Union Enrolls 886 As Dorms Overflow

Enrollment at Union College for the fall semester reached 886 on September 17, according to Miss Marie Anderson, registrar.

While this figure is not a new record, it is approximately thirty students more than one year ago at the same time, she added.

Students from twenty-nine states have enrolled at Union this semester. Nebraska with 180 students has the most enrollees. Colorado is second with 132 students. Seventeen students come from nine foreign countries. Forty-seven nursing students are on the Denver campus.

Miss Hilda Fern Remley, dean of women, and Mr. Robert Britain, dean of men, report that the dormitories are filled. Rees Hall houses 244 ladies with the overflow of 76 ladies living in the courts under the supervision of Mrs. Bill Nordgren, assistant dean. South Hall with 264 men has an overflow of eight men living in the rooms over the bookbindery, Dean Britain said.

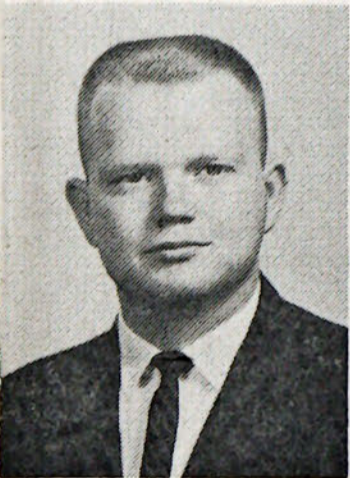

Page Finishes Work For Ph.D. in Biology

The latest of the Union College faculty to join the Ph.D. rank has been Mr. Walter Page, associate professor in the biology department.

Although his degree will not be formally conferred until December, the end of the first quarter at Michigan State University, the requirements for the degree were all completed at the end of this past summer.

The subject of Dr. Page's doctoral thesis was the esterases of liver and brain tissue of the chicken embryo. One of the main purposes of this research project was to pinpoint how early the vital enzymes appear in the chick embryo.

Danny Saunders Killed In Summer Accident

On July 23 Danny Saunders, a junior music major at Union last year, was killed when the tractor he was operating overturned on U.S. 50 in Missouri. A summer employee of the State Highway Department, he was mowing grass when the accident occurred.

During his three years at Union, Danny's activities centered around music. He played oboe in both band and orchestra and the Gala Festival ensemble. He was a member of the Unionaires, the Golden Chords Chorale and the men's chorus. Often he led the song service for Sabbath School. Last year, he served on the ASB Publicity Committee.

A graduate of Sunnydale Academy in Missouri, Danny worked in the College Furniture Manufacturers during the school term.

(Editor's Note: Danny was an enthusiastic campus leader and we, his friends, will miss his leadership and radiant smile.)

President Announces Recipients Of Scholarships, Grants & Loans.

A number of students attending Union College this year have arrived with sizable scholarships, grants, or loans, made available through various funds set aside for educational purposes.

"One of these sources of financial aid, the Eppley Foundation of Omaha, provides each year, a pair of $500 scholarships with matching grants for two Union College students. These are awarded after application, and on the basis of outstanding scholarship and high citizenship rating. Decisions concerning these scholarships, as well as the various others, are made by Union College's standing Scholarship and Loan Committee. Recipients of this year's Eppley Foundation scholarships were Miss Donna Wood and Mr. Dan Fausset.

Every year Union College awards to each valedictorian and salutatorian graduate from the Northern and Central Union academies, scholarships of $100 and $75 respectively.

Those benefiting from such scholarships this year are as follows: Enterprise Academy: Darlene Chrispens and Robert Wilson; Campion Academy: Teresa Burris and Evelyn Hildreth; Platte Valley Academy: Larry Thayer and Joan Scott; Sunnydale Academy: Doris Babcock and Thelma Gibb; Union College Academy: Carol Adams and Virginia Dittberner; Maplewood Academy: JoAnn Kupcho and Judy Kabrick; Oak Park Academy: Linda Wehland and Carol Hein; Plainview Academy: Bernard A. LaLone and Curtis Poore; Sheyenne River Academy: Twila Christensen and Sandra K. Bjone. Two Southwestern Union College graduates also receive similar scholarships. However, the recipients have not been decided upon at present.

LLU's Dean Clark Interviews Pre-Meds

Mr. W. B. Clark, dean of students at Loma Linda University, will be on the Union campus October 2-4. Each year he comes to interview those students interested in attending LLU. He will meet with the freshman students as a group, but sophomores, juniors, and seniors may make appointments to see him through the office of the college president.

Loma Linda University, Loma Linda and Los Angeles, California, now offers degrees in medicine, dentistry, physical therapy, nursing, and the sciences.

Other sources of scholarships, grants, and loans include the Ak-SarBen organization, which makes available two $150 scholarships each year, the National Student Defense Loan from the Government, making $28,191.76 useful to Union College students; the Union College Alumni Association, furnishing grants and loans; and the Bank Loan Program, sponsored by the United Student Aid Fund. The latter is handled through the student's home bank, and furnishes $25,000 to UC students.

Collecting all the funds from these various organizations, the impressive sum of $56,231.76 is derived. This hints of the special emphasis being placed upon education today, as well as the definite effort to make the books available to those who are worthy scholars.

ASB Friday Convocation Presents 'A Glimpse of the Coming Year'

The ASB will present the convocation Friday, September 21.

"The purpose of this convocation," said Steve Gifford, ASB president, "is to give a glimpse of the ASB plans for the coming year."

The convocation will begin with the Star Spangled Banner followed by the pledge to the flag and the singing of the school song. Following a devo-

Gym Floor Receives New $1500 Finish

The cost of the sanding and refinishing of the Union College gymnasium floor was $1,500, reported Mr. Vernon S. Dunn, treasurer and business manager.

The contractor of the work was Mr. Roland E. Harte. He is the father of Perry Harte, junior pre-dental student at Union. Mr. Harte also attended Union and now is self-employed in the flooring business. He makes his home in Hastings, Nebraska, with his wife and sons.

Mr. Wayne Fleming, instructor of physical education, said that there are fifteen different courts on the floor of the gym. Mr. Dunn related, "In order to make the lines for these courts, over two miles of masking tape were required."

Perry Harte said, "The floor was sanded five times. The first time was with 'open coat paper,' the second was with '2 grit paper,' the third was with '1/2 grit paper,' and the last two times were with '0 grit paper.'" After this procedure one coat of finish was applied. Tad Achord, junior pre-medical student, then painted the lines. Finally the last two coats of finish were applied.

Jarnes Discusses 'You and Your God' As 'Know Thyself' Series Begins

"In the beginning God . . ." will quote Elder P. C. Jarnes in the first of a series of chapel talks which will begin September 24. He will emphasize the fact that even as God was in the beginning and all things were in the beginning with Him so must we begin the school year with God.

Elder Jarnes will point out that He is everywhere to be seen—in the painted flowers, the leafed trees, the spacious sky, the song of a bird, and the smile of a baby. It is our duty as students to become better acquainted with our God and to fulfill our responsibility of making Him known to the entire

Norman Smith Competes In Chemistry Contest

General Chemistry's top student last year, Norman Smith, who received a Handbook of Chemistry and Physics as award for his achievement, will soon represent Union College in a competitive examination with other top students in the Midwest.

Smith, a sophomore, received the yearly achievement award by the Chemical Rubber Publishing Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, for his superior grade-point average.

"Besides receiving a Handbook of Chemistry and Physics, Norman was selected to represent Union College by writing an examination sponsored by the Chemical Rubber Publishing Co. to select the top chemistry student of the Midwest," said Dr. Rene Evard, chairman of the Chemistry Department. "And should Norman win," continued Dr. Evard, "the UC Department of Chemistry will receive a $100 set of books."

world. We have no greater call than this.

He will conclude his talk by saying that if we acknowledge Him, He in turn will direct our paths.

The general topic of this series is "Know Thyself." "The subjects are so chosen to be stimulating and worthwhile to the students of Union College," states President D. J. Bieber.

gram," said Mitchell Tyner, Leader of MV.

Elder Harold E. Haas, MV Secretary of the Northern Union Conference, will be the guest speaker on Friday evening. The MV choir under the direction of Robert Tan will have the special music for the program, which will be held at 7:45 in the auditorium.

The Central Union Conference President Elder R. H. Nightingale will be the speaker at the Sabbath service held at 11:00.

The program for Sabbath afternoon will introduce all of the MV activities for this school year. The theme of the program is about a young couple who see the orthopedic band visit their son at the hospital. Shortly afterwards they are visited by the MV target teams who get them to attend evangelistic meetings being held in their vicinity.

Evelyn Bird, Associate Leader of MV, is in charge of the sunset meditation program in the church at 6:15.

M. V. will present a fun festival.

Music Department Plans Student Organizations

At a meeting of music majors and music faculty on September 13, Dr. Melvin S. Hill, chairman of the department of music, outlined plans for the forthcoming year.

Largest of the student music organizations is the Fine Arts Guild, intended to include anyone whether or not a music major, who enjoys the fine arts of life. Mrs. Shirley Holzer, sponsor, announced plans for obtaining the services of a variety of outstanding talent from the Lincoln area to come and present concerts at regular club meetings of the F.A.G.

Members of the Guild have opportunity to visit with guest artists at a reception sponsored by the Fine Arts Guild following lyceum programs. Recreational opportunities and parties are also provided for club members. To broaden the club's activities, the Department of Art is also joining in the activities of the Fine Arts Guild in an endeavor to cover the complete area of Fine Arts appreciation and activities.

The Union College student chapter of the American Guild of Organists also announced increased activities for the coming year, under the sponsorship of Miss Marvlyn Loewen, Instructor in Organ. Members are given an opportunity.

New Classes Offered By Eight Departments

Several new classes have been added to the Union College curriculum this year, expanding the students' choice and opportunity of learning. Eight areas of instruction were affected by either an expansion of a previously-taught class or by a completely new course.

Applied Arts:

In the Applied Arts field Cataloging and Classification 101 is being taught by Miss Gertrude Huygens, and Miss Floda Smith is teaching Reference and Bibliography 102. These two classes are an expansion of Library Science 101 and 102 taught in the past and are offered the first semester. These courses will aid in providing additional teacher-librarians who are urgently needed in secondary schools.

New Classes Offered

Fine Arts:

There is a new requirement for all students entering under the 1962-63 UNION COLLEGE BULLETIN as candidates for the Bachelor of Arts Degree. Two hours of Art Understanding 4 taught by Mrs. Jean Hill, or two hours of Music Appreciation 23 taught by Mr. Robert Murray will fulfill the new requirement.

Four additional art classes are being taught by Mrs. Jean Hill this year: Arts and Crafts 20, 1-2 hrs.; Lettering 24, 2 hrs.; Drawing Orientation 22, 2 hrs.; and Introduction to Commercial Art 30, 2 hrs. These courses are not being offered in connection with the Elementary Education Curriculum in particular, but as general art courses for anyone.

History:

In the History Department one hour of Current History 181 is being offered in connection with the Adventure Series. Dr. R. K. Nelson will teach this class the first semester and Mr. Dale Hepker, the second. They will use some of the Saturday-night speakers in their 7:30 Monday-evening classes.

Mathematics:

Algebra and Trigonometry 41 (5 hours 1st sem.) and Algebra and Introduction to Analysis 42 (5 hours 2nd sem.) is a new freshman series. This is an intensive course for math and physics majors taught by Mr. Earl Leonhardt.

Modern Languages:

Miss Pearl Hall is teaching French Civilization 113, a two-hour class offered the first semester in the Modern Language Department.

Music:

In the Music Department two sections each of Elementary Conducting 26, and Church Music 41 are available. The 9:20 periods accommodate the religion majors and the 2:10 periods are for the music majors.

Physical Education:

Professional Activities Skills 17 and 18 is a series of activities courses required for P. E. majors and minors. This one-hour class takes the place of the other activities courses provided for other students.

Religion:

The Religion Department is offering Introduction to Philosophy 92 as a general elective. This does not apply only to religion majors. This three-hour class will be taught second semester by Elder Sydney Allen.

The Education Department has departed from the usual daily schedule by offering General Secondary Methods 160 from 12:10 to 1:00 p.m.

Music Organizations

portunity to hear organ concerts both on and off campus. The Lincoln chapter of the American Guild of Organists invites members of the student chapter to attend their meetings downtown in addition to the local meetings on campus. Plans are under way to bring to the Union College campus, Professor Warren Becker, distinguished Seventh-day Adventist organist from Andrews University for a week end of special organ concerts.

Last year the first student chapter of the Music Educators National Conference was organized at Union College. This is the recognized national professional organization for all music educators, regardless of the specialized area of music. Dr. Hill, sponsor of the club, states that membership in the club not only entitles one to a subscription to the Music Educators Journal which is published bi-monthly, but also entitles students to attend any of the many local, state, and national conventions held in the United States without charge.

Students interested in joining any of these music organizations are invited to do so.

Country Boy's Profound Impression "Them Things Called Women's Shoes"

by Jim Gardiner

Now, in speakin' of these-here women's shoes, I's meanin' the spike-style type, ya' know . . . where them women teeter an' totter 'round while goin' through the motions of walkin'. Yep, we country folk got to thinkin' we'd seen near ever'thing, 'till one day when we took a trip up to the city. When we got there, we thought we'd hit town jest in time for some demonstration of people showin' off how well they could walk on stilts. Yep, all up 'n down the street they went. Now we didn't get too close, 'cause we thought they might be a-charge-in' admission to see such a thing. Wal, I didn't see nothin' like that for a long time afterward, but the whole thing shore stuck out in my mind. Then the second time I saw 'em was enough to sour me on 'em for good. It was when me an' ma' girl was down town one day, and she wanted to go into one o' these-here shoe stores. No, I didn't know at the time that they even had these things in there, or much less that they had 'em for the common folks jest to walk in an' buy, or I'd a-never set foot in there, or let ma' girl go in either. The first thing I knowed,

Dr. Caviness Announces Graduate Fellowships

Inquiries about Danforth Graduate Fellowships for college teaching careers worth up to $12,000 are invited, Dr. G. L. Caviness, academic dean, announced today.

The fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, are open to male college seniors or recent graduates preparing for a career of teaching, counseling, or administrative work at the college level. Applicants may be planning to major in any field of study common to the undergraduate liberal arts and sciences curriculum, at the American graduate school of their choice, but should not have already undertaken graduate work. Nominations close October 28. Approximately 100 fellowships will be awarded to outstanding candidates nominated by Liaison Officers of accredited colleges and universities in the United States this year. Nominees will be judged on intellectual promise and personality, integrity, genuine interest in religion, and high potential for effective college teaching.

Winners will be eligible for up to four years of financial assistance, with an annual maximum of $1,500 for single men and $2,000 (as well as $500 per child) for married men, plus tuition and fees. Students without financial needs also are invited to apply.

Danforth Fellows and leading scholars are guests of the Foundation at annual conference on teaching.

There are now 472 Danforth Fellows in graduate study preparing to teach, and 267 more already teaching in some 150 colleges in this country and in 20 institutions abroad. Danforth Fellowships may be held for life, with certain benefits after completion of graduate study such as financial assistance to attend educational conferences.

Students may hold a Danforth Fellowship concurrently with other appointments, such as Ford, Fulbright, National Science, Rhodes, Woodrow Wilson. Winners will become Danforth Fellows without stipend until these other awards lapse.

there she was, over at the far table, admirin' an' handlin' those contraptions that I thought looked mighty like some new-type of anvil, with a little less flat surface, given up to space for a spike to hang the horse-shoes on while they was a-cool-in'. Yet, she seemed to really take to 'em, an' it was jest all I could do to keep from cringin' when she took one of them anvil affairs, turned it upsidedown, an' stuck her foot in there. I wanted to yell, and shout for all I was worth, but bein' as how I was in town, I jest had to keep all the misrey to myself. Ya' know, despite all my reasonin', talkin', and downright forcefulness, that gal jest went right ahead, big as ya' please, an' bought them high-steppin' shoes. It was horrible, I says! Yet, the worst thing about it was the next time I took her on a date. Can ya' believe it—she had the gumption enough to come right out and wear those awful things; even with me there on Saturday night! Not only was I embarrassed to be walkin' with her teeterin' 'round like she did, but to top it all off, them stilts o' hers even made her taller'n me. I tell ya', the men today needs to get up in arms to this-here affair. No one wants to go around lookin' up to his gal, not no one in the whole state of Arkansas!

Now, one place I knowed about they got smart to this whimsical women's fad, and even outlived the shoes in the whole city. Ya' say ya' don't believe it? Wal, I seen it with my own eyes. Now, you can jest say what ya' want, but I'll tell ya' that they had traps set out for this spike-type shoe. No, not the ordinary kind of beaver traps, 'cause that would attract all kinds of attention, and scare 'em all off. Ya' see, they was real sneaky, and had them traps built right into the sidewalk. It was so nifty—stead of makin' the sidewalk all solid with wood, they left the boards apart, so that a little crack was there—not big enough to notice right well, but jest big enough to ketch them spikes in. Yup, an' they made this-here trap into a long strip, an' put it right near the ocean there, so's lots of 'em would go walkin' out to ketch the nice view. They gave it a real nice name, dignified soundin', like board-walk, so's nobody'd get suspicious. It was shore sneaky. They'd trap 'em, all right. I seen it with my own two eyes! Some of 'em even stumbled, and fell right then and there, but those cracks jest held onto those spikes with all their might. My, I was happy, to see justice bein' done to such a thing that was raidin' the country.

Wal, I thinks they's not goin' to last us too awful much longer, for with all the jet planes, and rockets, and other things they got nowadays, them women'll soon find out that they's gonna need mor'n jest elevatin'-type shoes to get up in the air!

Registration Line Survey

Lines are the ominous greetings for Union College students, but are they a necessary evil?

A two-year survey of registration line lengths conducted by one of the administrative offices gives a rather concrete basis for analysis and action. Congratulations to the faculty as line lengths are considerably shorter this year than last, and the pre-enrollment of last spring is probably a primary factor in this move in the right direction.

Now the greatest problems as indicated by the survey are the first three stations which must be visited in succession and the last two verification stations.

Automation is the most frequent solution offered by the uninformed student, but the cost of automation is prohibitive for a school whose students are still numbered in the hundreds. Automation would speed only the copying of class schedules and cards now done at the last station. A much simpler solution would seem to be a group of multiple carbon copies on a lighter paper.

The problem of lines is simply too many people wanting the same service at the same time. The long lines at the verification centers could be shortened if the staff at those stations were doubled, especially on Tuesday and Wednesday when the freshmen have had their schedules approved by counselors.

As far as the problem at the first three stations is concerned, it seems to involve the students having to be served by a specialized faculty member. But why must students with no financial problem still see the Business Manager? Why must each student have to receive personal service from the Registrar? Couldn't a student be trained to handle the routine cases? This would leave the regular faculty member free to handle special cases and the routine business of the office that must be done even if lines are piling up outside of the office.

Another partial solution is the expansion of the experiment whereby students who make an early advance deposit received the receipts by mail and could omit stations one and two. And those who wouldn't participate in this optional program would forfeit the right to gripe - at least in the first two lines.

Right Direction --- Now More

Great things many times have small beginnings. The Wright brothers' first flight was neither long nor high; the United States of America started with a small colony of courageous humans looking for a different way of life.

The first Union College ASB Leadership Council was held on September 7 and 8 with only a small student attendance. But it was held. Certainly this is a good beginning for better student government. The ASB executive officers, committee chairmen and faculty sponsors were invited and expected to attend. Not all came. Perhaps with earlier notification and a better explanation of what was really to be accomplished in this two-day session would have brought the others back to the campus for the meeting.

Guest lecturers from the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce and the University of Nebraska presented ideas that, if put into use, could make our student organizations more efficient and more meaningful. Those who heard doubtless gained something to make them better leaders for this year.

Although the Council was not a total success, let's not give up. Let's try again next year and with some improvement in its planning, we may have 100% participation.

Enough cigarettes were produced in 1959 to make a carpet seven feet wide and one cigarette thick from the earth to the moon.

One of the best-established facts about smoking mothers and their babies is the fact that premature births occur more frequently among smokers than among nonsmokers.—

It is estimated that about 60,000,000 Americans smoke cigarettes on a day-to-day basis. Of these, 36,000,000 are men.—

SPORTS

Intramural Sports Aid Health and Character

by Dale Johnson

I suppose, as long as Adventist schools operate, there will be a controversy over whether their schools should or shouldn't have intramural sports programs.

Some people think we should quit having intramural programs because of the arguments that develop, because the people get their feelings hurt, and for many other reasons.

On the other hand, many people support the intramural program because they feel that the good that is accomplished far outweighs any harm done.

I think that our schools need good athletic programs, especially Union College. Here are my two main reasons.

Our bodies must be kept in physical condition. Sure, physical labor is best for this, but very few jobs on our campus provide sufficient physical activity. Many jobs are exactly opposite, such as, reading papers, monitoring, working in laboratories, and janitor work. Therefore, an intramural program provides exercise to the Union College student who can't accomplish this through studying, through extra-curricular activities, or through work.

I witnessed an amazing scene last year after a faculty social in the gymnasium. Mr. Fleming, Instructor in P. E. was leading some male participants in some calisthenics. Of these participants only two were faculty members, the rest were children.

By observing one of the faculty members anyone could tell that he wasn't used to physical exercise. In trying to do ten push-ups he accomplished one and then collapsed on the floor. The sight was amusing, but sad. Many people had quite a laugh, but they probably couldn't have done any better and I'm sure that they didn't have enough courage to even try.

Perhaps if we could get more of the faculty and less active students into the intramural program, then some of the oversized stomachs and weak arms would disappear.

The second reason is that I think a good intramural program helps the participant to build strong character. It seems to me a person who tries his best and still loses yet congratulates his opponent is developing a better character.

Mr. Fleming is striving for a better intramural program by getting better equipment, better officiating, and better organization. But, he still needs better participants, and this includes you.

Scavenger, Adventurer, and Mule-Journalist Is Mr. Everything

(ACP)—From the J-Day special issue of The Oklahoma Daily comes this definition of a journalist:

Just who is the person who calls himself a journalist?

He's a scavenger hunter, weatherman, flat-foot, historian, scientist, sportsman, adventurer and mule.

Defined by some, he is an unselfish, unfailingly honest purveyor of information.

Often a journalist must be a blundering elephant—persistent and driving. Yet, he must remain sympathetic, kind and considerate. He must be tactful and at the same time frank and honest.

Being consistently inconsistent describes him well. He is constantly late for an appointment, but ever punctual on a deadline. His basic fault, perhaps, is not having enough time—there is never enough time to get all the news. And so, he must set himself up as a judge to choose those events he feels are most newsworthy and necessary for his public.

Though it sounds incongruous, a journalist is an objective bigot. His nerves are frayed from pressure. Meals are thought of as interruptions in doing the thing he likes best—writing. He likes to see his name as a by-line, but abhors it in print for any other reason.

He is a do-it-yourselfer, jack of all trades—but master of few—and a student of everything.

Physically, he may often appear unkempt. He is usually casual and calls everyone by his first name. He ages early, but most of the wrinkles are put there by smiles.

What is a journalist? He is a student of mankind.

"11:10—Not Again" Says Hungry Scholar

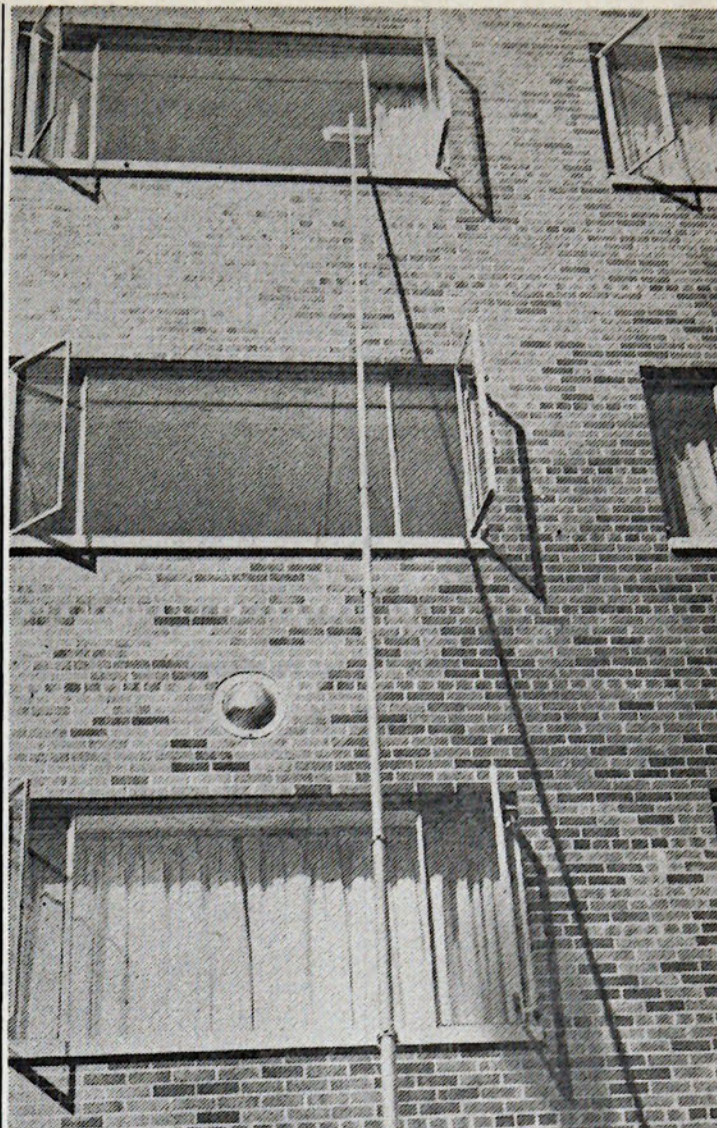

(ACP)—Pity the hungry student, Prof., or his growling stomach may drown out your words of wisdom.

Chuck Austin offers a "Sonnet on a Long-Lecturing Instructor" in the MIDLAND, Midland College, Fremont, Nebr.:

Time moves on and still he talks, Not noticing the clock's swift hands.

He talks and fiddles with his chalk And lectures, leaning on the stand. Lunch draws nigh and on he goes, We see no logical end in sight. All stomachs growl and in the throes Of hunger, we bemoan our plight. Now there's the bell; we close our books;

But wait! His mouth is open still. Our faces take on anxious looks, Resigning our fate with strongest will. Never, I say, no never again Will I take his class at 11:10.

'Mistakes' are not our goal but we must admit that 886 names do present more than normal probability of error. We're sorry.

Registration was received by many students like modern art—lots of confused lines.

A young lady who misinterpreted the class schedule jargon exclaimed upon seeing Dr. Cavinness take charge of the Health Principles class, "Why, I thought that new professor, Staff, taught this class."

Susie Stone, teen-age daughter of Professor George Stone, was overheard confiding to her girlfriends, "Yeah, my dad teaches psychology up at the college, but he doesn't use it at home; it's just yell, yell, yell."
