From Platte City Miss Northrup is going to Denver to visit her sister, Mrs. Ralph Emery, and thence back to her claim near Paradise, Mont.

A Change in Management.

We are always glad when in the course of events, students who have great ability along different lines, accept of positions in our denomination.

Just recently Chas. Wineland has taken up the managership of the Nebraska Sanitarium Food Co. which was made vacant by the resignation of Inar Nelson, and from all appearances Mr. Wineland will push the business and make a success. He has ordered a new journal and a ledger and judging from this he expects to rustle enough trade to make book-keeping a necessity.

We trust that the town people will patronize the Sanitarium Bakery when ever possible, and give Mr. Wineland a lift in his new work.

Roy E. Hay of LaJunta, Colo. and Edith L. Dransfield, of Topeka, Kansas, were married in Topeka August 10th. Mr. and Mrs. Hay will be at home in LaJunta, Colo., after Sept. 1st. The MESSENGER joins with their many friends in sending congratulations.

Do You Want an Education?

Of course you do. But how much do you want? If you are really in earnest about the matter, or especially if you are not, send for a copy of the Campaign Number of "Christian Education," which has been prepared to assist every young man and young woman who wants an education. You will find it full of excellent suggestions on ways and means and benefits and principles of success in educating yourself. Note these titles to articles:—

Some Ways of Getting into School.

How I Learned to Combine Study and Work.

Danger of Procrastination.

Working My Way Through School.

Some Stirring Facts for Christian Students.

Every nook and corner of this number is packed with sayings and watchwords and maxims and slogans and keynotes to the success of men who have triumphed over difficulties. They will be a help and inspiration to you. Send for a sample copy, read it yourself, pass it on to some one else; then order from five to fifty more to be sent to friends and acquaintances. At least three young people here in the offices have already determined to be in school next year, as a result of reading this number. It will help you to get there whether you see your way now clear or not. Five to forty copies, five cents each; fifty or more, four cents each. Order of your tract society or of Christian Education, Takoma Park, Washington, D. C.

Life's Mirror

There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave
There are souls that are pure and true,
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best shall come back to you.

Give love, and love to your heart will flow
A strength in your utmost need;
Have faith and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your word and deed.

For, life is the mirror of king and slave,
Tis just what you are and do;
Then give to the world the best you have
And the best will come back to you.

Improvements at Union College

The saying, "When a man quits improving he is dead whether he is buried or not" is very true, and I think it can be applied to schools and colleges as well as men.

The scenes which have been thrown upon the stage of action, day by day, for the past month at Union College are scenes which arouse our interest and suspicion at once. Individuals passing often stop to inquire what is being done with so much lumber, paint, plaster, and frescoat which they see stored at the south entrance of the college building, and which rapidly disappears within under the control of ten or twelve competent men.

The first thing that will attract the attention of you students when you return is the appearance of the main entrance. The whole has been treated to a coat of dove gray paint, which covers the old, unvarnished, penciled walls and doors; then the doors and window frames have been painted a jet black. There has also been a fine new lock placed on the door which will debar intruders during the night.

As you pass through the doors, and up the stairs, you will notice a snowy freshness as you glance at the walls which has not been seen for many a day. Turning to the right, and entering the Scandinavian chapel you will think you are in a different room. The seats have been removed, and the blackboards lowered to accomadate the children of the church-school who will occupy the south half of first floor the coming year. Journying up the stairs to second floor via the girls stairway, and turning to the left you will enter President Grigg's office which has been slightly freshened. The wood work varnished, old furniture removed, and replaced by a fine new desk and chair, and dainty white half sash curtains at the windows. As you enter the chapel you will be surprised to note the platform for it has been enlarged four feet, thus making room enough for the band boys when they give recitals, without having to build to it each time. The chapel has been treated to frescoat also.

Just at the head of the stairs and to the right on third floor you will see the word "MESSENGER" printed in gilt letters on a door. This is the home office of your MESSENGER, and within this office is where the editors manufacture the contents of the paper which appears at your door semi-monthly.

Third floor has under gone several changes too. The art room has been divided by a partition, the lower consisting of wood, and the upper of plain and florentine glass. This was done in order to give sufficient light for the north room. A like partition has been placed from east to west in the museum. A few of the cases containing curios have been placed in the halls and class rooms where they can be seen and studied, and the larger cases have been moved to the south half, leaving a nice class room on the north.

Next the attic. The whole attic is now being sealed with new lumber; the old rookeries and favorite haunts of the boys who have roomed in the attic for several years, are being closed up, so there will be no show of their hiding from the glaring search light of the preceptor, or rambling over the rooms, arousing the inmates with alarm clocks, tin cans and cow-bells early on New Years morning; in fact, the whole is to become a civilized dormitory for the boys.

Descend the stairs via the boys stairway, if you please, to the basement, then turn to the right and enter the room used last year for the primary grades and you will see a change. To all lovers of athletics and gymnastic work this room will again be a source of pleasure, especially when we know that Miss Jeanette Henry will be with us to give valuable instruction.

As you leave the building, perhaps it would be well to pass through the Business Office and note the changes. Four feet have been added to the east side of the small private office, back of the main, making a real pleasant, cozy office. A book and store room has been joined to the office by cutting a door in the south wall of the main office, and partitioning off a room from the adjoining class room seven by ten feet. All the books and records for the past ten years which here-to-fore have been given room in the main office have been neatly stored away leaving plenty of room for the necessary furniture in the main office.

One glance at the beautiful campus, with flower beds of red and yellow cannas and geraniums, dotting the green here and there, will convince any visitor than Union College is making improvements.

Character

True character is affirmative. It is not that a person of character ought to be always affirming convictions, but it is that the man who is habitually non-committal is not a man of marked character. A favorite form of counsel to boys is to learn the value of saying "No." Yet, in its true sense, this is an affirmative act, though negative in form. Few of us stop to think how much of our character is involved in our "yesses," a word so often used to pacify rather than to express meaning.—Educational Journal.

Trying to Safeguard Sunday

The Sabbath Observance Committee of the Presbyterian General Assembly has been making an investigation into labor conditions in New York City, and finds that three hundred thousand employees in that city are "compelled" to work seven days in the week. The committee recommends among other things for the relief of the situation, a half Saturday holiday, and a request to educational institutions to omit Monday morning recitations, so as to obviate the use of Sunday as a day of study.—Watchman.

GENERAL

Announcement of Changes at College

The Board desire to announce several changes which it has made in plans for this coming year.

MRS. A. E. SHEPHERD, PRECEPTRESS

Mrs. Shepherd is well known to the old students and patrons of Union College. For many years she served as preceptress in South Hall, and hundreds of young women in all parts of the world testify to the lessons of womanly culture which they learned under her guidance. Mrs. P. A. Field, who was chosen preceptress, and her husband desire to enter the work of the gospel ministry, and Mrs. Field had accepted the position of preceptress only at the earnest solicitation of the College Board, as they did not know whom else to employ at the time she was elected. But when it was learned that Mrs. Shepherd could be employed, arrangements were made by which Brother and Sister Field could continue in the work of their choice.

H. A. MORRISON, MATHEMATICS

Prof. E. C. Kellog has been invited by the Board of Managers of the new German school, located at Clinton, Missouri, to take charge of the departments of Mathematics and English. He has accordingly, resigned his position in Union College to accept of this work. Prof. H. A. Morrison has been chosen as instructor in the department of Mathematics of Union College. Professor Morrison is so well known to all who are acquainted with the school, having taught here for years, that we need say nothing by way of introduction.

AMERICAN PLAN

For a number of years the European plan of boarding has been in vogue in the College home. After careful consideration, both of the expenses and the general cultural education, it has seemed wise to the Board to change to the American plan, which present opportunities for training and education to qualify young men and women to enter homes of refinement. It is planned to have regular meals and a light lunch at night. A flat rate of eight dollars per month is charged for these three meals. We believe that from the point of expenses our patrons will find this more economical than the European plan. While it is true that many students have not used this amount to cover their living expenses, yet on an average it is believed that as much, and in many instances, more than we plan to charge has been required to cover the cost of food in the home, and of lunches which the student has had other than at the regular table service. We believe that the health of our students is of first importance, and that a well regulated table service, in which there is a good variety of plain, healthful food, is very necessary. Many young people do not know how to properly select their food and in many instances ill health is the result. Accordingly, from the financial, cultural and health points of view we believe this plan will advance the interests of our students.

STUDENTS LIVING OUTSIDE THE COLLEGE HOME

There has grown up quite a custom for our students to live outside of our College Homes, either to board themselves, or to work part and pay part for board and rooms in homes of people of the vicinity. We have come to feel that this plan is open to serious objections. In the first place, it is, generally speaking, no great saving, if any, to the student. In the second place, many students need the home training which, if they do not get, will result in a loss for their life work. In the third place, and this is what particularly impells the Board to take action at this time, is the matter of financial consideration. We feel that it is necessary for the school to have the advantages, from a financial point of view, which may accrue as the result of a full Home attendance, and so altogether, inasmuch as this does not work hardship upon the students and may be a real benefit to them, definite action has been taken by the Board to the effect that students hereafter will not be allowed to room and board themselves outside of the College Home, nor to work part and pay part. Students as heretofore, under proper conditions, may obtain homes where they can work in full for their room and board. In many instances it will be possible for the school to give students the opportunity to work part and pay part and live in the school Home.

We look forward to a very prosperous school year. The need for workers in this cause is rapidly increasing, and we earnestly urge our church officers and the ministry, as well as the parents and young people themselves, to make every effort to see that every young person has those advantages which will enable him to qualify for efficient service in this last message to the world.

E. T. Russell, President,

B. E. Huffman, Secretary.

Miss Nightengale Buried

London, Aug. 20.—Florence Nightengale, "the angel of the Crimea," who died August 13th at her London home, was buried this afternoon beside the bodies of her father and mother in the churchyard of the little Hampshire village of Fast Wellow.

In accordance with her often expressed wishes for a simple, private funeral, the ceremony was of the quietest nature, the only feature reminding of her service to the army and navy being the presence of a squad of the Grenadier guards, who acted as pall bearers. Outside of these, only members of the immediate family and a few retainers were present.

Among the flowers sent for the funeral were a number of wreaths contributed by American nursing associations. Many prominent members of the American colony in London attended the service.

It Will All Come Right Again

To-day I read in the Psalmist

The royal singer's song

Of faith in Eternal Goodness

To triumph over wrong.

And thought, What E'er of sorrow

Or care, or grief, or pain

Was mine, in some glad tomorrow

It would all come right again.

The shadow may hide the sunshine,

And the day be dark with rain,

But be sure in God's tomorrow

It will all come right again.

The day may be dark and doleful;

It's sky may be gray and cold;

But the clouds may break above us,

And the sunset have its gold.

Not always the wrong and error—

Not always a hidden sun,

But some day the Right will triumph,

And some day the storm be done.

So think when the clouds are darkest

And the heart is sore with pain,

If we trust the Eternal Goodness

It will all come right again.

Surely this is fruitful field for canvassers as may be seen from the following high records made in our conference this summer. For Bible Readings, one week, $125; Controversy, $101; and Daniel and Revelation, $96. One young man in the Northern Illinois Conference took orders for Daniel and Revelation to the amount of $105, during the week ending July 1st, and $121, during the week ending July 15th. I suppose other students have waited as I have to hear from some one else before saying anything, but I wish more of them might send in a line or two.

Word has just reached us of the death of little Rollin Frances, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Meyer, at their home in Topeka, Kansas, July 17, 1910, of Infantile Paralysis. He was born in College View, August 27, 1908, and died at the age of one year ten months and twenty days. He was sick only nine days during four of which he was paralyzed. Owing to the supposed contagious nature of the disease, a private funeral was held, Brother N. B. Emerson conducting a short service at the cemetery. Sabbath, August 6th, a memorial service was held in the church, conducted by Elder W. H. Thurston, assisted by Brother Emerson. Rollin was an exceptionally bright and active child, of a kind and loving disposition, unselfish and friendly toward all. He will be greatly missed by the sorrowing parents and relatives but they need not sorrow as those who have no hope, for "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

"A. C. Hansen and I are rolling in the orders in the wild and woolly west. We have encountered many hard knocks and thrilling experiences in the jungles. Of course our names are not Teddy and Kermit, but we are making a clean sweep as we go, without advertising. Our broncho experience was something like the airships and aeroplanes you read about. I did not land on top of a forest, or out on the ocean, but on my back with the broncho on top of me. Now we will have to have the MESSENGER to cheer us up. We can not get along without it."—John Strable.

We wish to thank the subscribers for bearing with us while sending the small news sheets this summer, but it seemed the only thing to do as the editorial staff are scattered, during vacation, throughout the United States, and it has been impossible to compile the regular issue. From now on you may expect the regular issue once a month, alternated with a news sheet which appears bi-monthly, and the staff will try to make up, if possible, the deficiency in quality rather than quantity. We trust that each subscriber will endeavor to send in at least three new subscriptions within the next three months, and help us to boom this enterprise.
