LLU Medical Team Helps Refugees in Thailand

A volunteer team of Loma Linda University physicians and nurses left last month to aid Cambodian refugees in Thailand.

The first team, one of several from LLU planning to go to Thailand, will run the medical services for one large refugee camp and help staff another.

Working under the direction of Seventh-day Adventist World Service, Incorporated (SAWS), in cooperation with the International Red Cross and the United Nations, the teams consist of two physicians and six nurses.

Since SAWS has been working in Thailand near the Cambodian and Laotian borders for several years, it was assigned the job of setting up operations for medical relief there.

SAWS medical teams have been assigned by the United Nations High Commissioner's Office for Refugees to serve two refugee camp—one at Sakeaw, and a new one at Kumput.

"An unbelievable, delicate, and appalling situation exists which requires dedicated and experienced workers in international health," says Howard Burbank, executive director of SAWS.

An estimated 2.25 million Cambodians could die of starvation and disease in the next few months unless a vast amount of aid is provided soon, according to reports.

While in 1970 the population of Cambodia was estimated at approximately eight million people, today the population has diminished to approximately four million. This figure would drop to fewer than two million unless massive amounts of food and other supplies reach the Cambodians in the next few months.

Loma Linda University's team will join two others recruited from Adventist medical clinics in the Far East. The Loma Linda group will oversee the medical care at Sakeaw, which has a refugee population of 40,000 and may grow to 250,000 in the next few weeks, depending on the political situation in Cambodia.

Teams from Loma Linda are being organized through the General Conference liaison office in Griggs Hall under the direction of Donald Hunter, General Conference representative on the Loma Linda Campus.

Pastor Hunter said that SAWS response to the plight of the starving Cambodians was in keeping with its missionary philosophies. "We have been in the forefront of disaster reliefs in all parts of the world," he explains.

Through SAWS, aid has been provided following major earth-

ALL THAT REMAINS to be done in Tracy Church's nearly-completed Better Living Center is to lay carpeting in three rooms, according to Pastor Tim Mustard. A $110,000 Revolving Fund loan ($90,000 of which was withdrawn) helped remodel the church, providing a foyer, and started construction on the Better Living Center. The Center includes better rest-room facilities, a fully-furnished kitchen, community services facilities, a counseling office, plus two classrooms for Sabbath school and health programs such as cooking schools, weight management, stress evaluation and Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking.

Lipids Seminar Is Held at LLU

More than 350 registered for the Lipids Seminar held last month at Loma Linda University.

With internationally-respected scientists such as William Castelli, director of the Framingham Study, and 12 other authorities, the Seminar provided a forum for current information regarding fat.

Dr. U. D. Register gave a summary of the presentations at the concluding session. He began by saying, "In light of the information presented, let us avoid extremes in dietary practices.

"The speakers pointed out the need for a diet which will achieve optimum weight and prevent heart disease, cancer and high blood pressure. During this seminar we have heard scientific data presented which would encourage moderation in the use of food fats." Dangers of both high fat and low fat diets were clear.

Summarizing, Dr. Register suggested the following per cents of food nutrients in the diet, close to the recommendation of the American Heart Association and the Senate Select Committee on U.S. Dietary Goals:

Total Fat: 20-25% of the total calories saturated fat: less than 5% of total calories

Caroling—A Part of Ingathering

In 1918 the Wilkes Barre, Pennsylvania, members needed a new church, and remembering Christmas carolers of their native Wales, decided to try that method of raising money—collecting $2,000 in a short time. Thinking it would be good for Ingathering fund collection, they tried it in Philadelphia with some success.

H. E. Schneider moved from Pennsylvania in 1926, became leader of the Nashville YPMV Society, and introduced this new method of generating Ingathering funds. A bit slow to catch on, the carolers raised $548 in 1929. Added to solicited funds, the caroling money gave the Society $1,000 to contribute to Ingathering.

The young people became interested. Elders W. P. Bradley and J. J. Nethery of the Southern Union office noted the success and urged other societies to adopt the plan, suggesting it at Southern Junior College, where it was taken up with enthusiasm. Societies all over the South were singing for missions.

The General Conference then promoted the plan over the Division. In Kansas City the late Leal Grunke, then Missouri Conference education and youth director, urged his youth to get a head start on the next year's Ingathering after an early 1940 Harvest gathering. Singing at the train and bus terminals, they raised their goals for the following year!

Ingathering had originated in Iowa with businessman Jasper Wayne, who in 1903 conceived the idea of visiting folk with free missionary literature, asking dona-

BEGUN NEARLY FIVE YEARS AGO, this unfinished house on the county road which passes Adventist Indian Mission School near Holbrook, Arizona, could well be put to use for staff housing—with a roof and windows and internal divisions. All that stands in the way is an estimated $18,000. Though 2/3 of the staff are volunteers, the school does try to furnish them a place to live. INSPIRATION SAYS

"Christ rejoiced that He could do more for His followers than they could ask or think. He spoke with assurance, knowing that an almighty decree had been given before the world was made. He knew that truth, armed with the omnipotence of the Holy Spirit, would conquer in the contest with evil; and that the blood-stained banner would wave triumphantly over His followers. He knew that the life of His trusting disciples would be like His, a series of uninterrupted victories, not seen to be such here, but recognized as such in the great hereafter."

On Youth Leadership

Merton Strommen Will Speak for Convention

Dr. Merton Strommen, president of nationally-known Search Institute, will be the featured speaker at Central's 1980 Youth Leadership Convention to be held at Camp Wawona, January 18-20.

Called "Mr. Gallup-Poll of the Churches," Dr. Strommen is author of Five Cries of Youth, a standard reference text on contemporary youth concerns. A committed Christian, Dr. Strommen seeks through his Minneapolis-based Search Institute to study Christian youth needs so church leaders can more effectively minister to them.

Each delegate at the 1980 convention will receive a personal copy of Dr. Strommen's book. The weekend will be devoted to exploring, with Dr. Strommen, each of the five "cries"—Loneliness, Family Trouble, Outrage, Closed Minds, and Joy. Creative small-group activities will apply the insights gained to specific local church needs.

Union and local youth directors will then lead in group planning sessions so delegates can develop specific plans and projects for their own church needs.

Other convention features will include a "Children's Church" presentation Sabbath morning by one of Pacific Union College's Children's Church teams, guest musicians performing gospel music, a Saturday night "how-to-do-it" social event, demonstrating new youth fun activities by Union Youth Director Paul DeBooy, devotional messages by Central Youth Director Ken Veal, training films, and resource displays, and help on how to develop local church youth societies.

Open to anyone in Central California interested in teenagers and young adults, the convention is especially important for parents of teens, local church youth and youth Sabbath school personnel, youth pastors, and academy Bible teachers and student officers.

Plan now to attend the convention. Application blanks will shortly be sent to all Central pastors, youth leaders, and academy principals. For more information, contact the Youth Department.

Nelsons Return from African Relief Service

Dr. and Mrs. Peter Nelson of San Luis Obispo, California, recently returned from relief mission service in Nairobi, Kenya. Dr. Nelson relieved two mission dentists who were on leave for vacation and continuing education.

Besides his mission dental practice, Dr. Nelson gave health lectures at Nairobi University and held stress, smoking and cooking lectures at nearby Kenyetta College.

While visiting Mrs. Nelson's father, Dr. Olavi Rouke, in a remote, poverty-stricken area in south central Zaire, Dr. Nelson and Dr. Rouke performed two major surgeries every morning and distributed food and clothing to a leper colony on Dr. Rouke's compound in the afternoon.

Junior Academy Students To Send Bibles to China

On November 2, Pastor Harold Barnes of the American Bible Society visited the campus of Virgil Hauselt Memorial Junior Academy in Santa Cruz with a display, a film and a challenge to help furnish Bibles for distribution in mainland China.

With relations opening up recently in China, the ABS has had more than 10,000 responses to its Bible-offer broadcasts. The students at VHM are taking up the challenge to provide some of these Bibles.

Aim of the student body is to send at least 500 Bibles to this area by Christmas.

San Francisco Philadelphian

Homecoming Is Tool to Reach Former Members

Homecoming Day at the San Francisco Philadelphian Church on Sabbath, September 22, was the culmination of a carefully-planned attempt to contact former members.

Church members searched for and turned in names of former members to the small committee headed by Cynthia Jones. Over 400 invitations were mailed to all former members and pastors.

Some former members had transferred to sister churches, while others had simply lost contact with the church. At the worship hour, every seat was filled and extra seating was secured. Former Pastor William E. Galbreth assisted Pastor Donald J. Williams in the service.

The spirit of fellowship in the church was embodied by the large red heart hung in the sanctuary which read—"The Church with a Heart."

Dinner in the social hall, the afternoon musical program, and the social that evening provided opportunities for friendships to be renewed and new friends to be made.

When pastoral appeals were made at both Sabbath services, many former members indicated their desire to rededicate their lives to God, and renew their Christian vows. Presently former members as well as visitors continue to attend church, strengthened by the prayers and loving concern of the pastors and members. The church is already enlarged, with many new converts studying for baptism.

Fresno Westside Sponsors "Medical Van Day"

Fresno Westside Church recently sponsored its second "Medical Van Day" for the community. Before the van and medical personnel started the tests and screening, people were lined up waiting to be tested. Two hundred and thirty people came through the screening programs.

Tests and screening provided were blood pressure, sickle-cell anemia, lung function, breast screening, dental check, anemia, and diabetes. Drs. Janet Rose and Jack Wilkinson gave hours of their service freely in consultations. They were supported by about 35 nurses and para-medical personnel. Bobby Marshall, health director for the Fresno Westside Church, led out in preparation and promotion.

Market Street Church in Oakland again provided the medical van which was joined by a Fresno County medical van and nurse. TV Channel 24 sent a film crew to film the program, which was featured twice on the evening news.

Steps to Christ and other literature was given out as well as an invitation to evangelistic meetings at Fresno Westside.

Charles Hodge (seated), director of the West Fresno Laboratory for the County of Fresno, gives sickle-cell anemia tests, assisted by Betty Kelly.

IIW Interest Leads to Baptism

Marylyn Gardner had become convicted of the Sabbath truth through watching It Is Written each week. When literature evangelist Blake Hall called at her door, she said that she was only interested in books that taught about the seventh-day Sabbath.

Mr. Hall informed her that the books were published by the Seventh-day Adventist Church, sponsors of Elder Vandeman's program. Marylyn said that she was interested in attending church and in taking Bible studies.

Mr. Hall contacted the pastor of the La Habra Church, Elder Rigo Fernández. Elder Fernández visited her and invited her to worship on the Sabbath. She finally consented to attend Sabbath vespers at the church. She was so impressed with the love shown her by the members that she began attending each Sabbath.

Marylyn followed the leading of the Holy Spirit and took her stand for the Lord, being baptized into Jesus by Pastor Fernández on August 18. The Lord uses many ways to reach those who are searching for Him.

Adventist Men Attend Retreat at Cedar Falls

One hundred men from the Southern California Conference—nearly all of them laymen—met at Camp Cedar Falls October 5-7. They took part in the third annual meeting of the Adventist Men's Organization, directed by Conference Lay Activities Director Ora McLean.

Keynote speaker was Elder Emilio Knechtle, evangelist for Metro Ministries in New York. His messages included "Three Gifts from Eden," and "Trusting God When It Seems Impossible." His Sabbath talks ended with a challenge of commitment to which nearly every man in attendance responded.

On Sabbath afternoon, Ralph Arnold, an architect from the Thousand Oaks Church, held the audience's attention with a huge chessboard-like display entitled "Portrait of Eternity." Mr. Arnold uses the display to graphically illustrate his presentation on the themes of the "great controversy" in the universe.

Other speakers during the weekend included Floyd Johnson, an engineer at Hughes Aircraft, and Elder Michael Blaine, pastor of the Santa Monica Church and president of the Near East Institute and Archaeological Foundation.

Those who attended agreed that the AMO weekend retreat was a high point in their Christian experience. Robert Gibb, Jr. of Whittier, a 17-year-old, had planned to go backpacking with friends, but decided to go to

L.A. Chinese Hold Free Clinic

Los Angeles Chinese Church holds a free eye and dental clinic each month as a witnessing and community-service outreach. Fifteen dentists (including a woman dentist), one ophthalmologist, two dental hygienists, and 20 assistants volunteer their services to the clinic on a rotating basis.

The clinic began seven years ago in a rented facility in Chinatown. Four years ago it moved to a permanent clinic suite in the church plant located at 3000 W. Ramona Road in Alhambra. Hours are 9 a.m.-noon or later on the second Sunday of each month. There are two dental chairs and one eye-examination area. An average of 30 to 40 patients are seen each month, and transportation is arranged for some who are unable to come on their own.

While the clinic is open, patients may attend the evangelistic service which is held at the church each Sunday morning at 10:30. About 80 non-members have attended the services since they began last May.

The Chinese Church also operates a nursery school on the church property for 50 children year-round. Two full-time teachers and four part-time helpers staff the school. Child care is offered from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

As another community outreach, the church has started a radio program, heard Tuesday evenings for a half hour beginning at 7:30 p.m. on KMAX-FM 107.1. Elder Richard Liu, pastor of the church, speaks on health and religion. Elder Liu holds a master of science degree in public health from Loma Linda University.

The dream of the Los Angeles Chinese Church members is to produce another Chinese church, probably on the west side of the city, to serve the large Chinese community in Los Angeles.

Update . . . from the president

WE HAVE JUST completed a review of the Adventist Book Center for the year to date. They report $100,000 of additional books and other materials made available to our people compared to the same period last year. They are repaying their loan on schedule and have a slight gain for the year to date. The child-evangelism section reports that $3,000 worth of child-evangelism materials were recently sold to Sweden and $190 worth of materials were purchased for use in Italy. This is indicative of the wide acceptance of the Sabbath-school materials produced in the Southern California Conference and sold by the ABC.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL department reports that 675 children have attended the "Tots to Teens" evangelistic meetings (formerly child-evangelism meetings) conducted by Elder William Jamerson in connection with public evangelism in various churches. There were 183 decisions and 68 of these young people have already been baptized. We thank the Lord for this outreach to young people who have their entire lives before them.

ELDER HOWARD FLYNN has been asked to serve as the new pastor of the Burbank Church, replacing Lou Davis, who is currently pastor of the Ojai Church. Jim Clifford, newly returned from Andrews University, will be the new youth pastor at the Vallejo Drive Church.

AID FOR CAMBODIAN refugees may be channeled through your local church and the Conference on to the General Conference and will be used to supply food and medicine to the thousands of needy children and adults in Southeast Asia. Your help is urgently needed.

Elder Neal Wilson, president of the General Conference, made a special appeal for Cambodian aid in a front-page article in the November 8 issue of the Adventist Review.

Programs for 1980 Announced by Feather River Nature Club

Sponsored by the youth activities department of Northern, the Feather River Nature Club thus far has planned five programs for the 1980 season.

As with the Angelus Nature Club in southern California, the main goal of the Feather River Nature Club is to foster a Christian interest in the study of the natural world.

Stan Midgley will present the first program January 6 with his newest movie, "Colorado." On February 9 Ron Shanin is scheduled to appear and will present "High Adventure in Central Africa." March 15 Kent Durden will present "Death Valley, Land of Contrast." One of the finest nature films ever made, "Animals Are Beautiful People," will be shown April 12. Ralph Franklin's "The Canyon" is set for the evening of October 25.

All of the above programs will be held in the gymnasium of the Paradise Adventist School, 5699 Academy Drive.

As well as the evening programs, field trips and campouts are also in the plans.

Everyone in Northern is cordially invited to join the activities of the Feather River Nature Club in Christian fellowship and to witness the marvels of creation.

St. Helena Congregation Meets at Leoni Meadows

The St. Helena Church met for a memorable weekend at Leoni Meadows recently.

Elder K. Minifie brought the morning message and the program went smoothly under the direction of Pastor D. Kenneth Smith and the Social Director Den Dowswell.

Among Sabbath afternoon activities was a simple service at Cabin 31, designated as St. Helena Memorial Cabin.

The St. Helena Church has contributed $49,672.92 to Leoni Meadows which includes $11,000 designated for this special memorial project.

Lodi Concert Slated by the Belko Brass

Ivan and Boris Belko, known for their musical abilities while residing in Lodi as youth, will be returning for a musical vesper program in the Fairmont church, 730 S. Fairmont Avenue, Lodi, on Sabbath, December 15, at 4 p.m.

Billed as "The Belko Brass," their unique style of gospel music includes blending of the trumpet and trombone with Ed Wagner, a gifted pianist, and mezzo-soprano Meryl Sprengel-Wilson.

Plan to come and invite a friend. The public is also invited. A freewill offering will be taken. Recordings will be available following the concert.

Workers in Northern assemble at a large table in the shape of a cross to partake of a communion service at the workers' meeting.

Special Workers' Meeting Held

Northern's workers assembled for a special Workers' Meeting on October 29-November 1 at the Central California campgrounds at Soquel.

Organized by Northern's Ministerial Director Ralph Martin, the meeting was built on the theme of "home Bible fellowship." Guests who taught at the gathering included Walla Walla College Church Pastor Gary Patterson, Ed Huston from Southeastern California Conference, and two lay members from Southeastern, Skip Newby and Bob Sachar. Mr. Newby and Mr. Sachar are actively involved in the Garden Grove Adventist Church and Elder Huston has been director of the SETAC Training Center in Southeastern.

Retirees Are Given Plaques at Workers' Meeting

At a recent Workers' Meeting held at Soquel Campground in Central, three workers from Northern who are retiring were given plaques of appreciation by Northern's President Philip Follett and Secretary Richard Simons.

Honored were Elder Henry Bergh, secretary-treasurer of the Association; Elder L. W. Taylor, pastor of the Oroville Church, and Elder L. C. Caviness, pastor of the Roseville Church. Together these three workers have accumulated 113 years of service.

Elder Bergh's service began in the Oregon Conference and included a period of service as youth director of Central and Southern California conferences. During that time he authored the Pathfinder song. He later served as secretary-treasurer of the Arizona Conference and as administrator of Hanford Community Hospital.

Flanked by Northern's President Philip Follett (left) and Conference Secretary Richard Simons (right), Elders L. C. Caviness, L. W. Taylor, and Henry Bergh with wife, Miriam, hold up their plaques of appreciation for long-time service in the cause of God.

Elder Taylor originally served in the eastern U.S. where, among other responsibilities, he served as pastor of the large Rochester Church in New York. His other assignments in Northern California have included pastoring the Livermore and Orangevale churches.

Elder Caviness began his ministry in Texas, served in the mission field and in Oklahoma, and then served 12 years as the youth director of the Michigan Conference before he came to Northern. In Northern he pastored the Willows and Orland churches before pastoring the Roseville Church.

Northern California will miss these fine workers but wishes them every blessing in retirement.

Construction Continues on Campground Auditorium

At the time of the constituency meeting last May it was voted to erect an open-air auditorium on the campgrounds at Hobbles Creek Canyon near Springville, Utah. This would replace the main meeting tent which had served for many years and is now nearing the end of its usefulness.

Pastor H. E. Darby, who is pastoring the Truckee Church, is leading out in the erection of this auditorium. Work has been progressing for about two months and hopefully the roof will be on the building before the winter weather sets in.

The foundation is in, most of the blocks are laid, and next it is planned to erect the arches, then move ahead with the roofing.

This auditorium will provide a more comfortable meeting place and storage for tents and other camp-meeting supplies.

The structure is being built of wood, glue-lined beams with a shake roof, which will just fit into that area of the campgrounds. Work that cannot be completed this fall will be finished in time for camp meeting June 23-28.

Elder Darby has been assisted by his brother and Tom McMeekin, along with additional help by folk at the Smith Ranch.

The building is being constructed with Conference development funds. You will notice a line on your tithe envelope for Conference Development. Between now and the end of the year, every member is urged to contribute something to this worth-while project. This fund is intended to be used to build other church and school buildings throughout the Conference as soon as this first project is completed.

Why not make it a habit to turn in a small amount for this fund each time you turn in your tithe and other offerings?

Grace McLeod Teaches Cooking

Recently Grace McLeod conducted a cooking school at the Highland Square church in Las Vegas as a community service primarily to instruct new members in the preparation of healthful diets. She was assisted by Virginia Griffin, the director of the local community services center.

Not only did members attend but they brought others who were not Adventists who shared in this venture.

Mrs. McLeod supplied those present with mimeographed sheets of recipes and statements from the Spirit of Prophecy regarding healthful diets.

The cooking class lasted for six consecutive sessions with an average attendance of 33 persons. When the graduation exercises were held, 35 people received the "Health, Nutrition, and Food Preparation Certificates."

Clothing Needed for Distribution by SAWS

A great need for clothing has been expressed by the General Conference Seventh-day Adventist World Service office.

Thus all community service workers are encouraged to be diligent in collecting and packing clothing for use in supplying these needs.

Local community service units are intended first to help local people, yet the world outlet is something that gives local churches an opportunity to do much good for all mankind.

Two warehouses, one on the East Coast and one on the West Coast, serve the world field. Cooperation will make these warehouses channels through which blessings can flow out to serve the needy places of the world.

Pathfinders Distribute Food to Needy

Halloween is over but for young members of the Tempe Pathfinder Club, the happiest part of Halloween is just arriving.

That's when they distribute the food they gathered on Halloween to needy families in the area for the holidays.

According to Don Huft, coordinator for the Pathfinder Club, the boys and girls collected "403 cans of food, $15 in cash and some clothing."

The Safeway store located on Broadway and Rural furnished paper bags for the youngsters to carry their Halloween-collected canned goods.

Mr. Huft said canned foods collected, along with the food and clothing, have been turned over to community services which is using them to prepare food baskets for needy persons for the holidays.

"Ambassadors" Quartet and the "New Horizon Singers" ladies sextet will present a musical worship service on Sabbath, December 8, at the Mesa church, 1763 N. Gilbert Road.

Pastors Speak at Schools During Week of Prayer

In times like these, isn't it a privilege to have Adventist children attending school where the Bible is not only stressed on a daily basis, but entire weeks are set aside to emphasize Bible study and prayer?

Tucson Junior Academy's Week of Prayer speaker was Elder Monte Church, pastor of the Thunderbird Adventist Academy Church in Scottsdale. Elder Church stressed the importance of students learning to make wise decisions because "the decisions you make now greatly affect your future."

During his week in Tucson with the young people, Elder Church got his exercise each day by planning games with the children at recess.

Earl A. Canson, Jr., pastor of the Shiloh Mission, was the featured speaker at Glenview Adventist Elementary School Week of Prayer, held November

12-16. His subject was "Stair Steps to Eternal Life."

Pastor Canson shared with the young people the steps one needs to take in giving his life to Christ.

Elder Don Driver, pastor of the Phoenix Central Church, spent October 1-6 at the Adventist Indian Mission School in Holbrook as Week of Prayer speaker.

Elder Driver pointed out the importance of getting to know Christ and making Him part of daily life. "The highest position we can gain is at the foot of the cross," stated Elder Driver.

John Cress, associate pastor of the Camelback Church in Phoenix, spent the week of November 5-9 with the young people of the

She was married to Randy Scott of Fontana, California, on August 25, 1979. She feels very strongly that her Christian marriage will make her life complete in Christ.

This young lady has become active in the church and its program and she is working for it in an outreach to other young people.

Grades 1-4 received a better understanding of the Godhead through interesting and unusual presentations.

Elder Ervin Thomsen, pastor of the Tempe Church, shared happenings in the life of Daniel with the young people of the Tempe Adventist School. "Dare to Be a Daniel" themed his presentation during his Week of Prayer held November 12-16.

HAWAII

CMH Awarded for Landscaping

It was just two years ago that Castle Memorial Hospital prepared a master plan and work started on a multi-phase landscape project.

While many favorable comments have been received concerning the project from the community, the most significant recognition came when a Beautification Award was presented by the Lanikailua Outdoor Circle for "building a more beautiful Kailua." This was the first time in several years that such an award has been given by the group.

Under the direction of Greg Boyer-Hawaiian Landscapes, the landscape project was the final phase of an expansion program which included a new emergency room and radiology facility. Mr. Boyer's objective was to combine the highest possible aesthetic image while also providing for a low maintenance factor.

"We wanted to provide a landscape plan that truly complemented the natural beauty of Hawaii," stated Robert G. Carmen, president of the hospital. "We hope that what we have brought about will be viewed by the entire community as a landscape plan that meets our objective and adds to the Windward area's overall image," he stated.

LISA HAINA is the newest addition to the secretarial staff. Secretary to Elder Doug Motesbocker, she cares for the Sabbath school, lay activities, and communications departments. Lisa replaced Stella Nagao who transferred to the ABC.

Over 350 Attend Lipids Seminar Held at LLU

polyunsaturated fat: 7-10% of total calories monounsaturated fat: 8-10% of total calories
Refined Carbohydrates: (except sugar) No more than 10% of total calories
Protein: 12% of total calories
Complex Carbohydrates: 60-65% of total calories
Salt: 5 grams/day
 What do these percentages mean to the homemaker preparing the meals? As Dr. Castelli and others pointed out, it means substitution for some favorite foods:

- Replace whole milk with skim milk.
 - Replace red meats with low-fat cheeses.
 - Replace hard cheeses with soft cheeses.
 - Replace whole eggs with egg whites and legumes.
 - Replace high sugar, high-fat foods with more unrefined grains, fresh nuts and vegetables.
 - Replace high salt foods with home-prepared foods low in salt.
- "The high fat, high cholesterol, high sugar, high salt foods are leading to obesity, heart disease, cancer and high-blood pressure in many people," Dr. Register explained.

These recommendations are made for the general public and if therapeutic or reducing diets are advisable, other per cent values must be considered. Satiety is a very important aspect of a good diet. A diet with only 10% of the calories as fat lacks this aspect and will be not only difficult to follow but is not advisable for children and most adults.

"Every family should emphasize a variety of unrefined fruits, grains, and vegetables in the daily meal pattern," Dr. Register concluded.

Stoy Proctor, Seminar coordinator, points out that this session was unique in that it was a cooperative effort between Loma Linda University Schools of Medicine and Health, Andrews University, the General Conference health department, and the health departments within the Pacific Union Conference.

Tapes of the seminar are available through the Pacific Union Conference health services department.

Christian Record Sends Gratitude for Support

Gratitude comes from the Church's ministry to the world's blind population for support within the Pacific Union Conference.

Treasurer Bill Lawson reports that the offerings from these five states totaled $58,027.52 through August. This represents a gain over the year before (1978) when gifts from this field totaled $56,854.94.

PACIFIC UNION COLLEGE

Board Renames Airport for Late Napa Physician

Pacific Union College trustees have renamed the college's airport in honor of the late Napa physician Virgil O. Parrett.

Angwin Airport will now be designated as Virgil Parrett Airport, according to College President J. W. Cassell, Jr.

"College trustees made the decision to honor Dr. Parrett this way because of his interest and support of PUC's aviation program," says Elder Cassell. Dr. Parrett was a certified flight instructor.

In the early development of the college's airport, he was president of an Aviation Educators Fund that assisted in raising monies for aviation training at PUC. Of particular interest to him, according to Elder Cassell, was the training of mission pilots for service to the Adventist Church.

Dr. Parrett and his wife, Virginia, were both killed in the crash of their private plane in the Pacific Ocean off the coast of southern California last June.

From 1929-31, Virgil Parrett attended PUC and had several children from two marriages who either attended or graduated from PUC. Following medical training, Dr. Parrett moved to Napa and helped establish the Napa Medical Group, of which he was a member.

In other board action, trustees also named the college's Child Development Laboratory the Discoveryland Preschool. Last spring the new facility was opened. It currently serves as a training school for over 30 college students in the child-development educational program.

Trustees also authorized the hiring of staff members for the college's farm and business operations. Named as assistant farm managers for the creamery and dairy, respectively, were Gerald Wallace and Terry Reinig.

Joining the business-office staff are Robert Holland as chief accountant, and Jon Corder, assistant in the accounting department.

Office Ad Course Stresses Editorial Skills

Pacific Union College's office administration department is offering a new course in conjunction with the communications department this year which emphasizes editorial and public-relations skills.

Kristi Parks, a junior office administration major from Napa, is the first student to take the course. The program offers special training for secretaries who plan to work for the denomination in public relations and editorial offices.

Herb Ford, chairman of the communications department, says, "This course fills a real need within the Church, since no other Adventist college offers a comparable program. Upon completion, students will be able to help out in specialized activities such as page layouts and writing short stories in addition to the routine secretarial work."

Prudence Ortner, chairman of the office administration department, says that there are also four other new emphases in addition to this one and the medical and stenographic focuses they have had in past years. This year the department added emphases in accounting, bilingual office skills, legal and individualized secretarial programs.

Winter Applications Still Being Accepted

Applications are still being accepted for the winter quarter at Pacific Union College, according to Perry Campbell, director of admissions.

To receive an application, contact Mr. Campbell at (707) 965-6336. He says that a transcript from the school last attended should be sent with the application materials.

Limited financial aid is also available for new students. Those needing assistance should contact the Financial Aid Office at (707) 965-7200.

Mr. Campbell urges that students submit applications as soon as possible since the winter quarter begins January 4 following registration on January 3.

Vespers Will Feature Carols

Pacific Union College's music department will present its annual Christmas Vespers Service on Friday, December 7, at 8 p.m. in the College Sanctuary.

The candlelight service will be conducted by James Kempster, professor of music. Three musical groups—Pro Musica, the Collegiate Chorale and the College Orchestra—will be performing.

Musical numbers will take the form of Christmas carols that span the centuries and continents—from 15th-century European music to modern Spanish carols.

Area church members are invited to the service.

Faculty Members To Conduct Evangelistic Meetings

In the traditional Christmas spirit of helping others, three Pacific Union College faculty members will travel around the world during December conducting evangelistic meetings.

Elder David Taylor, associate professor of religion, will be in Baguio City, Philippines, December 4-22. He will conduct a Festival of Faith Workshop, speak at a youth rally and conduct a class in pastoral leadership.

His presentations will be aimed at teaching Seventh-day Adventists how to work with the people of the cities, how to discover people's needs and initiate outreach programs to meet those needs, and how specifically to reach the inhabitants of the inner city.

Sherman Nagel, MD, professor of biology, and Elder John Staples, professor of religion, will also leave the United States during the first week of December. They will travel to Kampala, Uganda, to conduct a health-evangelism series. Elder Staples lived there several years ago as a missionary and is familiar with the people's needs.

Their meetings will be held in a tent which has a seating capacity of 1,500. Nightly meeting will continue for four weeks.

Elder Staples says that "although the Church is functioning again following the political administration of Idi Amin, who banned operations of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, church members there are still in need of assistance."

The two professors have spent the past four summers conducting this type of outreach throughout the world.
