Hearts dangle as the single men and women of Union College enjoy the Kappa Theta and Alpha Rho Gamma banquet.

The recent highlight of the social season at Union College was the Kappa Theta Banquet given by the combined dormitory and village women's clubs on Monday evening, February 23, in honor of the men of Sigma Iota Kappa and the single men of the village. This banquet, one of the outstanding social events of the year, was given in the College Auditorium. Red and white streamers, red hearts, candles, and cupids gaily decorated the surroundings for the evening.

Dean Culver asked God's blessing on the evening's activities, and then an appetizing three-course dinner was served in royal style with appropriate background music.

A welcome was extended to all present by Bette Jewell Lenz, president of Kappa Theta, and to this, Ralph Boyd, president of Sigma Iota Kappa, responded.

The program that followed was a musical, "Portrait Reveries," with a choral group under the direction of Daina Ramey, an accompanist, Gladys Davis, and a narrator, Glen Carley. The portraits were shown in a life-sized album, the cover of which was opened and closed for each "picture" by Donnie Culver. In this old family album were found many pictures to bring back memories of days long since gone by. The program was climaxed with "Auld Lang Syne" by the girls' chorus.

Lion's Club Features Recovered Sightless Man

Mr. George Campbell, sponsored by the Lion's Club, spoke in chapel Monday, March 2. Mr. Campbell, who was born blind and remained sightless for eighteen years, has told his story of devoted parents, kind teachers, tireless scientists (in perfecting his glasses), and men of good will like the Lion's Club to 3,500,000 students.

He said he never learned the Braille, and he got all of his lessons from people reading the assignments to him which was a wonderful way to develop concentration.

One lesson he learned early was "no man is a handicap until he is a part of the conspiracy against himself, and God created men equal." Only six per cent of the blind are willing and able to adjust to living in darkness, so he stressed that we should try to prevent the accidents that take the sight of so many.

Mr. Campbell feels as if he is really only sixteen years old instead of thirty-four, since he first saw oranges, apples, people, and other things at eighteen years of age. He warned the students to guard their sight as they don't really know its worth.

Weeks Outlines PR Work

Elder Howard B. Weeks, associate press secretary of the General Conference, visited on the Union College campus recently. During his stay, he acquainted the students with the vitally important role of good public relations in furthering the cause of God.

The far-reaching effects of press and radio in reaching the countless men and women as yet unwarned of Christ's second coming was graphically presented to upper and lower division chapel students.

A short seminar was given for the benefit of those who were interested and desired to see that more of the activities of this denomination come before the public in home-town papers and radio stations.

Musicologist Will Concertize For Lyceum

Stephen Barwick, a piano concert artist and musicologist, will present the last lyceum of the year at Union College on March 21. Mr. Barwick studied music at Coe College of Iowa and continued his piano studies at the Paris conservatory with Lazare Levy.

At the present time he is head of the piano division of the music department of Western Kentucky State College, Bowling Green, Kentucky. In addition to teaching there, he is concertizing this season in the southern and midwestern states and has played twenty concerts.

While a student at Harvard, he received the John Knowles Paine Traveling Fellowship Award. This took him to Mexico and Central America for two years to do the research for his doctoral dissertation, Sacred Vocal Polyphony in Early Colonial Mexico, a study which has won the acclaim of many musicologists and has brought about a contract with the Southern Music Company of New York for the publication of a Series of Courses for Mexico, edited by Stephen Barwick and Hugh Ross.

He spent last summer touring in Europe, studying under Claudio Arrau and attending the Salzburg Festival. The honorary societies to which he belongs are: Phi Kappa Theta, The National Scholastic; Pi Delta Epsilon, National Journalistic; and Phi Nu Alpha, Sinsonia Musical.

SA Strategists Plan Campaign Maneuvers

Delbert Brown, Dale Hepker, Shirley Sorenson, Ferman Mock, Marilyn Dart, Bob Rider, Wynona Amrhein, Dean Ogden, Gloria Scott, and John Westerberg look over final propoganda sheets before the campaign is launched.

Today in joint chapel the Student Association officially launched the campaign to raise $20,000 to assist in the construction that is now going on for the new men's dormitory.

Leader in the campaign is John Westerberg, student from Iowa. Leaders from the various unions are as follows: Northern Union, Dale Hepker; Central Union, Ferman Mock, Marilyn Dart; Southwestern Union, Wynona Amrhein; and Cosmopolitan, Shirley Sorenson.

The individual goal for each student and staff member is $27. The student, staff campaign will run to April 15.

San's Entertain SN's

At the Cornhusker Hotel February 18 the senior nursing students were guests of Boulder and Porter Sanitariums, and their host was Mr. H. E. Rice. A delicious meal was served, and a game was played of guessing titles of songs.

Guests were Elder M. V. Campbell, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Moon, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rice, Mrs. Charles Watson, Mr. W. B. Mohr, Mrs. Leona Moon, director of nurses from Boulder Sanitarium, and Mrs. Pauline Neil, director of nurses from Porter Sanitarium. The main object of the evening was to inform the seniors of the opportunities Boulder and Porter are extending to them as future graduate nurses.

The question was raised whether these future graduate nurses will answer the call of God and enter the great field of medical evangelism or will they turn it down for higher wages in outside institutions.

Social Work Students Receive Briefing at NU

The students of the social work class, under the direction of Mr. R. K. Nelson, were invited to the 62nd Annual Meeting of the Family Service Association of Lincoln, Nebraska. The meeting was held in Love Memorial Library Auditorium on Tuesday evening, February 24, 1953.

The title of the three-act play was, "Where Do We Go From Here?" The plot brought out some of the problems with which the families of today are confronted and cannot seem to solve without help from an outside source. It brought to the students' attention the many services there are in Lincoln to help people with their problems.

On the following day, February 24, Mr. Victor H. Sellers, general secretary of the Family Service Association, was guest speaker in the social work class on the Union College campus.

Those not pictured are: Pete Knight, Rema Lowry, Rosemary McCown, Ramona Zehm.

Participation in the largest sunshine band in the history of Union College, sight-seeing in Lincoln, basketball in the college gymnasium, and an informal reception in the Music Hall were the highlights of Southwestern Junior College days on the Union College campus last week.

Thirty-one seniors and guests from Southwestern Junior College arrived on the campus Thursday, February 26. They registered at the Music Hall and later toured the college industries and buildings. Swimming, skating, basketball, and a program were the activities provided for Thursday afternoon and evening.

Friday morning the seniors visited classes and presented the chapel program. A tour of Lincoln and the state capitol was arranged for Friday afternoon.

Sabbath, the Southwestern Junior College visitors attended the regular church services, then in the afternoon went out on a special sunshine band. Saturday evening after movies in the college auditorium, a reception was held in the Music Hall for all the guests. After several musical numbers, readings, an official welcome for next year by President Harvey C. Hartman, and a response by Dean R. E. Hamilton of Southwestern Junior College, the bus and car were loaded and the guests departed.

Watts, Taylor Are New Mission Band Leaders

Those elected for the new officers of the mission band are Ralph Watts, leader; Wesley Taylor, assistant leader; Janis Brittain, secretary; Herbert Harris, pianist; and Ardell Rouse, chorister.

One more position on the Golden Cords staff was filled. Sandra Anderson is now the literary editor.

Amiable Amateurs Amass Artistic Abilities

Grand prize and first place winners in the tenth annual Amateur Hour were Muriel Lehto, Maurice Bascom, Louis Johnson, Trampoliners Darlene Marquess and Doug Hill, and quartet members Byron Moe, Don Madison, Harold Reeder, and Art Dick.

The Tenth Annual Amateur Hour was given February 21 in the Union College Auditorium. The grand prize was won by Darlene Marquess and Douglas Hill for their act on the trampoline. They also won first place in the novelty section. Jay Sloop and Francis Crawford received second place in the same section. The other prizes were as follows: semi-classical vocal section; Harold Reeder, Art Dick, Byron Moe, and Don Madison, first; Russell Hoffman, second; Donna Chambers, Marvel Jensen, and Kay Lewis, third. Readings: Maurice Bascom, first; Rex English, second; Eileen Christman, third. Instrumental: Louis Johnson, first; Jean Robinson, second; Jim Wilmot, LeRoy Wyatt, and Bill McLaughlin, third. Classical vocal section: Muriel Lehto, first; Vernon Taylor, second; and Gordon Dormady, third.

Other participants were: Don Sales and Robert Dickerson in the semi-classical vocal section; Mrs. Joy Hare in the reading section; Armonda Gunst, Armilda Young, and Elaine Berglin in the instrumental section; Fred Speyer and Fred Holweger in the classical vocal section.

Amblin' and Ramblin' with the Eds

Congratulations to the winners of the Tenth Annual Amateur Hour. We're still wondering how the voting audience managed to get the right numbers with the right program sections. Need we say more?

So many ladies received orchids at the Kappa Theta banquet, we feel that one more lady deserves an orchid for her splendid efforts. In spite of the fact there were no lights in the kitchen for forty-one minutes and that she was ill with the flu, Miss Whitfield prepared a very delicious meal for the banquet.

To carry a briefcase to school may be a very convenient way for the owner to move his belongings, but it isn't so convenient for the people who trip over, walk around, or plain fall over those miniature trunks stacked on the stairs and in the middle of the halls. Think of your neighbor—he may not know you are renting a square foot out of the middle of the hall for a parking lot.

We wish to extend our very best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cleveland as they set up their new home.

In the rush of writing final headlines and captions last time, it seems we omitted our very good friend, Elder N. R. Dower, from the Union College board of trustees. Please accept our apologies.

A letter from Pvt. Fred Christensen on his way to Japan states that Freddie would like to hear from all his friends here at Union College. His address:
Pvt. Fred Christensen 55250911; Prov. Co. 285; APO 613 % Post Master; San Francisco, California.

The phone rang in the bookbindery one day. "Is the Ludlow busy?" a man's voice asked. The new girl who answered the phone was puzzled. "Just a minute," she said.

"Is there somebody working here by the name of Lud—Ludly, or something like that?" she asked.

"It must be LaVonne Ludwig. She's the girl cutting cardboard over there."

LaVonne answered the phone. "Well, is it busy?" the voice asked. "No, I'm not—Who is this, anyway?" LaVonne wanted to know as visions of some cute new guy flashed through her mind.

"This is Jack Jester. Is the Ludlow busy?"

"Oh, the Ludlow! Wait a minute. No, we're not using it now." In a few minutes Mr. Jack Jester, foreman of the Union College Press, arrived at the bookbindery ready to set up type on the Ludlow, a typesetting machine which the bindery sometimes shares with the press. LaVonne made no effort to reveal her identity.

President Harvey C. Hartman on January 25, 1953 was presented with a notebook in which were written the minutes of the original meetings held to decide the location of Union College. The first minutes written in pencil and appearing in the book, were dated January 13, 1890.

This document was delivered to President Hartman by Harvey A. Morrison, general manager of the Review and Herald Publishing Association, son of J. H. Morrison, who was the chairman of the locating committee.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The International Relations Club met on February 25 to elect officers for the second semester of 1953. They are as follows: president, Mardian Blair; vice-president, Gene Johnson; secretary, Jeanette Knecht; assistant secretary, Mildred Buckwitz; treasurer, Gerald Wadell; publicity manager, Dick Roderick; sponsor, Mr. Robert E. Cleveland.

The Shape of Things

The use of the veto by the Soviets (more than 50 times) is proving to be an increasing source of irritation among the member nations of the U.N. It is quite possible that our new representative to the U.N. (Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.) will make the continued abuse of this special privilege ill advised. All vetoes with the exception of one have been cast by the Russians. France is the exception by its veto of action on French North Africa by the U.N. Something certainly needs to be done if the United Nations is to function as an influence to reckon with in any contemplated breach of the peace.

According to an informed source, the most critical time for a major breach of world peace this year will be during the next few weeks. Better get the spring work done early.

Wilkie ran for president and went on a world tour as a result of which he wrote a book One World. Adali has embarked on somewhat the same program, and his book should be quite a literary work if he lives up to the well-known reputation for being erudite and ready of speech. In order to get the feel of journalism, Stevenson has written a story for the Saturday Evening Post, giving his reasons for defeat in the presidential election. For the story, keep posted on the Post.

TOTS Receive Pins from Educator at Dinner

Wynona Amrhein, Mr. J. C. Turner, Joyce Shable, Mrs. J. C. Turner, and Mavis Finch look on as Jean Stephens receives her pin from Elder G. R. Fattic.

The Teachers of Tomorrow Club climaxed their first semester activities at a dinner given by the Central Union Conference, Tuesday, February 24, in the Union College cafeteria. Elder G. R. Fattic, educational secretary of the Central Union Conference, was the guest speaker, and he stressed the importance of Christian teachers in molding the minds of the young people.

Elder Fattic called attention to the fact that during the formative years a teacher's responsibility compares favorably with that of parents. A teacher's influence for good or evil can never be completely realized. The lasting rewards of this profession were called to mind. Members were told every young life guided through pitfalls of childhood and adolescence remains as a lasting monument in the stream of time.

Demonstrating their determination to follow in the teaching profession, the members joined together in repeating the club pledge. Those who received club pins were: Marian Magnuson, Mrs. Marjorie Dygert, Mrs. J. B. Stephens, Wynona Amrhein, Mavis Finch, Jean Stevens, Jean Sharp, Joan Broughton, Joyce Shable, Ruth Gerst, Eloyis Bockmann, Edith Cochran, and Mildred Buckwitz.

Colporteur Institute Enlists Summer Workers

Elder J. J. Strahle prepares Ray Bailey, Melvin Lyon, Calvin Krueger, and Elder C. A. Edwards for the task of spreading the gospel the colporteur way.

The annual Colporteur Institute was held last week at Union College under the direction of the three union publishing department secretaries of the college area. Elder C. G. Cross of the Central Union was the chairman of the institute, with Elder C. A. Edwards of the Northern Union as the co-chairman. Elder J. J. Strahle of the Southwestern Union was the chief instructor.

Each day there were two instructional periods devoted to presenting methods of Christian salesmanship. During these periods every phase of the sale was explained in detail in order to simplify many points from the approach to the close of the sale.

The Colporteur Club also helped the institute by presenting the chapel programs on Monday and Tuesday. The programs were under the direction of LaVern Opp, president of the club, and student colporteurs told how colportearing has helped prepare them for their profession.

A contest was held during the institute with a prize being offered to the student recruiting the most colporteurs. The results will be announced at a consecration meeting to be held May 16.

Elder Cross expressed his satisfaction for the cooperation shown by the students in the efforts made during the week to instruct and enlist future colporteurs.

ALUMNI NEWS

R. Curtis Barger, '42, is the newly appointed home missionary, Sabbath school and temperance secretary of the Hawaii Mission. The Bargers have been in Honolulu for several years where Mr. Barger has been the pastor of the Central church.

Soon the Alumni office will be attractively carpeted. Many, many thanks to the Texas chapter for choosing this project as their goal. Boyd E. Olson, '39, educational secretary of the Texas conference, is the chapter president.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Voegle (Darlena Stanford, '52) were called recently to Oklahoma because of a serious accident in Darlena's family.

At the Central Union Colporteur Institute, which just closed at the college, six of Union's graduates, who are publishing department secretaries, were in attendance. They were Carl B. Watts, '49, of Missouri; Joseph N. Hunt, '49, and Albert L. Ingram, '51, of Nebraska; Morten Juberg, '48, of Wyoming; and Henry Preston, '32, of South Dakota. J. J. Strahle, '16, publishing secretary of the Southwestern Union, was also in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Gordon (Nell Beem), both of '33, with their two children left Miami, February 2, for San Jose, Costa Rica, where Mr. Gordon will serve as president of the Central American Union. Mr. Gordon served on the staff at the college for several years prior to his appointment to the presidency of the Texico conference.

Editorial

Spring is almost here, we hope, and with it comes new life all around us. Nature will be bursting forth with spring colors. The grass is turning green. The buds are starting to form, and I see a robin now and then.

The girls to keep up with nature get poodle "hair-dos" and dreamily walk around the campus.

The fellows get crew cuts and their thoughts turn to what the girls have been thinking about all year! Seriously though, as spring is a symbol of newness of life, so let us as students, too, with new thoughts and good actions make this a successful spring for U.C.A.
 —EARL JENKINS

Student Teachers

New faces are appearing behind the teachers' desks. Occupying the desks are the following student teachers: Mr. Barrett, Old Testament; Mrs. Finch, English I; Miss Perkins and Miss Roller, English II; Miss Reynolds, English III; Mr. Qualls, geometry; Mr. Nick, Algebra; Mr. Hobby, American History; Messrs. Erickson, Hepker, McCormick, and Dahlberg, World History.

South Hall

Mr. Taylor gave a very interesting and highly entertaining talk on editorial work at a meeting of the Sigma Iota Kappa.

The boys of the castle hate to see Warren and Darrell McHenry move out. They are moving into the village to stay with their parents who have recently taken temporary residence here in College View.

Charles Gray stopped in to see old friends on way from Camp Pickett to the west coast.

The members of Sigma Iota Kappa wish to express their appreciation to the ladies across the campus for the delightful banquet that was held the night of February 23.

Week-end visitors at the home of Dean and Mrs. Culver were the Dean's brother and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Culver of Panora, Iowa, and Mrs. Culver's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ekstrom of Burlington, Iowa.

South Hall was crowded with the visitors from Southwestern Junior College last week end. Their company was very much enjoyed by old friends and acquaintances here at Union College.

A number of young men were going around the campus in a "twitterpated" sort of way last week end. It might have been because there was a group of nurses visiting the campus from Boulder.

Mr. Hann, who has been warden of the State penitentiary at Lincoln for the last three years, was speaker in boys' club last Thursday night. He gave an enlightening talk on ways that the penitentiary is run and on convicts.

Seniors Presented

The seniors wearing their white sweaters with blue emblems were officially presented by their sponsor, Mr. Griese, at the chapel program, March 4.

The class depicted a royal court scene in which James Hinger read a scroll revealing the class officers and the class will. To conclude the program, the entire membership sang their class song.

Oratorical Contest

Leland Kaiser won first place in the Annual Temperance Oratorical elimination contest held in the academy chapel, February 25. James Hinger and Arthur Dick were awarded second and third places. Leland Kaiser will now meet with winners of the Central Union in the March contest. The judges were Miss Anderson, Mr. Cleveland, and Elder Williamson. The contest as a whole was under the direction of Elder Oswald.

The academy seminar has been supplying the music for the meetings at Ashland. The school bus is used as transportation. The music for last week was furnished by Joyce Stephens, saxophone solo; Carolyn Rhodes, vocal solo; Jeanette and Lila Bietz, vocal duet.

North Hall

The wind is howling in a dreary monotone around our dear North Hall as this scribe takes her pen in hand to reiterate a few of last week's happenings.

The banquet is a thing of the past, but I still see a few flowers being worn in the girls' hair—remnants of beautiful corsages. There was a red carnation worn by Willette Schwarz Tuesday night, and Beverly Gackenheimer still had her white carnations last Thursday. Marcene Strong's orchid lasted until Sabbath.

All the corsages were really beautiful, so to all the South Hall fellows who might be reading this, here is a great big Thanks.

For the people with lots of zeal, pep, and excess energy, I offer this remedy. Take Freshman English and write an Instructor story! At 2:00 a.m. one night last week I found Gladys Davis, Nadine Nelson, Margie Jarnes, Jean Spaulding, and Jeanette Drake slaving away at their typewriters trying to make thoughts talk on paper. I overheard one of them say, "Can't someone give me some wems of gisdom?"

When Laura Gillham, Yvonne Chrispens, and Donna Coyle were consulting that little machine that dictates to some people how much they can eat (I'm speaking of scales), one of them said, "It isn't that I'm too fat, I'm just not tall enough!"

Incidentally, did you all know that it was Genevieve Nixon who engineered that wonderful job of decorating the gym for the girls' banquet?

The south fifth girls had a pretty big party not long ago, too. It was a surprise for Nancy Petersen's birthday. In case someone is wondering who are the south fifth girls; Gloria Scott, Barbara Simmons, Genevieve Nixon, Darlene Marquess, Nancy Petersen, and Vada June Deyle call it home. When I asked what they had to eat they said—chili dogs! What a way to describe Veglinks, eh?

GYMNASIUM

As basketball tournament fervor gains momentum throughout the states and nation, equally so is the spirit that's prevailing in the final lap of basketball competition within the realms of Union's activity. Momentum, which here-to-fore has been almost totally nil, has finally poured forth, and the teams of Colorado, Kansas, and Missouri, have surprised the league leaders. It was the Rocky Mountain boys who just last week overpowered Aksarben, gaining and holding an eleven-point margin to spell the final count at 55-44.

With approximately three weeks of play remaining, it is certain that some of the best games are yet to be played. And now, with a brief personal comment (which is against all rules of good reporting but who says that this is good reporting?) this writer is inclined to add that the spirit and general play of the '52 and '53 season has been some of the keenest and best within recent years. Certainly, such is desirable if accompanied by player and spectator sportsmanship.

To those of you who may have a leisure moment or two, while no one is looking, why don't you slip out auditorium way and witness one of the remaining final games? You might enjoy it, who knows!

The following are the "A" and "B" league standings and the top ten individual point makers.

Music Hall

Anyone stepping into Engel Hall might acquire the feeling that they're being swept off their feet. If such is your case, calm yourselves; it's just Wayne Schwerin putting his whole self into his position as head custodian.

Excitement and tension have been riding high at band rehearsal. It seems as though the flutes are having considerable difficulty mastering a new piece that Mr. Marks handed out last week—"Three Blind Mice."

Choir members are waiting with eager anticipation the arrival of the new choir robes, which will add an attractive color to their spring concerts.

It seems as though the young choir ladies are tired of getting up at the break of dawn in order to be fully clad in three-piece robes and on time to church. Someone was overheard making the very apt statement, "Here come the red coats."

The Male Glee Club is now the newest musical organization on the campus. Their foremost interest, at present, is preparations for a spring concert.

Claire Coci, renowned organist, held a number of Union College music lovers spellbound. She presented her concert at the console of the First Plymouth Congregational church organ.
