Pogue as president

Vol. XLIII

Union College, Lincoln, Nebr., April 16, 1969

No. 19

Jerry Pogue, newly chosen ASB president, emphasizes a point of his platform during his campaign speech last Friday.

students choose Pogue leader of ASB for 1969-70 school year

ASB president-elect for the 1969-70 school year is Jerry Pogue, this year's ASB associate vice-president.

Pogue, a junior theology major from Lincoln, won in the elections held April 14-15.

Five major areas were included in Pogue's winning platform. First, Pogue proposes introducing new activities. A campus College Bowl, a group to coordinate all the clubs and group activities on campus, a "Meet the Press" with the college administrators and faculty, and a Freshman Orientation week led by students are a few of the suggested activities.

Pogue would also like to inaugurate a detailed student file, a "Film of the Month" in the student center, a tutoring service and a "Teacher of the Year" award.

Improving Saturday night entertainment is Pogue's second objective. He would like to see this done by scheduling Saturday night programs to permit other activities before or after the program, to open the Snack Bar on more Saturday nights and to have more student center programs.

Pogue feels a game room, basketball tournaments among the classes, faculty and alumni, and a non-competitive talent program would also be useful Saturday night entertainment.

Thirdly, Pogue proposes to improve the chapel programs. "I would try to make the programs interesting, original, informative, enlightening and educational," he states.

Two ways he proposes to do this is by presenting a variety of topics from well-known speakers and by having a town-hall meeting with the student council in session to discuss ASB business.

Special projects are Pogue's fourth area in his platform. These include a new stereo for the student center, portable gymnasium bleachers, a popcorn popper, donut machine and portable pop machine for refreshments in the gym, new college signs for the campus, and a refreshment center in the administration building.

The final area on his platform concerns better communications between students and faculty. Pogue feels communications can be improved by taking student-opinion polls, by establishing a suggestion box, by effective use of the Clock Tower and by better informed village students.

Roy Orr selected as associate vice, pledges to oppose "waste of funds"

Roy Orr's experience as treasurer of the ASB this year will provide him with first-hand knowledge and be a valuable asset to him in the position of associate vice-president next year, the office to which UC students recently elected him by a considerable margin of votes.

Roy Orr, sophomore business major, was elected associate vice-president.

Campaigning for the position, Orr promised to establish a coordinating committee of the chairmen of all the ASB standing committees. The goal of this committee would be to produce more effective cooperation between committees, and to "eliminate duplication of effort."

Orr went on record as opposing any increase in ASB executive officers' salaries. "These officers should be dedicated to serving and the salary should be only secondary," said Orr.

He further pledged to actively oppose the "waste of funds" and to support the economical use of "your ASB dues."

Elsie Flemmer flashes a victory smile when she learns that she has been chosen as the ASB executive vice-president in this week's elections by a close margin.

Union College students elect Elsie Flemmer to the post of ASB executive vice-president

Elsie Flemmer was elected to the post of executive vice-president of the Associated Student Body by the student body.

The junior social welfare major is characterized by her own recent remark that "I like to put my whole self into whatever I am doing and make it enjoyable."

"Because of my many close contacts with students during my monitoring and cafeteria experience, I feel that I can effectively detect student needs and suggestions that should be brought before the student council."

She has served on the student council in past years, which she will lead as executive vice-president.

Her main goal during her term of office will be to create student awareness and involvement in student government. She plans to encourage this enthusiasm by promoting student council meetings and publishing agendas.

"The students have a right to know where their money goes," she said.

Miss Flemmer also feels that the student council should be expanded to give the student body more direct representation.

The functions of the student council and the student-staff council should be coordinated and the scope of discussion in the student council widened, she added.

running on experience, Darrell Holtz attains Clock Tower editorship

Chosen to edit next year's Clock Tower was Darrell Holtz, a sophomore religion major.

He brings six years of printing experience and a background of editorial work to the job.

In his campaign, Holtz promised to make the paper more open to the students and their accomplishments.

To carry out this pledge, he proposed coverage of all sports leagues on campus, through the expansion of the sports writing staff, and the addition of a feature editor to the staff, to supervise a greater number of feature stories in the paper.

He also plans to institute an open-ended opinion column, called "Perhaps-ing Around," to which students at large as well as Clock Tower staff members would have access.

In addition, he pledged to put out an "attractive, high-quality paper," aided by the addition of a copy editor to the Clock Tower staff to supervise the quality of the articles printed, and use, whenever possible, of color printing to brighten up the paper.

A careful investigation of the possibilities for selling color ads to offset the cost of color printing will be carried out.

Holtz states, "I hope to bring about a closer working relationship between the College Press and the Clock Tower staff, based on the fact that I have worked at the Press for the past two years."

Lawler to stay within budget working with ASB finances

Ralph Lawler, newly elected treasurer of the Associated Student Body for the 1969-70 school year, has pledged himself to bring the ASB "out of the red" next year.

His responsibilities will include managing the finances of the entire ASB, including the budgets of the three publications, the Clock Tower, the Golden Cords, and the Peanut Hill Populace.

He will "plan from the first to keep within the budget," and hopes that the publications editors will cooperate with him in seeking ways to cut costs, especially printing costs.

He firmly believes that it is "very possible for the ASB to get out of the red or to break even next year."

Ralph plans to work closely with the college business office in working out the ASB's budgeting next year. He also plans to publish a monthly statement of the ASB's financial account in the Clock Tower so that students will be aware of the financial status of the ASB.

Ralph is a junior majoring in business administration. His experience includes two years of accounting courses and three years of courses in business.

He was also president of the ASB at Sheyenne River Academy. This latter experience, he feels, will benefit him as he takes on his executive duties next year.

When asked why he decided to run for the office, Ralph replied that he was "deeply concerned" over the financial straits which the ASB is in at the present time.

"I want to see an improvement over the way things have worked this year, and I want to see more student involvement in the ASB finances next year," he stated.

Wintermeyer hopes for accuracy in PH

Glen Wintermeyer will be next year's editor of the Peanut Hill Populace as a result of the 1969 ASB elections.

Wintermeyer hopes to produce a student directory for the coming school year that will be both accurate and dependable.

With the co-operation of the college staff he plans to make it a mandatory part of registration for all students to have their pictures taken. He will also be able to go to Denver personally to take pictures of the nursing students.

To make the Peanut Hill more usable Wintermeyer proposes to list the men and women alphabetically in two separate sections. As a cross reference he will also include a second listing of all students by their first names.

By effective planning he hopes to keep printing costs down and thus meet a budget. Wintermeyer says, "I feel that in this way many valuable extras can be put into the publication to make it of more value to the college students."

Next year's Clock Tower editor, Darrell Holtz, plans to include a column, "Perhaps-ing Around," on the editorial page.

Darlene Tachenko secures position of ASB secretary in close competition

Darlene Tachenko won the post of ASB secretary in yesterday's election. She is a freshman business major from Killdeer, North Dakota.

Miss Tachenko attended Sheyenne River Academy and was active in her junior year as an ASB representative. In her senior year she was ASB vice-president and class secretary.

She is presently serving as secretary of the newly-formed Business Club.

Miss Tachenko stated, "I will endeavor to improve school spirit and keep the ASB running smoothly. I promise to do my best for Union College."

promotions to be led by Dennis Hilliard

Dennis Hilliard has been elected Promotions Committee chairman for 1969-70.

Hilliard, a freshman biology major, graduated from Campion Academy.

He states, "I plan to make the ASB an effective student organization by promoting school spirit and community good will."

students elect Jo Lang to social-cultural position

Jolene Lang, a freshman English major from Lincoln, Nebraska, was elected to be the ASB Social Cultural chairman for the coming school year.

The main responsibility of the Social Cultural chairman is to plan the annual ASB Banquet. Miss Lang stated, "I will be here two months this summer so I can formulate the banquet plans. I also wish to incorporate more committees.

"The banquet will be held off campus with decorations used as much and as tastefully as possible," Miss Lang added.

Congratulations to Judy Broderson, newly elected
Health and Recreation Committee chairman!

Hanson leads student center

Election returns show Kathy Hanson as the new student center chairman. She is a sophomore elementary education major from Iowa.

"Plans for continuation of light, secular and seasonal programs are in the making," states Miss Hanson.

She also remarked that through student participation in activities, school spirit should climb.

music major, Duane Hilliard, to head program productions as chairman-elect

Duane Hilliard is the new ASB Program Productions Committee chairman for 1969-70. He is a junior music education major from Fort Collins, Colorado.

Being a music major, Duane says he is especially interested in the two talent programs which are under the direction of the Program Productions Committee.

Hilliard states, "I can hardly hope to out-do this year's Amateur Hour and New Student talent program, but I would like to see more students involved in each program."

Hilliard hopes to have more talent in each program in other areas of the fine arts, also.

"I would like to see more participation in the prose and speech line, if there is student interest," he says.

votes proclaim Stout as business manager

ASB business manager for 1969-70 is Lanny Stout.

Stout, a sophomore business major, voiced his opinion that periodic lack of excellence in Union's publications was frequently due to deficient income.

To remedy this financial condition in the publications, Stout pledged to increase the sale of advertising in the Clock Tower as well as the Golden Cords and the Peanut Hill Populace.

He also stated his belief that previous experience as treasurer of various organizations would enable him to "handle the financial problems of the ASB."

He would like to see some type of preliminary program, perhaps in the student center, to act as a screening committee, before the actual program.

"However," he states, "this will have to be worked out when the committee starts functioning."

Young to edit '70 yearbook

Golden Cords editor for the coming year will be Joy Young.

A freshman home economics major from Malawi, Africa, she attended Helderberg Academy in Cape Town, South Africa, where she worked as assistant editor of the yearbook her sophomore year.

She served as class treasurer her freshman and sophomore years, class secretary her freshman year, and MV leader her junior year.

This year Miss Young has been portrait editor of the Golden Cords. She is also a staff writer for the Clock Tower.

Miss Young plans to have a professional studio set up on campus so that the students may order their pictures.

In addition, Miss Young states, "In order that I may be a more effective editor, I hope to attend a university summer school workshop for annual editors."

In her winning platform, Miss Young promises that next year advertisements will again be in the Peanut Hill, that more sports pictures will be printed, and that summer school will be covered.

Congestion in the balloting area is evidence of student interest in their leaders.
