Success of Youth's Congress Attributed to Careful Planning

The greatest gathering of Seventh-day Adventist youth ever to be held in North America has been heralded as a great success. Delegates from every state, along with thousands of non-delegates, assembled at San Francisco for the first North American Youth's Congress September 3-7. It was evident that the General Conference Missionary Volunteer leaders had carefully planned every detail because each part of the entire program was inspiring and filled with the enthusiasm which young people appreciate.

The fact that such an army of youth were all spiritually inclined and striving for the same goals was in itself a challenge. Outstanding denominational speakers presented the call to consecration to the finishing of the greatest task on earth—carrying the message of God to all the world. Music was a vital part of each service. Vocalists, instrumentalists, and choral groups combined to provide music of lasting beauty and inspiration.

Here the youth had ample opportunity to learn ways and means for promoting the great truths of our time.

There were delegates from many lands who spoke, sang, and dressed according to their own native customs. What a stirring sight it was to see the "Dress Parade of Missions" and to hear these faithful Advent youth as they stood asking that we understand more fully the mission needs of the world!

Many new friendships were formed and old ones strengthened as the Advent youth sang and worshiped together. Not in this life will the worth of the first North American Youth Congress be tabulated.

Introducing the Editors of Union's Publications

Blossom Church, editor of the 1948 yearbook, has begun work on this volume which promises to be the "best yet." A senior, Blossom is majoring in home economics with minors in music and religion. She has been active on Union's campus for some time since her home is in Lincoln, and since she spent most of her academy days here. However, she was graduated from Campion Academy in Colorado.

Blossom has been identified as a leader in numerous activities. She was secretary of the junior class last year. As circulation manager of the CLOCK TOWER, she shared the responsibility of promoting the publications campaign. During the summer, she has been editor of the CLOCK TOWER. Her experiences in various fields of college publications will make her an efficient and capable Golden Cords editor.

Ex-president of Spicer Missionary College in India Visits Union Campus

Elder Edward W. Pohlman, former president of Spicer Missionary College in India, and Mrs. Pohlman, have been visitors on the Union College campus for the past several days. Students have enjoyed Elder Pohlman's experiences as he recounted them in church services on September 20 and in upper division chapel on September 23.

At the present time, Elder Pohlman is on study leave from India. He is taking work in sociology at the University of Ohio in Columbus. During six of their years in India, the Pohlmans were at the Spicer Missionary College where he was president. Following his work at the college, he spent three years as educational and Missionary Volunteer secretary for the Southern Asia Division, which is comprised of India, Burma, and Ceylon.

Elder Pohlman stated that Spicer Missionary College usually has two hundred enrolled in its four types of courses—teacher training, theology, business, and vocational. Included in this number of students are representatives of twenty-two language groups. However, English is the language used.

In an interview with Elder Pohlman, it was discovered that shortly before his return from India, he was privileged to have a private interview with Mahatma Gandhi. He described Mr. Gandhi as a well-educated man and an interesting conversationalist. He explained that Mr. Gandhi's rise to the position of "uncrowned king" in India is due to the fact that he lowered himself from his high caste to be concerned about the welfare of the underprivileged in the lower castes. He also said that the Indians hold anyone in very high esteem who practices extreme self-denial, such as Gandhi has done recently in India's fight for national independence.

Betty Lou Williams of Montrose, Colorado, is to be the editor of the college paper for 1947-48. Before coming to Union, she attended high school for two years and was graduated from Campion Academy. She is now a junior and plans to complete a major in speech with minors in English and history.

During the past school year, Betty Lou acted as leader of the "Evens" in the Golden Cords-Clock Tower campaign. To fill a vacancy on the CLOCK TOWER staff during the second semester, she was chosen an assistant editor. This experience will help her in her duties as editor this year. She has many interests and has been associated with several campus organizations. Last year she was vice-president of the sophomore class.

Highest September Enrollment in History Nears 1000 Mark

Halls are utilized to handle record registration

The largest enrollment for a first semester at Union College has reached the 931 mark as students, fresh from summer vacations, begin their first week of classes.

According to the registrar, the record 998 enrollment of last semester may be reached now since there are several late enrollees. The enrollment to date is 53 more than the unprecedented total of a year ago when returning veterans flooded the classrooms.

As has been the case in schools all over the country, Union is experiencing a leveling off in the number of veterans returning to the campus. Union's present veteran enrollment of 276 marks an increase of only 8 over last year's number.

The clinical division of the Union College School of Nursing at Boulder, Colorado, numbers 51 student nurses. The academy enrollment total to date is 86.

Union, as usual, gathers its students from far and near. There is a good representation from Maine to California, Minnesota to Texas, Canada, British West Indies, Singapore, Denmark, England, Ethiopia, Egypt, China, Cuba, and the Hawaiian Islands.

To relieve the strain on the bulging dormitories, some of the girls are living in the North Hall annex on the north end of the campus. In addition to South Hall, the young men call the fifth floor of the administration building "home." One other dwelling not far from the campus serves as a men's annex also. A number of boys also are living in private homes near the campus.

To relieve the housing situation for married couples, 45 trailers dot the surrounding area.

NEW TEACHERS JOIN STAFF

A brief resume of the new teachers on the college campus will briefly acquaint us with them. We shall hear more from them and about them in later issues.

The music department boasts the largest influx of teachers in any one department. Mr. Harlyn Abel comes from La Sierra College to head the department. For fifteen years he was senior member of the department there. In addition to his administrative duties, he will teach some theory courses, voice lessons, and direct a portion of the choral organizations.

For the past several years, Mrs. Harlyn Abel has been assistant organist at the famous Mission Inn, cultural center of Riverside, California. She will teach piano and organ.

Mr. Raymond Casey will direct the college band and orchestra and teach some theory classes. After serving over four years in the Navy, Mr. Casey taught a year and a half at La Sierra College.

Specializing in small vocal organizations will be Wayne Hooper, baritone, who sang with the Voice of Prophecy quartet for nearly four years. His last appearance with that quartet was at the "live" broadcast of the Voice of Prophecy during the recent Youth's Congress.

Mr. Herbert Hohensee is returning to Union after a period of service in the army. He will direct a ladies' glee club and give private vocal instruction.

To the history department comes Mr. E. R. Maas from Enterprise Academy. In addition to other courses, he will teach a new course in Latin American history.

Mr. R. K. Nelson specializes in European history and comes to Union. (Continued on page four)

WELCOME

It has been a pleasure to the faculty and administration of Union College to welcome to the campus the largest student body ever to enroll for study. This welcome has been extended by individual greetings and in public meetings again and again, receiving emphasis by the repetition. It is now my privilege to extend the same welcome in this more permanent form in this first issue of the current volume of the CLOCK TOWER.

We are happy to be increasing our service to the youth of our constituency. We are happy to be preparing more potential workers for the finishing of the work of God. However, there must be many more young people with promise and ability who could and should profit by college privileges.

From the inspiring sight of this large enrollment we take an increased consecration to the cause of Christian education, and devote our energies to the service of those who are with us now and of those who are yet to come.

To Those Who Never Read Editorials

A school paper is the voice of the school. It should be read by each student. Very few bother to read editorials because they appear to lack in appeal. They usually are worth while, however. Bear with us as we try to dress up our few comments in this column. We think they'll be worth-while reading.

Orchids

To Blossom Church, summer editor of the CLOCK TOWER, for providing a paper full of names and news. It was well written, and we who were away from Union were pleased to receive it. Thanks to her staff, too. We'll hope we can do as well.

Credit Where Credit Is Due

The staff members of the music department of Union College wish to take this opportunity to acknowledge publicly several things which have helped to make their department what it is at the beginning of this school year. Gratitude to the college board is extended for their foresight in planning for the building of this excellent monument to music. Much credit is given to Mr. C. C. Engel for his untiring efforts in behalf of the ever-growing music department through the years. Teachers who, during the recent years have weathered the ordeals of the transition from small quarters into a large building and have contributed greatly to the rapid growth of the department, are to be highly commended.

Reactions to Youth's Congress

Phillip Ngui: The outstanding remark of the Congress was Elder Dunbar's statement: "Youth of today should live more by the compass of truth than by the speedometer of modern life." The programs I liked best were "Voices from the Campus" and "Panorama of Missions."

Frances Chamberlain: I thought the organ music was especially beautiful. The pageant of missions was outstanding, too.

Russell Strom: The outstanding thing to me was the regularity of attendance by the delegates.

Phyllis Smith: I especially enjoyed Elder Detamore's talk and the temperance meeting.

Bob Hoag: Everything was well organized by the leaders; they knew where they were going.

Lois Haas: I liked the inspiring talk given by Elder A. L. Bietz. We enjoyed swimming in the Pacific, too.

Lois Bingaman: The organ music was wonderful. I liked the memorial program given by and for the veterans.

Shirley Burton: It was thrilling to see so many thousands of young people so interested and enthusiastic. It seemed like we could feel the spiritual atmosphere in the meetings and in the groups of young people.

Henry Reisberg: When thousands said they would serve as missionaries, I was thrilled.

Iva Jo Larsen: I was impressed with the way so many attended nearly every meeting. They were all worth while, and especially fine was Elder H. M. S. Richards' sermon.

A Freshman's Impression

"There's the Clock Tower!" We peered eagerly out of the bus window as it rounded a corner and the famous spire came into view. Union College at last! As we started up the long walk that leads to North Hall, we realized that we were becoming a part of the changing throng passing continuously through the doors of "Old Union."

Soon we were led to appreciate the foresight of the originators of "Freshman Week." It was comforting to know that our fellow students were all as new and strange as ourselves. It seemed that the days were too short and the lines too long, but the spirit of cheer and friendliness among both old and new students went a long way toward making the registration lines more pleasant.

Perhaps the thing that impressed me most was the attitude of the faculty. I couldn't help reflecting that never before had I seen a school where the entire faculty seemed so completely "for" the students.

This was my first trip to Nebraska and I expected to see only barren prairies. Imagine my surprise when I saw the many beautiful trees that cover Union's campus. Had I not known better I would have thought myself still back in Ohio. That is, except for one thing—the weather. Much as I love my native state I'll have to admit that Nebraska's heat is much less noticeable, and, as winter approaches, its cold will be less noticeable too, I hope.

With the ending of Freshman Week and the beginning of a new school year came the Saturday night skating party. I enjoyed it.

Yes, I reflected drowsily as I listened to the autumn wind howl fiercely outside the window, Union College is truly all I expected and hoped it to be. I know many other Freshmen shared my thoughts as I wondered, "What will this new year and Union College hold for me?"

A LETTER to the Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

I know that I speak for most, or at least many, students of this college in my appeal to you for reinstatement of the poetry column in the CLOCK TOWER. To more than these persons, however, whose wishes I feel sure you are not unwilling to respect, do I feel an obligation. I feel obliged to direct this appeal to you in representation of the hundreds of parents and friends whose love for poetry and interests in our abilities justify without question such a column. Many, both on the campus and off, have given verbal and written expression to their appreciation of Union College poetic talent and the column that brings it to them. Further, it fosters great encouragement to the literary intellect of our school and a convenient and constructive criticism of the same.

If you have decided against such a column or have not considered it, please give those who would like to write for such a column and those who would like to see such a column opportunity to discuss the problem more in detail.

Thank you,

ROBERT M. BELDIN

EDITOR'S NOTE:

Thank you for your letter, Mr. Beldin. It has helped us make two decisions. The first is that we will have a poetry column IF we receive the right kind of material. We solicit your contributions and the contributions of the entire student body.

We also have concluded that a letters-to-the-editor column will help produce a better paper and at the same time give the student body a chance to air their opinions. Let's start those letters rolling for the next issue. You may place your letters in the CLOCK TOWER news box in the Ad building.

Complexities of Freshman Week Described

Over two hundred freshmen, accompanied by an odd assortment of baggage, arrived in droves of confusion September 13, 1947.

The atmosphere was that of an overgrown academy on the opening day. A few upper classmen looked on with an understanding but slightly cynical eye, which was not without just cause.

General skating Sunday night, convocation Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights, a program Wednesday night, and Friday night vespers were all influencing factors in the Sabbath calmness. To be fully initiated into a college program and to gain a college attitude towards life is a feat which can be appreciated only by those who have gone through the ordeal.

Registration, cafeteria, and assembly routines caused mixed feelings of awkwardness, helplessness, and in only a few cases poise and assurance. All were "in the same boat" which brought a kindred spirit. The common practice of walking into the wrong room relieved any tension of formality. All these circumstances were responsible for the friendliness manifest by all.

In general, the days were spent standing in long lines, during which time line buddies became bosom friends, and pouring over entrance exams with a life or death attitude.

The nicest surprise to many doubtful freshmen was the sympathetic and disarming personalities of teachers and students who welcomed the 1947 group of wide-eyed freshmen to another year in the mental mill of Union College.

SUMMER WEDDINGS
Wedding bells seem to have rung overtime this summer judging from the number of newlyweds seen on the campus this fall. In fact, if we attempted to print an account of each one, the CLOCK TOWER would have to run an exclusive issue—CLOCK TOWER—Wedding Special. Therefore we here present a brief account of only a few of the marriages.

The Denver Seventh-day Adventist church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Eileen Mayberry to Mr. Jay Lantry on June 25. Elder George Taylor performed the ceremony with Arlee Torkelsen and Carmen Schlotthauer furnishing the music. Mrs. Kenneth Mayberry was matron of honor and Mrs. Max Torkelsen and Mrs. Julius Korgan were bridesmaids. Kenneth Mayberry was best man and Max Torkelsen and Bruce Brownfield ushers. After a trip to California, the couple are attending Union College.

On the evening of September 8 in the Simpson Methodist Church in Minneapolis, Minnesota, Miss Iune Johnstone became the bride of Robert McManaman. Elder Charles W. Teel officiated. Miss Betty Christensen was maid of honor and Mrs. Jay Lantry and Miss Patricia Erwin were bridesmaids. Harry Johnstone was best man and ushers were Jay Lantry and Olaf Hove. Following a honeymoon in the Black Hills, the couple returned to Lincoln where Mr. McManaman is attending Union College.

The Denver Seventh-day Adventist Church was beautifully decorated in green and white for the marriage of Gloria Evey to Bruce Brownfield. Elder Miller, pastor at the Porter Sanitarium, officiated at the candlelight ceremony. Mrs. Paul Kemper was the matron of honor and Kemper Brownfield, brother of the groom, was best man. A lawn reception was held. The couple has returned to Union College for the school term.

Katherine Null was married to Roger Helmandach on August 3. Elder Robert Whitsett recited the vows. Mrs. Savage, sister of the bride, and Elder Keymer gave the vocal numbers. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home. The couple spent their honeymoon in California, and at present are back at Union College.

Under a foliage-covered trellis on the lawn of her country home, Bonnie Grogan became the bride of Joe Hunt. Miss Donna Scott was matron of honor and Bill Putnam was best man. Joyce Warner sang some selections. Elder M. S. Culver was the presiding minister. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt are attending Union College this winter.

NEW TEACHERS
ion from Washington Missionary College. He graduated from Union College in 1936.
Grace Ashton from Enterprise Academy will teach college and academy mathematics.
Elder Leslie Hardinge will teach several religion courses. Following thirteen years' evangelistic work in the British Isles, he taught for one year at La Sierra College. He comes to Union from that school.
Dr. H. G. Reinmuth returns to the foreign language department after a leave of absence spent in Germany.
Graduates of last year who will teach here are Josephine Griffin Benton in the speech department, and Mary Louise Loveless De Haan in the biology department.

Curves with your foot

Your Footprint in Leather

• Your sole wasn't built to fit sidewalks—or flat innersoles. The bottom of your foot is curved... and "your footprint in leather" is molded to match every curve. That's why Matrix shoes fit from heel to toe, from the first step—eliminate painful "breaking-in."
