Students Elect Don Bush '67-68 ASB President

The power behind the ASB and the chief strategist is the newly elected president, Don Bush, from So. Lancaster, Mass. The son of a minister who has been stationed in many areas of the country, Don plans on starting immediately on the platform promises of his campaign. Some of those plans will be interrupted because he will take time out to be married this summer. The junior theology major who is known for his boyish grin and infectious laughter plans on going into the ministry and being a church pastor.

Don has run the gamut of employment from campus cop, which he is now, to a traveling salesman selling, of all things, microscope repair. In his free time he likes sports of all types, and if no one has guessed by now, campaigning and politick-

ing. Now that the elections are over he plans campaigning for the support of the students so they can present a united front to the faculty with the proposals that he hopes to implement next year.

Don Bush, junior theology major, walked steadily away from his opponent in the presidential race of the ASB final elections.

Bush believes that the role of president is one of leadership. He plans on taking an active role in promoting his winning platform which promoted "a stronger scholastic program, greater student action and a dynamic spiritual environment."

Bush plans to begin immediately "to get the ball rolling" down the long, and often quite bumpy, road to a successful ASB program.

Dear Students,

I thank you very much for your support in the elections. I pledge that I will work for you through your ASB. The proposals that were submitted in my platform I will work for. 1. A greater student voice in student affairs. 2. That there would be more student for student action. 3. and there would also be more student for student activities. Now that you have elected me we will immediately start making our constitution workable and through the student council provide efficiency in the ASB committees. We will continue to work on a good ASB for you this summer as well as next year. Again, I want to thank you for your support and will promise to work for you next year.

Sincerely, Don

Don Bush, '67-68 ASB president, dodges as his loyal supporters rush to the polls.

Brailsford, Sackett To Edit Publications

A world traveler and a native from Chelmsford Essex, England, will be the editor of the CLOCK TOWER for next year. Philip Brailsford has attended Avondale College and University of New South Wales majoring in the pre-med curriculum before coming to Union.

Although he was raised in England, his parents are now teaching at Spicer Memorial

College in India. The goateed and mustached Briton with exact, precise enunciation finds spare time to enjoy folk music, swimming, badminton, and sports unusual for America, cricket and soccer. Although pleased with the students' response, he hopes to have their continued support throughout next year.

The Golden Cords editor for next year is a sophomore theology major from Rochester, Minn. Glenn Sackett attended Maplewood Academy before coming to Union. He has been associate editor of the Golden Cords this past year.

Coordinating the various features of the annual this year has given him, he feels, a good perspective for what he wants for next year's edition. Sackett stated that he "wants a representative annual for all students of all walks of life, not just factions." This summer he plans to work on his hobby of photography for better picture quality in the annual for next year.

Kilsby Chosen By Students To Control ASB Budget

"I thought I had been sitting around long enough complaining and thought it was about time I helped the ASB," said newly elected ASB treasurer, Harvey Kilsby.

Kilsby plans to make a monthly report of the financial standing of the ASB to the students through the CLOCK TOWER. He said that he hopes to make available the proposed ASB budget and changes prior to their being voted on.

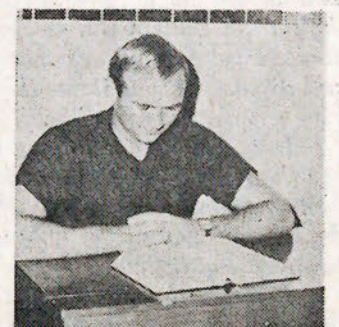

Phil Brailsford, Clock Tower editor for next year.

Glenn Sackett, '68 Golden Cords editor.

Harvey Kilsby, ASB treasurer, operates the key punch machine in the IBM office.

Jim Wentworth also ran for the office of ASB treasurer.

Please Answer The Phone

Like the mating call of the nearly extinct whooping crane, the upcoming ASB elections were met with hopeful anticipation.

Unfortunately the response to administrative positions available for the 1967-'68 school year was, on the whole, without general enthusiasm; some did not take even passing interest. A few positions had to finally be appointed since no one had the initiative or interest to place his name on the ballot.

It is often repeated that a student association is the student body, and can only become what the students themselves make of it. This is quite true, of course, yet there is still a missing element in the problem of "apathy," as this situation has generally been termed.

The specific problem on our campus is not apathy, strangely enough. It appears to be more accurately described as a problem stemming from a break in communications.

In a recent survey among a random sample of students, I discovered that the reason certain well-qualified students did not make themselves available for ASB positions was (1) because they were simply unaware of the various positions available; (2) there is little freedom of action if "I were to win;" (3) the "student association is only there to make students with political aspirations happy—it never actually does anything."

These three responses were the most common.

In all three categories, there are examples of reasoning based on rumor or prejudice—all stemming from not having been informed. Up to a point it is the student's job to inform himself; however, in the instance of a student association such as the one we are endeavoring to improve here, it is the responsibility of the ASB to make well-known its accomplishments and intentions. Often, the typical student thinks of the ASB in terms of various nondescript committees that appear to continually meet and discuss various items that have no direct bearing on his every-day campus life.

In the above-mentioned survey, the question, "What has the ASB done for you this year?" was asked. The majority response was one of total silence. Most of the students who finally were able to respond spoke of the ASB banquet and little else.

Perhaps the newly-elected student association officers will be quick to repair this communications break. Like all communications though, it cannot function simply as a transmitter. There must be an adequate receiver connected to the system.

In other words, when your phone rings, answer it!

Linda Sterling Wins Race; Astner Future Secretary

"Oh, you're kidding!", exploded Linda Sterling, vice-president elect of the ASB and chairman of the student council for next year, after being told of her election. Gavel-wielding Linda is a native Wisconsin resident who was born in Madison, the state's capital. She is keenly looking forward to the executive responsibility. Linda, diminutive, and sprightly, with a cherubic face, attended Wisconsin Academy four years and served as year-book editor her senior year. Planning to go further with studies in nursing after her bachelor's degree, she tentatively plans to go into the field of psychiatric nursing.

Her hobbies include music, reading and painting with oils. Camping with her family and swimming are her favorite outdoor sports in the summer months of the year.

Linda sees her chief responsibility as ASB vice-president as that of making the student council the effective voice of the students.

Handling the secretarial chores for the ASB next year is a sophomore secretarial major from Boulder, Colo. She attended Boulder Jr. Academy and then Champion Academy where she graduated in 1965. Blending a combination of both sedentary and active hobbies Karen Astner enjoys reading, watching people, badminton, hiking and spectator sports. Musically inclined, she has played in the percussion section of the band for the past two years and once had the honor of playing with a philharmonic orchestra.

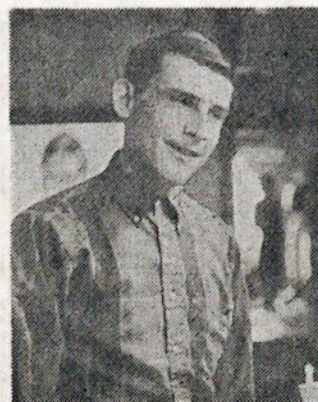

Karen wishes "to post executive and student council meeting decisions so the student body will be aware of what is being done with their ideas." She naturally wishes to work closely with the other officers "to promote a spirit of unity between students and faculty."

Linda Sterling, new ASB vice-president, is caught by the CT candid camera as she leaves class.

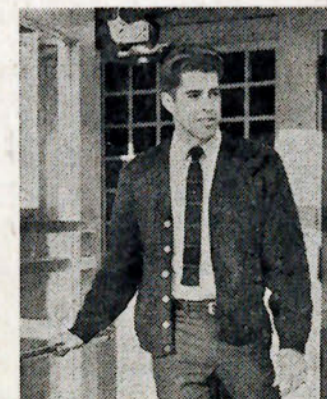

Ann Carrick, defeated candidate for the vice-presidency of the ASB.

Pat Morrison, chairman of the Program Productions committee, will be responsible for the new student talent and amateur hour programs.

Bruce Ehlert, freshman from Minnesota, makes plans for his new position in charge of the ASB ID cards.

Karen Astner, ASB secretary, flashes a smile for the CT camera.

Sherry Gregg, defeated candidate for ASB secretary.

Candidates Win Committee Posts

Bruce Ehlert, freshman from Minnesota, makes plans for his new position in charge of the ASB ID cards.

Dan Wellman, chairman-elect of the Promotions Committee, stops to mail a letter on his way to the dorm.

Ed Johnson is Peanut Hill Editor; Radio, Committee Heads Elected

The man behind the camera for next year's Peanut Hill is a sophomore theology major from Des Moines, Ia. Edmond Johnson or "Ed P. Jones" as his friends refer to him, is the son of the president of the Iowa Conference. Ed hopes to follow his father's steps as a minister, but he would like to be a pastor who specializes in youth work.

The bespectacled editor-elect spends his free time enjoying all water sports in the summer, and in the winter and school year he and a few other friends have become somewhat noted for their sometimes lengthy sessions of "Monopoly" late Saturday nights and early Sunday mornings. Since he will be here this summer working as a printer, he hopes to have some of the preliminary work finished on the Peanut Hill before school starts next fall.

Dean Rogers, chairman of the student center committee, works on desk in South Hall.

Dean Rogers, sophomore business major, was elected today to the chairmanship of the Student Center Committee.

Recalling the committee's accomplishments this year, Rogers said "what was done was good; but not enough was done." This is why he decided to run for this ASB office, he said.

Rogers said that he would like to see a sufficient number of table games. Also, he added, he hopes to encourage more games like the Dating Game and Password.

Although Rogers is not convinced of the value of having displays, he said that he hopes to arrange for "more good precludes."

Officers Attend MV Workshop

Eleven students represented Union College at the MV workshop at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich., Apr. 5-9.

Discussion groups and general assembly meetings centered on problems encountered by the collegiate MV as a student organization. The workshop discussed these problems, as well as other problems related to providing a rich spiritual atmosphere for the student on a Seventh-day Adventist campus.

Those attending from the present MV Executive Committee were Jere Webb, MV leader; Terry Dietrich, Bible conference coordinator; Dan Goddard, temperance; Karla Krampert, secretary; and Jan Schultz, student-student coordinator.

Students representing next year's MV were Larry Hallock, leader; Stan Hardt, student-to-student; Edonna Christie, student missionary committee; Kathy Saunders, secretary; and Lynda Kostenko, publicity. Jerry Mitchell, representing the student missionary program, also attended.

Bob Blehm, the new Health and Recreation Committee chairman, takes a breather during a basketball game.

Curtis Wiltse, defeated candidate for the editorship of the Peanut Hill, relaxes after the elections.

Ed Harlan, the new representative for the KVUC control panel, will be in office for one year.

After the pressure of the campaign, Marv Olson returns to ordinary school life.

Vandeman Leads Ministerial Club

Larry Vandeman was elected president of the Ministerial Club for first semester of next year. George Gibson will assist him as vice president, Ray Kelch, newsletter editor; Ora Bell, public relations-secretary; Dave Ferguson, music director; and Glen Gessele, treasurer.

Among their responsibilities will be the Ministerial Club camp-out and Friday evening discussion groups.

Vandeman says he hopes to have many interesting programs planned to interest the entire student body. "The Ministerial Club should lead out in developing the spiritual tone of the entire school and not just the ministerial students," says Vandeman. "But not less important, the club should provide opportunity for the future preachers to get together for learning or just fellowship. Some might call it 'cloistering'; but I call it fellowship, the kind that strengthens."

Judge Addresses Social Welfare Club

Judge Nuernberger, juvenile judge in Lincoln, gave a lecture to the Sociology-Social Welfare Club on juvenile delinquency, Mar. 21.

The basic purpose of Nuernberger's talk was to give information concerning delinquency problems. He also compared the local situation with the national picture.

Judge Nuernberger believes the rise in juvenile delinquency has been due to the increase of population in this age group. As this age group gets older they continue in crime and thus the overall crime rate is increasing.

The most common difficulty, and area where most of the delinquency starts, is in petty theft, Nuernberger said. Children begin with this because it is easy to do and get away with.

Frequently this is the beginning point in a life of crime.

Considerable time was given to discussing the President's Council Report on Crime and Delinquency. According to the report, it is estimated that only one third of the crimes are even reported. Out of reported major larceny, only 20% are ever caught and only 25% of the burglaries are solved. However, 90% of the murderers are caught.

The rise in the delinquency record is partly due to more reporting and better records. If anything is to be done about these law violators though, it will have to be by the people, according to Nuernberger. Marginal law violators could be stopped by only a few small things such as taking the keys out of the car and locking houses.

Increase in law violation has also been due to the self-service method of merchandising, he said. The most important thing in curbing this is that the child get caught the first time. A severe punishment is not even necessary.

The real problem stems from the family structure. A study on 500 delinquents and 500 non-delinquents showed that all the problems were family-related.

The greatest challenge of our time is how we can live together as law abiding citizens with respect for each other and in stable family units, Nuernberger said. The problem of nations cannot be solved before the family problems are solved.

The lecture was followed by a question and answer period. Refreshments were served afterwards.

REQUIEM FOR A SQUARE

You, like any other lovable, clean-living, freckle-faced American kid, want to be a BMOC. How can you make it? Well sir, there are several ways, none of which will work.

You're too puny to be an athlete, too lazy to be a valedictorian, and too hairy to run for Homecoming Queen.

As for becoming a best-dressed man, how are you going to buy clothes with a miser for a father?

Are you licked then? Is there no way to make BMOC? Yes, there is! And you can do it! Do what? This:

Become a hippie! Get cool! Get alienated! Have an Identity Crisis! Be one of the Others!

How? Well sir, to become a hippie, simply follow these five simple rules:

1. Read all of Tolkien in the original dwarf.
2. Have your Sophomore Slump in the freshman year.
3. Wear buttons that say things like this:
NATIONALIZE DAIRY QUEEN
ASTHMATICS, UNITE
LEGALIZE APPLE BUTTER
HANDS OFF AIR POLLUTION
4. Go steady with a girl who has long greasy hair, a guitar, enlarged pores, and thermal underwear.
5. Attend Happenings regularly.

Brennan To Head Social Committee

The Social and Cultural Committee will be headed next year by Linda Brennan. Linda is a sophomore math and English major from Dallas, Tex., who enjoys "books, guitar and writing."

Linda accounts for the fact that she was unopposed for a major ASB committee "not because of any tremendous lack of interest but perhaps lack of time or knowledge of the office by other capable students."

Above all, Linda hopes "to please my fellow students in the way their money is spent for entertainment next year." She feels the students expect good social events and there is no reason for not working towards this goal.

Linda Brennan

This last item may require some explanation, for it is possible that Happenings haven't reached your campus yet. Be assured they will because Happenings are the biggest college craze since mononucleosis.

A Happening, in case you don't know, is the first formless art form. Things just happen. For example, eighty naked men come out and squirt each other with fire hoses containing tinted yogurt. Then eighty more naked men come out and light birthday candles in the navels of the first eighty men. Then one girl, clothed, comes out and pulls three thousand feet of sausage casing through her pierced ear. Then eighty more naked men come out and eat a station wagon.

There is, of course, a musical accompaniment to all these fun things. Usually it is "Begin the Beguine," played by 26 trench mortars, a drop forge, and a rooster.

There used to be, some years ago, still another requirement for becoming a hippie: a man had to have a beard. But no longer. Beards were worn in the past not so much as a protest, but because shaving was such a painful experience. Then along came Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades.

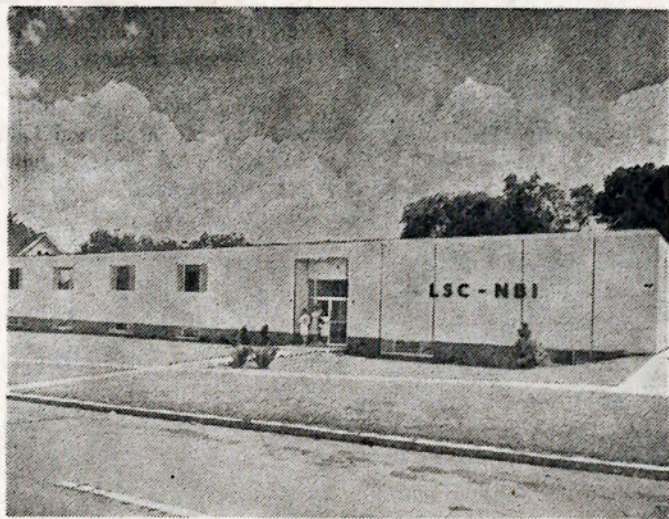

Today if you don't want to shave, well, that's your hangup, isn't it, baby? I mean when you've got a blade like Personna that tugs not neither does it scrape, what's your copout, man? I mean like get with it; you're living in the past. Shaving used to hurt, used to scratch, used to gouge, used to give you all kinds of static. But not since Personna. It's a gas, man. It's a doozy; it's mom's apple pie. You dig?

I mean, man, you still want a beard? Crazy! But you don't have to turn your face into a slum, do you? Shave around the bush, baby, neatly and nicely with Personna. I mean like Personna comes in double-edge style and Injector style too. I mean like any way you try it, you gotta like like it.

© 1967, Max Shulman

Hey, man, like how about doubling your shaving cool? Like how about wilting those crazy whiskers with some Burma-Shave? Like regular or menthol? Like have you got a better friend than your kisser? Like treat it right, right? Ye-ye!
