Thirteenth Sabbath Projects

South American Youth Need Proper Training

workers as our youth, rightly trained, might furnish, how soon the message of a cruci-fied, risen, and soon-coming Saviour might be carried to the whole world!"

So challenged Ellen White more than half a century ago. And still Adventist youth cry out for that training, especially in South America where there no secondary Adventist school in all of Chile.

Only about 30 per cent of the young people in Chile attend high schools, which are mostly privately operated, many of them by Roman Catholics. Of those who do attend, only one cent graduate. Adventist youth are calling for a school where they may learn more about God and enter His work.

Northeast Brazil College, on the other hand, has been pre-paring pastors and evangelists for more than three decades. However, in these more than 30 years, the school has never had a suitable theology depart-

Adventist Christmas gifts on 13th Sabbath will be divided between these two projects—a theology building at Northeast Brazil College and an entirely new academy at Los Angeles, Chile.

What is the significance of the 13th Sabbath offering anyway? On the 12 regular Sabbaths of each quarter, Adventist Sabbath school mission offerings go for the general needs in the 193 countries of the world where Adventists are engaged in educational, medical, literature, and/or evangelistic

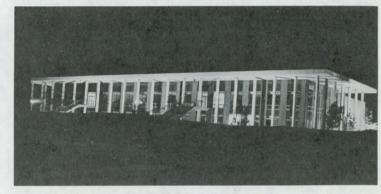

On the four 13th Sabbath of the year, four of the world's 10 geographical divisions are benefited in a special way, usually with new or expanding work. In other words, gifts of overflow proportions are given to a specific place.

The 1976 specified division is South America where 55 per cent of the population is under 21 years of age.

Should Jesus continue to delay His coming, there will not be another 13th Sabbath on Christmas Day until 1984. So why not give this Christmas Sabbath as though it were your last opportunity to do some-thing special for Jesus on the day which the world sets aside to recognize His birth!

South America is depending upon that kind of gift.

Court Reporters Get a Sabbath Provision

Court reporters who wish to take the California Certified Shorthand Reporters license exam will have the opportunity next May.

For several years Seventhday Adventists have been unable to obtain licenses to serve as court reporters because the state examination has always been given on Saturday. Moreover, the CSR Board has refused to make any accommodation, insisting that to do so would be an unbearably difficult burden.

Earnest appeals from Adventist applicants, and negotiations by the religious liberty department have both been futile in the past, but the Holy Spirit has been working in our renewed efforts. The CSR Board has announced a special exam for Sabbath observers.

Every trained court reporter wishing to take this license ex-

Communications Center Elects New President

Newly elected as president of the Seventh-day Adventist Radio, Television and Film Center in Thousand Oaks is Elder Robert R. Frame, president of the Australasian Division.

He will replace Elder Alvin G. Munson who is retiring December 31, after serving as president of the Center during the past five years.

Located on a 19-acre plot in Thousand Oaks, the Adventist Radio, Television and Film Center plans call for a five-buildcomplex when it is pleted. The central building now houses the It Is Written, Faith for Today, Audio Visual Service, and Breath of Life components, as well as general offices, filming and recording studios, accounting and printing departments, computer and mailing services.

A total of 3,505 radio and television programs are aired weekly throughout the world at the present time.

Bible Verses Are Set to Music

Sabbath school memory verses for 1977 kindergarten and primary classes have been set to music by Wayne Hooper, music director at The Voice of Prophecy. They are available from Adventist Book Centers in a 64-page song book and recorded on a 60-minute cassette.

"Music is a very powerful force in our world today," says Hooper. "Children easily learn the singing commercials after hearing them once or twice. We remember for a long time what we learn in a song. Such a natural tendency should be put to the best possible use—memorizing precious Bible verses.'

Hooper notes that even the Bible references are set to music. He suggests that if children are taught these memory verse songs, they will remember them the rest of their lives.

In a Nutshell

GERMAN-AMERICAN CHURCH REPORTS-Bible studies have opened for some five to 10 individuals as a result of the recent series of meetings held in the church. Some five to 15 non-members plus five more from within the church family were among those who attended. Future plans call for strengthening the musical part of the program and giving the material in two languages-German and English. A community testing program with the health van will also be tried, to draw attention to the series.

FAMILY FILM NIGHT—The travelogue series at the Glendale City church will have Sherman Nagel, MD, as its guest December 31. The 7:30 p.m. appearance of Dr. Nagel will climax in the presentation of his summer trip to Korea, entitled "South to the Ax-Murders of Panmunjom." The Family Film Night is part of a Saturday night slide program series sponsored by Dr. Stanton Mays.

BURBANK SPANISH CRUSADE ENDS-Pastor Miguel A. Cerna's church was organized one Sabbath and opened an evangelistic crusade the next. Some 30 individuals have been baptized so far and another 30 have asked for admittance into the baptismal class. Held on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Saturday nights, the crusade found an average of 60 visitors present. One more baptism scheduled for this month is expected to push the year's total baptized into the church to 50.

RECENT STUDIES IN NUTRITION and physiology are producing some radical changes in the medical management of certain diseases—ulcers, for instances.

For many years, ulcer patients have been given milk or cream every hour with antacids in between, or as they improved, bland foods three times a day with milk between meals. The objective was to neutralize the excess stomach acid characteristic of ulcer patients.

However, by charting the acid level in the stomachs of ulcer patients and normal people, it has been demonstrated that introducing food into the stomach stimulates the production of acid.

Clinical tests prove that this is exactly what happens. The acid is never neutralized except during the night after the stomach has been allowed to rest for several hours. indicates that ulcer patients should not take any food late in the evening. A glass of water before retiring can help to relieve discomfort that interferes with going to sleep.

Other studies have demonstrated that ulcer patients make a better recovery on a normal diet than on a bland diet.

The fact that ulcers did heal under the older regimen illustrates the human body's wonderful capacity to restore itself in spite of ill-advised treatment.

Three New Track Records

Three new relay totals will go into Runners' World record book when it's published next time, as a result of the races run on Glendale High's quartermile oval, November 14 and 15.

When the finish gun sounded at 8:15 a.m., November 15, the eight-member women's team, the 10-man ministers' and 10man church team had broken a record and set two new ones.

Each over 40 years of age, the women ran 162 miles, 788 yards-no record existed before

The church team from Newbury Park sprinted 227 miles, 466 yards—over 61 miles further than the old record. They set this new mark after three teammates were forced to drop out with muscle problems during the early morning hours of the second day.

The 202 miles, 1,276 yards covered by the ministers' team is a first in its group. They started with 10 and never lost a man. The oldest was 56.

After only six hours and 39 minutes into the race, the fiveman team called it quits. Old back and leg injuries were the cause. They had run 70 miles.

At mid-point in the marathon with 114 miles run, the four-man team tossed in the towel. Three of them ran one more mile each but were unable to revive on such short intervals of rest.

Three on the women's team were from Washington State and one from Montana. The remaining four were from Southern California. Two of the wo-men were from the Van Nuys Church and three of the four are doctors' wives.

This field of 36 runners, who made up the five teams that ran concurrently for 24 hours, were attempting to show the superiority of a vegetarian diet and the benefits of daily, vigorous exercise.

Their food intake-a "cleanburning, high-octane fuel" (carbohydrates)—was planned by Dr. and Mrs. O. D. Register.

Double stopwatches needed to determine the beginning and ending time of each runner.

Areas of Study

"Water, Water, Water"-The scientific use of water will be shown and demonstrated. Each student will be shown how to promote health and prevent disease through the use of water. This class will include such topics as how to avoid the common cold, how to cope with stress, how to deal with pain, how to slow the aging process.

Stress—Today's society is causing emotional stresses and strains that are becoming increasingly more difficult to cope with. Those in this class will be informed on how to deal with jealousy, resentment, depression, guilt, frustration. This will help each student to handle not only his own problems, but be of help to others. Dr. Guy Cochran of Mountain View has been very successful in attracting people into his classes on stress and then leading them into the Church. Why not learn more about his methods?

Heartbeat-This is a scientific screening program of blood tests and medical history which can determine one's susceptability to coronary disease. But more than this, the physician may advise one with a high risk factor how he can reduce his risk through a remedial program. The purpose of this class will be to show how health care teams can be trained to effectively carry on this community service.

Five-Day Plan-Millions have taken this plan and have kicked tobacco. Without question, the Five-Day Plan has done more to break down prejudice and make friends for the Church than any other plan. This class will bring students up to date on new tools, visual aids, advertising and new approaches and teaching methods that will make the program even more effective.

Cooking Schools-Today there is a health emphasis explosion. More people than ever are interested in physical fitness, vegetarian cooking, reducing the scientific way. This class is designed to meet the demands of those who want help in weight reduction, preparing foods and trimming up the body. Latest methods of teaching and attracting people will be presented by Stoy Proctor, who is an expert in this field.

Twelve Baptized at Placerville

Laymen of the Placerville Church are welcoming the first fruits of their recent, united soul-winning endeavors. Pastor John Sharp baptized 12 new members into the church family in November.

Laymen began their evangelism efforts with "soul consciousness, an awareness that many persons are honestly searching to know and understand God.

With this awareness, laymen then became involved in a variety of witnessing activities: Bible studies, the Gift Bible Plan, bringing persons to the pastor's Bible class and evangelistic meetings, home fellowships of prayer, inviting visitors for Sabbath dinners and other meals, including guests on family outings and discussing their questions about healthful living.

Happily, the circle of "soul-conscious" laymen is enlarging in Placerville, and the number of interested persons continues to increase. One recently bap-tized member commented on these activities: "You get to know people so much better when you're invited to their home, and it really makes you feel wanted in the church."

Very often when we endeavor to have evangelistic meetings and the community does not respond, it could well be traced the fact that the churches had no effective public relations program, and as such, had not developed the interests as they should have been. It is believed this course will be an aid to all oi our field workers. Elder Jim Cunnington will also be with us to discuss stewardship in the local church.

Many other special features will be presented. There will be a brief period when workers can share ideas for communicating the gospel more effectively.

The meetings will begin Sunday evening and close Thursday at noon so everyone can be back home for the Sabbath.

I encourage our constituency to pray for this very important gathering that a more effective outreach can be made.

Phoenix Spanish Gets New Sign

The Phoenix Spanish Church has a lovely new building but until recently, had no sign to identify it.

Church treasurer Leonardo Vega and José Schmied were commissioned by the church board to explore the possibilities of obtaining a sign, although there were no funds available for that purpose.

The Mardian Construction Company, where Vega works, graciously donated all the materials, the paint was donated by Schmied, and the Arias family (Sergei, Merlyn and Adelia) painted and lettered the sign.

Now the new Spanish church at 4408 North 35th Avenue is readily identifiable with an attractive new sign—and all at no cost to the church.

Las Vegas Sponsors Fair Booth

This year the Las Vegas Central Church again had a booth at the Jaycee State Fair in Las Vegas November 3-7. Calvin and Lucille Harkey planned and decorated the booth, following a Bicentennial theme.

At one side was a large silver dollar emphasizing "In God We In the center was a Trust." large poster with crossed flags the slogan "One Nation Under God."

The other side portrayed the Bible, pointing to God's Word.

Quietly the background mu-c of "God Bless America" sic of was played to entice people's Free literature distributed to interested fairgoers

A lady took a copy of about everything there to send to five boys on death row in Africa.

She didn't offer any further information.

A Sunday school teacher took a copy of each, to help her in work. A minister wanted to see how the booth was put together so he could try one next year.

A newly-converted girl accepted several books on the life of Christ for further study.

Twenty other members of the congregation helped to man the booth and Pastor Ken Wilber also helped.

Altogether there were about 1,530 pieces of literature distributed. About 900 were tracts and the rest were books authored by Ellen White.

On Sabbath, December Mrs. Higgins placed a tithe envelope marked "Ingathering" in the offering plate of the Bisbee Church. Inside were 25 $20 bills. This gift was inspired by the life of a deceased Adventist and Mrs. Higgins' conduct while she worked at the Fort Huachuca Army Base.

The gift bearer, who wishes remain anonymous, approached Mrs. Higgins with the surprise gift, asking only a suggestion of category where the gift could be best used.

The Bisbee Church members gave glory to God and determined to continue the Ingathering program with a renewed effort to win souls.

PUC Students To Build Church in Marshall Islands

Instead of paying tuition next quarter at Pacific Union College, six young men will pay way to the Marshall Islands in the South Pacific where they will construct a 120-seat Seventh-day Adventist church between January and March.

According to Burton Pontynen, professor of industrial education at PUC, who will lead the expedition, the students will not be offered money for their time and effort but rather a Church missionary work in the Marshall Islands, which are located several hundred miles east of the Philippines, began about eight years ago. This fall two student missionaries from PUC, Gary Galusha and Charles Hilliard, were teaching at the Elementary School Majuro when they became aware of an acute need for a church.

Galusha and Hilliard cleared some land and constructed the foundation with concrete blocks. They contacted Prof. Pontynen about the need and he agreed to take six students to finish the construction. Pontynen is currently on a year's leave of absence.

Twelve students applied for the adventure in construction and six were recently selected by the Student Missions Committee of the PUC Church.

They are: Peter Roesler, an industrial education major; Rod Sterling, a biology major; Guy Guilfoy, a physical science major; Rick Neff, a pre-medical student; Gary Amundson, a education/industrial physical arts major: and Steve Nicola. a physical therapy major.

They will depart January 15 and return in time for spring quarter classes at PUC.

She Collects Goods for Monument Valley Christmas

A Pacific Union College student has collected 60 boxes of clothes, food and household items that she and Monument Valley Mission and Hospital employees plan to distribute to about 1,000 Navajos this Christmas on the nation's largest Indian reservation.

Darlynn Baker, a sophomore religion major, collected the materials for the mission. Recently she saw an article the Recorder about Pastor Bob Nickell of the Monument Valley Church who has been broadcasting the need for materials over his ham radio station.

Each year the mission has a Christmas party for the Indians and about 1,000 attend. They depend on contributions from benefactors. Each child receives a toy and a Christmas stocking, and every family is given a food basket.

Darlynn, who spent a year and a half working at the mission as a ward clerk, Bible worker and elementary school teacher, decided to set up Christmas drop boxes in the PUC residence halls and Angwin Plaza

She advertised by word of mouth and by placing an-nouncements in the church bulletin and on bulletin boards. "I can't believe the response we have been getting. We've really been praying about it,"

However, she says that her original transportation plans have fallen through; she still needs a large truck to haul the goods. "I have faith that we will find something."

She would like to leave for the mission later this month for the 20-hour, 1,300-mile drive from the pine-clad slopes of Angwin to the canyons and plateaus of the reservation.

Hurricane Liza, which struck the Mexican Pacific coast on October 1, left the Adventist boarding high school in Navajoa, College of the Pacific, with heavy damage. Several faculty homes, the school barn and dining hall lost their roofs. Church officials estimate thé damage at $300,000.

According to Howard Burbank, executive director of Seventh-day Adventist World Service, SAWS will mount a homebuilding and rehabilitation program in the area, similar to the present one in Guatemala.

More than $500,000 worth of earthquake-resistant homes are being built there at a cost of $75 per home, Burbank said.
