.

The only charge is $12.50 for the two-day stay. We have had to make a small increase because of the current period of inflation.

You must arrange for your own transportation to the ranch. Recreational vehicles may be brought if they are self-contained; there are no electrical or sewerage hook-ups available.

Reservations will fill early, so write for information and a reservation blank to Sustentees' Retreat, 9707 Magnolia, Riverside, CA 92503. When you receive the reservation, fill it out and return it with your check.

She Donates Labor for Dorcas

Adventist saints come in many forms.

Most of us have heard of "pots and pans" saints—those who are always around when needed, but stay in the background, quietly scrubbing away, often unnoticed.

But are you aware of the many "cut and sew, tuck and tie" patchwork-quilt saints who exist around us?

One such is Alice Hill, 86 years young and a member of the Cambrian Park Church. Thirty-six years a widow, Alice has used her nimble-fingered skill to make for the Dorcas Society almost 1,000 small and large, fancy and plain, always beautiful, patchwork quilts.

When asked why she gives so much of her time and effort (often turning out a quilt a week), Alice replies, "I can't go out and give Bible studies, so I make quilts, and I feel God blesses me. Ellen White says money alone does not do it all. God requires our personal efforts." She adds with a smile, "I enjoy helping people in need."

Alice lives alone in a one-room apartment near her daughter. She attends Sabbath school, church and potlucks regularly.

Does her eyesight fail her when she sews away on her antique Singer treadle sewing machine? "No," says Alice, "not when I sew; only when I read."

To date, Alice has contributed over 5,000 hours making quilts for God's cause. She is truly an inspiration to those who know her.

"From the study of the Word of Life, students may come forth with minds expanded, elevated, ennobled. . . . If they are, like Daniel, hearers and doers of the Word of God, they may advance as he did in all branches of learning. They may so educate and discipline themselves that all within the sphere of their influence shall see what man can be, and what he can do, when connected with the God of wisdom and power."

Church School To Open

A new church school will open its doors in Milpitas on September 6. Grades 1-6 will be offered during the 1977-78 school year.

Recently appointed teacher of the new Foothill Seventh-day Adventist Elementary School was Margaret Galbreth. She holds a master's degree in early childhood development, and brings to the church school 17 years of teaching experience.

School Board Chairman Ken Crocker says "Under the Lord's blessing, the pastoral leadership of Larry Crane, and the teaching expertise of Mrs. Galbreth, we are anticipating a successful school year."

Building Project

Phase Two Begins in Campbell

Phase two of the Campbell Church building project began last April. The 500-seat sanctuary, the pastor's study, home missions room, and assorted class and work rooms are scheduled for completion early next spring.

Phase one, consisting of a youth chapel-fellowship hall and five Sabbath school rooms, was completed in 1972. Since that time the church congregation has met in the youth chapel. Since the seating capacity in the chapel is only 200,

Members Give Program

Oakdale Church members recently presented a spiritual program for patients at the Oakdale Convalescent Hospital.

Participating in the hour-long worship service of gospel music and the spoken word were Mrs. William Gilbert, vocal soloist; Mrs. C. G. Foster, pianist; a young people's singing group; and Pastor Gerry Dunn.

Similar programs have been given at the hospital each Sabbath afternoon since July, 1971, under the direction of Paul Rice and Victor Renslow. A number of Oakdale Church members and members of neighboring churches have participated, to bring pleasure to patients and visitors.

Members of the Campbell Church donate their labor toward making their new sanctuary a reality.

Results Are Given for Lindsay Five-Day Plan

Of the 40 persons who attended the Lindsay Five-Day Plan last month, 20 have given up smoking.

Held for the Spanish-speaking communities, the series was directed by Dr. David Zinke and Pastor Leslie G. Aragon, both of Exeter.

According to Pastor Aragon, the success of the plan was partially due to good public relations. Stations KTIP of Porterville and Spanish radio station KGST of Fresno gave air time to announce the plan.

Several individuals also attended evangelistic meetings held in Lindsay at the close of the Five-Day Plan.

Student LEs Lead to Baptism

Student literature evangelists worked in Santa Barbara last summer on the college campuses. There they met two young ladies and developed friendships that later led to one's enrolling at Loma Linda University. Studies there, followed up by Elder Calvin Osborn, led to baptism at the Riverside City Parish church May 28. We pray that Kay and Julie have a continued rich experience with Christ.

We are thankful too for the students at Loma Linda—Sandra Watkins and her group for summer work with the Community Crusade Against Drugs.

If you would like to play a part, join us. It's fun to work for the Lord, and He is a good paymaster, too. You can help the students by providing literature to give away—$10 for 100 Steps to Christ, and $100 for 1,000. Send checks to Operation STEPS, 2686 Townsgate Rd., Westlake Village, CA 91361.

Walk-run Association Promotes Conditioning

The Adventist Walk/Run Association (AWRA) was established in 1976 to promote cardiovascular conditioning (heart, lungs, and circulatory system) among the Adventist church members.

AWRA also reaches into the communities by the promotion of fitness events that involve the local residents. An example of this is the Hidden Valley Marathon in Newbury Park, which is basically a family fun-run.

Spin-offs from these events are the local church clubs such as the Voice of Prophecy Walk/Run Club, the Newbury Park Run for Fun Club, the Alhambra Adventist Walk and Jog Club, the Eagle Rock Adventist Walk/Run Club, the Van Nuys Adventist Walk/Run Club, and the Running Association for Adventist Doctors (RASDAD).

This is the year for charter memberships. Join up now and begin your personal fitness program. You do not need to run. Take time for things you like to do. Awards will be given for walking, jogging, swimming, and biking.

Membership procedure is as follows: Upon receipt of your application and enrollment fee of $5, the AWRA will promptly send you a letter of acknowledgement, a personal log book, membership card, and patch for jacket. Write us for your application blank.

Isn't it time that Adventists got off their seat and on their feet and out in the street? The demands of daily living in these last days bring one to the realization that we must be physically fit, as well as spiritually and mentally sound.

For more information about the AWRA, write to: Adventist Walk/Run Association, Box 969, Glendale, CA 91209.

Update . . . from the president

SAN PEDRO SPANISH COMPANY—On Sabbath, July 16, 77 members were organized into a new company, meeting in the rented Methodist church on the corner of Grand and Sixth in the city of San Pedro. Pastor Louny Morales is the shepherd of this flock. We wish for them God's rich blessing.

EVANGELISM—Nearly 900 new members have been born into the Adventist family by baptism as candidates for the Kingdom of Heaven, during the first six months of 1977. This summer, evangelistic meetings are being conducted in the following important areas: Evangelism Field School and Seminar at the Hilton Inn in Oxnard conducted by Elder Roy Naden; tent meetings in North Long Beach conducted by Elder Roy Brown; tent meetings at Rosecrans and Bullis in Compton conducted by Elder George Rainey; the Florence-Downey Crusade conducted by Elder Bill Hoffman and Elder Donald Spaulding; the Youth Crusade at the Fifty-fourth Street church, conducted by Guy Nembhard and Michael Morgan, students from Oakwood College, and supervised by Elder Jack Doggette; and Elder Isaac Lara is conducting two evangelistic campaigns, one at the Spanish-American church and one at the El Monte English church.

Evangelism is the life blood of the church. Every Seventh-day Adventist is to be a soul winner. The value of one soul is beyond estimate. May God bless you as you witness and share the good news of the kingdom.

WE REGRET to inform you that Bill Oliphant is not free to accept our invitation to be director of communication at this time. Further announcement will be made when the Conference Committee has made a selection.

Springville Camp Meeting Is Memorable One

Nature in its beauty, weather at its best, days of spiritual preaching, together made our camp meeting for 1977 one that shall not soon be forgotten.

Nestled in a valley between high mountains, the spot provides a natural setting for sol-improvements made.

The General Conference was very liberal in providing help for this important gathering.

General Conference Vice-President W. J. Hackett spoke each morning. His series was entitled "A Life Fit for Eter-

Pacific Union President Cree Sandefur presented a sermon on Righteousness by Faith.

Also, Else Nelson, of the Union department of education, took a Sabbath afternoon hour to bring to the minds of our people the importance of Christian education.

Other important speakers were featured, including some of the local pastors, Pacific Union personnel, and others, who filled the days with good things.

Camp motto this year was, "Let the Message Fly—Time Is Short."

Many made the resolution to be back next year, June 19-24, in a place where they have the privilege of becoming better acquainted with God. Every church member would find their spiritual life greatly enriched by making plans to this spiritual retreat an annual occasion.

Our special thanks to the General Conference, the Pacific Union Conference, the Southern California Conference, the Pacific Press, the Ellen G. White Estate together with the ministers and members of the Nevada-Utah Conference, who made these days an experience not to be forgotten.

itude and quietness. More and more Adventist people are coming to the area for a spiritual retreat.

A record number of people came this year. Possibly the farthest any family came was from southern Mexico. They had attended in prior years and knew the value of coming back to this special spot.

This beautiful location was made available to the Nevada-Utah Conference through the kindness of Drs. Charles Smith, Senior and Junior, Dr. Paul Smith and David Smith, all of the same family. This has been offered each year for 11 camp meetings.

The only speaker who has been there for all 11 sessions is Mary Walsh, a Bible instructor in the Southern California Conference. She was present this year to present again a series of Bible studies. During the 11 years, she has seen the camp meeting grow and many nity," and climaxed Sabbath morning at the worship hour.

Elder D. A. Delafield of the E. G. White Estate presented the evening messages under the heading, "Ellen G. White and the Great Issues of Our Time." In the setting of the lovely camp fire bowl each night, he answered questions and related interesting experiences in the life of Ellen G. White.

Walter Ost, a layman on the General Conference staff and committee, presented a most interesting series on the church member and his relationship to the Lord. Elder Arthur Mazat of the Pacific Press gave of the best of his years in the ministry by way of counsel for God's people.

Union Sabbath School Director James Hardin presented sermons, the Sabbath school lesson study, and a Sabbath school workshop for teachers and leaders during camp meeting.

Arnold Storz Leaves Conference

Elder and Mrs. Arnold Storz, who served in this Conference for a number of years, completed their work and have moved from this field.

While serving in this field, Elder Storz not only pastored the Bishop Church, but also spent his last year in the trust services work.

Elder Storz has completed a period of continuous service which began on May 14, 1939. During these years he had the privilege of serving in Northern California, Colorado, Central California, Upper Columbia and Nevada-Utah conferences.

Mrs. Storz is an experienced librarian. She was able to visit many of our church schools, giving them valuable assistance in establishing efficient libraries.

Elder Storz became personally acquainted with many members in our field as he visited the different churches in the interest of trusts and wills on behalf of the cause of the Lord.

We regret they felt the time had come when they should conclude their work and move on. However, the good work done and the impression made will not be forgotten.

We wish Elder and Mrs. Storz a very pleasant retirement. Since Mrs. Storz will continue to work in the denomination, we wish her well in her chosen profession of library science.

Blind Camp Is Held at Prescott

The last day of the adult blind camp at Camp Yavapines in Prescott saw about 40 blind adults just as reluctant to leave as a camp full of kids. As one blind lady said, "I have just learned to love all of the staff up here so much. I don't want to leave them."

They'd had a week of horseback riding, swimming, nature walks, crafts, campfires, archery, fellowship and good food.

This blind camp for adults was the first for the Arizona Conference, perhaps a first for the State of Arizona.

Campers attending the session were all blind, or legally so, according to Camp Director Paul Nystrom.

The camp, sponsored by The Christian Record Braille Foundation, is free to these sightless individuals, according to the Foundation's Area Director George Ashlock, who assisted in the camp program.

"We believe the blind should have the opportunity to try something new," Ashlock said.

Nystrom added that most have succeeded at whatever they tried to do at the camp.

Nystrom has been at the camp only a short time, and this was his first experience with handicapped people.

But, he said, he and the counselors have run the camp just like they do regular camps, "only a little more slowly and less regimented," a procedure followed at all four blind camps in the Union.

And they have had to maintain a larger staff for this small a group than they ordinarily would, he said.

Both he and the camp secretary, Karen Seitz, said the blind adults surprised them a little with their independence.

Ashlock said it's because to most blind people, being blind is more of a nuisance than it is a handicap.

Nystrom said the handicapped campers don't want to be treated so differently from other campers, and that at times he found it difficult not to be too helpful and overly watchful. The blind themselves often saw humor in their mishaps.

Mrs. Seitz told of seeing two blind ladies on their way together to the dining room. Unaware that they were approaching an embankment, they came to it and tumbled down. As they got up and brushed themselves off, she said she heard one lady say to her friend, "That's what happens when the blind are leading the blind."

Living Sermons Witness to the Power of God

On a recent Sabbath, the assistant pastor of the Phoenix Camelback Church thrilled the members by stating, "I would rather see a sermon than hear one any day." Then he presented two living sermons.

Exhibit Number One was Don and Diane Droze who had met in Las Vegas and had followed the bright lights in search of happiness.

After moving to Phoenix, Diane, who is a horticulturalist, went to work for a large estate. Her foreman, John Dena, is a Seventh-day Adventist who shared his faith. It was not long before Don and Diane were taking Bible studies. Soon they were introduced to his pastor.

The truth they found brought the happiness they had been pursuing for a long time. In a short while they were baptized.

Exhibit Number Two was Charlie and Diane Barber. Charlie stated that the influence of Don Droze on the lives of his co-workers at the Volkswagen Sales and Service in Scottsdale challenged him to deep thought. One day Charlie said to Don, "I am drinking quite heavily and I am overweight. How can I change myself?"

Exhibit Number Two

"Man, you can't," was Don's reply, "but if you will let Jesus come into your life, He will do it for you. I will be over tonight to read the Bible to you and show you how it is done."

Charlie's wife picked up the story for a moment. "I was so shocked when Charlie said someone was coming over, because he has never had friends come to the house. But Don and Diane came, and we have found a new way of life."

In order for the church family to realize the miracle which has occurred in his life, Charlie brought a picture of himself before the Bible studies. There he stood before the church family of which he is now a part, 50 pounds lighter, many times happier.

Time and tireless effort are adding new links to the chain of happiness which Don and Diane are forging for eternity. They plan soon to present another exhibit—another living sermon.

HAWAII

Hawaiian Mission Academy

Hawaiian Mission—the Melting Pot

HMA is truly a melting pot for the races of men. Only 10 per cent of the enrollment is Caucasian. The other 90 per cent is shared by Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Portuguese, Filipino, Samoan, Hawaiian, and the "Hapas." Moreover, the multi-racial staff is divided 50-50.

However, the multi-racial and multi-cultural heritages present unique challenges to the staff and board. English as a second language presents opportunities, and almost every family is determined that its children shall attend college.

Love and respect abound on campus and in the home. Youth saturated with the "Aloha spirit" shower gifts, flowers and kindness on one another, the staff and strangers.

The pull of the surf makes for occasional attendance problems. Hawaiian holidays coupled with national holidays make for a few more respites than Mainland schools enjoy. On the other hand, the school seems to be the center of social life, even drawing young people during holidays for special practices and rehearsals.

Parents join readily in fund-raising drives for class and/or school benefits. The associated students unite their activities in school betterment projects.

Limiting factors are the absence of an assembly hall or chapel and a playground. The three-acre campus limits physical education and outdoor recreation.

Visitors, though, may see a humble well-kept cluster of buildings and a proud school family reaching for excellence in all areas of learning and service.

Sniders Welcomed to Mission

It is a pleasure to welcome new workers to Hawaiian Mission. Elder and Mrs. Daniel Snider received a warm, Hawaiian welcome at Honolulu International Airport on July 14. They will assume pastoral responsibilities in the Kaneohe-Hauula area on Oahu.

Previous pastoral work has been in Indiana and Arizona, the most recent with the East Mesa Church in Arizona.

The Sniders have two children. Danielle is a three-year old and Steele is none months. Mrs. Snider is a daughter of Elder Roy Perrin who has spent most of his life in mission service.

May the Lord bless this family as they take up their new duties in Hawaii.

cials to save, and more.

Realizing a critical need for youth counseling, the conference has also expanded in this area. Plans have been made to provide career, spiritual, social and family counseling services during the weekend.

Guests will include Ernest E. Rogers, professor of Biblical languages at Oakwood College; Madelyn Haldeman, professor of religion at Loma Linda University; William DeShay, newly-elected Black coordinator for the Southern California Conference; and David Taylor, newly-elected associate youth director for the Northern California Conference. A creative blend of educators, pastors, youth workers and conference administrators make up the staff for the conference.

Aimed to present Christ as the basis for solving the pressing problems facing Black youth today, this series of meetings will address specific youth problems and dispense practical information on the how-to of Christian living.

Although uniquely designed for Black youth, it should be made clear that the meeting is open to youth of all racial backgrounds ages 15-35.

Unfortunately, only 250 individuals can be accommodated. The cost is $25 per person, and applications will be received on a first-come, first-served basis.

All participants must register in advance and all fees must be paid by August 15. No fees will be accepted at Pine Springs Ranch. Space at the Ranch is limited, so get your application in immediately.

BREAKFAST BARS? SQUARES? INSTANT BREAKFAST?

Says Nutrition and the MD, these products should be used only rarely as a breakfast substitute, for they lack bulk and fiber, and some trace minerals. They have more value as a supplemental snack—certainly better than a candy bar or a soft drink.

In other words, nothing can take the place of that most important meal in your day—a good nutritious breakfast of whole grains in some form, fresh fruit, milk and how about a couple of tablespoons of nuts?

LLU/LA SIERRA

La Sierra Baptisms

Christian Education Does Win Souls

Christian education does win souls, according to La Sierra Campus Chaplain David Osborne. He baptized 32 people last school year in services at the ocean, in the mountains, at local churches, and on the campus mall.

But reporting the statistics just doesn't do justice to the thrilling individual decisions made by those 32 people who found their way to Christ through classes, friends, or just being at La Sierra.

L. E. Spicer, for instance, was a Marine recruiter before coming to college. "The first year I managed to sidestep religion courses," he says. "I was afraid the Seventh-day Adventist doctrine would be forced on me. I was uneasy all year. But no one forced anything.

"In the meantime I met Chaplain Osborne, and when enrollment time came again I learned he was teaching Adventist beliefs, so I enrolled in the class. I was very comfortable in the class and I decided to keep an open mind. I settled back to learn all I could. I found Bible answers to many of my questions and new light I was longing for. All I had to do was pray and study, and as Dave's class progressed through a 'short quarter' I knew this was an answer to prayer."

Berit Christensen was rebaptized. She told the chaplain that during her senior year of high school she realized "there needed to be more to 'religion' than being born into it, you must be born again into it."

She decided to publicly make that commitment instead of leaving it to the decision she had made as a child.

"God has led in so many ways. I have no big conversion story," she says. "The last couple of years have been a growing awareness of who God is, what He can do, and how we can work together. He's so great!"

Because Cindy Serrano grew up in Loma Linda, she was familiar with Seventh-day Adventism before coming to La Sierra.

"I came to a shallow part in life last spring," she says, "realizing I had no direction or motivation. I prayed about it, and after discussing with my parents, applied to La Sierra.

"Being at La Sierra, attending chapel and discussions with friends, I realized how lost I actually was. Now that was something I could and wanted to correct."

She credits some wonderful friends on campus for helping her understand the Message.

Yu-cheng Liao still remembers the first time he went to an Adventist church.

"It happened that they had a communion service. I was shocked in the beginning, not because I am a foreigner in a totally new country, but due to a very distinct service—foot washing. The pastor saw that I was a foreigner and in confusion, came to me warmly, explained shortly, then washed my feet himself. It turned out that it's one of the most beautiful memories I have."

Freshman Orientation Scheduled

University systems can be confusing for freshmen and their parents, so on September 9-11 and 16-18, a student-parent orientation will be held at La Sierra.

Every year following this special program, during which families meet with administrators, faculty and deans, parents remark they are surprised how much college life has changed since their day, and how many services the University offers to students.

"What I'm most impressed with is how much you treat students like people," one parent said, "instead of like children, as we were back in the dark ages when I went to school."

During the weekend program, parents and students stay in Sierra Towers. Friday evening they meet the university president during a vespers program. Worship services, campus tours, music and film programs fill Sabbath. In the evening, recreational activities are held in the Alumni Pavilion and financial obligations for the school year may be taken care of.

On Sunday the students meet with advisors and register while the parents are with the administrators. The success of the orientation is due in large part to its size. Only 50 families are entered in each session. This allows for informal discussion, and gives all the students and parents a chance to individually meet the college personnel.

Reservations for the weekend must be made by August 31. Financial arrangements as well as reservations may be made with the Office of the Vice-President for Student Affairs, LLU, Riverside, CA 92515.

News Notes

AN INTENSIVE English as a Second Language Institute will be offered on the La Sierra campus August 22-September 23. Several levels of instruction will be offered, so students will receive the help they need most. Contact the modern languages department for more information.

WAYNE E. ZAUGG, associate professor of chemistry, has been awarded the R. K. Scott Memorial National Grant by the Society for Analytical Chemists of Pittsburg. The award of $1,500 is one of four national awards given by the Pittsburg Conference on Analytical Chemistry and Applied Spectroscopy. Zaugg will use the grant to purchase digital pH meters which will be interfaced with student colorimeters and will greatly facilitate laboratory experience by chemistry students, according to William Allen, department chairman.

ENGLAND'S FAMED "Three Choirs Festival" souvenir publication on its 250th anniversary contains an essay by John T. Hamilton, director of university relations. The festival is thought to be the oldest music festival in existence. The only non-British contributor to the publication, Hamilton's piece is entitled "A Visitor Considers," and is a collage of impressions about the music, people, and history at the nine festivals which he has attended.
