MV to Sponsor Discussion Day

The MV Week of Prayer, Jan. 29 to Feb. 3, will feature a day on which special Bible discussion groups will meet instead of regular classes.

"Sound and Light" a program written by Kit Watts, '66 graduate of Union College, will start the Week of Prayer. "The Parable," a film depicting the life of Christ, will be shown. This film appeared at the World's Fair Protestant Pavilion. Discussion groups after the film will probe its relevance to the UC campus.

In an attempt to inspire students with the basis of Christianity, Jesus Christ, the MV Week of Prayer is tagged with the simple theme—"Jesus." Speakers for the coming week are Joe Foley, Elaine Rice, Norman Jarnes, Jere Webb, Terry Dietrich, Herman Harp, Robin Simmons and Larry Vandeman.

Thursday, twenty topics will invite stimulating group discussions among students and faculty. Dorm surveys indicate greatest student interest in "love and marriage." Other popular subjects are movies, bowling, pool and wedding rings.

The MV committee planning the Week of Prayer are Terry Dietrich, chairman; Joe Foley, Norman Jarnes, Don Church, Sharon Franklin and Kathy Saunders.

Six Med Students Accepted By LLU

Six Union College students have been accepted into the Loma Linda University School of Medicine, Loma Linda, Calif.

The six seniors are Terry Dietrich, Sze Ching Lee, Mack Randolph, Stanley Reising, Don Sauser and Elsie Wong. All are chemistry majors except Sauser and Miss Wong who both majored in biology.

Dietrich is from Ukiah, Calif. His college responsibilities include working in Sabbath school, Student Association, editing the Peanut Hill Populace and heading the '67 MV Week of Prayer committee.

Lee, from Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, is an outstanding tennis, ping pong and badminton player.

Mack Randolph, from Shreveport, La., worked on the '66 MV Week of Prayer committee.

Reising, from McClusky, N. D., has taught a Sabbath school class.

Sauser is from Laurel, Nebr. He was president of his junior class. has worked on the Peanut Hill Populace staff, Golden Cords staff and the Nominations and Elections Committee.

Elsie Wong is from Penang, Malaysia. In Singapore she was the vice-president of the Teachers of Tomorrow club and secretary of the Student Association.

According to Dr. Rene Evard, professor of chemistry, the average number of pre-med students from Union College accepted at LLU each year is between six and 10.

Applicants to the LLU School of Nursing, School of Dentistry and other fields will be accepted later this spring.

Council OK's ASB Budget

The Student Council unanimously passed the ASB budget for the 1966-67 school year last Tuesday night.

Although Council members objected vociferously to certain budget items when they were first presented in October, the final version was very similar to the original proposal.

Craig To Show Adventure Film

A color travelogue featuring underwater adventure will be presented Jan. 14, by Colonel John D. Craig, expert underwater diver and lecturer.

Colonel Craig, author of Danger Is My Business, has experienced his share of breath-taking adventure. These include riding a 40-foot whale shark in waters of the Pacific off Baja, Calif., tiger hunting and being held hostage by the Riffs in the Sahara Desert.

Since his college days Craig has been photographing dangerous situations. He has led camera crews into more than 57 countries on five continents and under four oceans. His underwater pictures have won an Academy Award and received three nominations for the television "Emmy" Award.

His current season's film, "Over and Under The Caribbean Sea" includes scenes from Haiti, Grand Canyon and the Virgin Islands, and reveals the surprises and mysteries of the silent world of the Caribbean.

Worship vs. "Worship"

A Christian institution should help to create a favorable attitude toward worship and especially help the individual student to a personal relationship with his God.

We feel this is not being satisfactorily accomplished at Union College at present.

Too much emphasis is placed on the mere attendance at worship services.

The dormitory student is required to attend 8-10 worship services a week with a fine of one dollar levied for each absence above an average of one a week.

This encourages students to say, "Hoorah, the dean slept late this morning. No worship!"

Some school administrators have sincerely asked, "If we don't have worships in the dorm, how many would have their own?"

If the implied answer that very few would worship is correct, this in itself is an admission that the present programs are not achieving their aims. For if their primary aim is not to encourage the individual student to "talk with God" frequently both before and after he leaves this campus, but rather simply ends in themselves, we can see even less value to these services. Remember, the worship of worship was the downfall of Israel in Christ's day.

We support voluntary worships by any and all students. We would also like to encourage a return to the practice currently neglected by all but a small handful of teachers outside of the department of religion, that of starting each class period with prayer.

Above and beyond this, all courses should be and many are taught from a Christian point-of-view.

We believe a school can be so "Christian" in outlook, that every person attending it will be influenced with the concepts of Christianity without there needing to be a rigid 7:00 a.m. or even an 8:00 a.m. worship time in each dormitory.

THE BOOKSHELF

Is Valiant Richard III A Villain?

By DAN PAULIEN

In The Last Plantagenets, (New York: Popular Library, 1963, 75¢) Thomas B. Costain recounts the story of this family of English rulers from the birth of Richard II in 1367 to the end of the dynasty with the death of Richard III on Bosworth Field in 1485.

Costain's main purpose in writing The Last Plantagenets was to re-examine the murder of the two young sons of Edward IV in the Tower of London and the role Richard III played there. Costain tells of the first time he studied about Bosworth Field:

Here the hunchbacked monster of a wicked uncle, who had ordered the murder of his nephews, was punished with defeat and death, seemingly by the direct intervention of God. It never occurred to me then to ponder what might have happened if Richard had won.

The book which most historians use as a source book for this period is The History of King Richard III by Sir Thomas More. Since More was only eight when Richard died he could not have been writing from personal knowledge. It is generally accepted that the material for the book was supplied by Cardinal Morton, the Archbishop of Canterbury, in whose household More served. Morton, one of the most hated figures in English history, a confidant of Henry VII, was the one who spread the rumor that the princes had been murdered to turn the people against Richard and in favor of Henry. Costain points out the many errors in the More-Morton book and answers them one by one.

1. If Richard wanted to kill the princes to solidify his claim to the throne, there would still have been nine others with better claims to the throne than he.

2. The mother of the princes retained normal relations with Richard throughout his reign; it is hard to believe that she would have done this if she had reason to believe that her sons had been killed.

3. If Richard were guilty, why did not Henry VII punish the men guilty for the black deed. In fact, the accomplices were received into open favor by Henry.

The key to the mystery then is this: Were the princes still alive when Richard was killed at the Battle of Bosworth?

According to the Morton story, Richard attempted to bribe the constable of the Tower, a Sir Robert Brackenbury, to kill the princes. He, being an honorable man, of course refused.

Then, according to Morton, the king requested a set of keys to the Tower to be used to "accomplish the king's pleasure." After the deed had been done Sir Robert had a priest bury the bodies. As Costain relates the story:

When word reached London that the crucial battle was impending between the army of the king and the invading army of Henry of Richmond, Sir Robert Brackenbury gathered a few horsemen about him and set out for the scene of action. . . . The impatience of this brave knight can be understood, hasting to strike a blow against the infamous uncle who had commanded the murder of his nephews. . . . But hold!

Sir Robert turned off the road to where Richard was said to be . . . Sir Robert had made that ride to lend his sword to the cause of the king. . . . What is more, he fought the next day both boldly and well and gave up his life in the final stages, a few moments before Richard made his magnificent last effort by charging almost singlehanded into the ranks of the Lancastrians. . . .

Can more than one meaning be read into what he did? The princes had not been killed when he led his horsemen out through the Ald Gate and turned in the direction of the Great North Road.

Here Costain rests his case to await the onslaught of Shakespeare-influenced historians and literary scholars who hold that Richard III was one of the most dastardly villains who ever lived.

FICTION

Soon Chapels Will be Free

By KERMIT NETTEBURG

Chapel fines had made by bill-fold look like the Grand Canyon. As I left the registrar's office, I met an old friend, Max Claven, who graduated from Union in 1959.

"You look upset, my friend," he greeted me.

"I am. Also poor, and discouraged with this college."

"With all these lovely new buildings how can you be discouraged? All this progress since I left makes my head spin."

"Yeah," I replied, "it looks great, but they ought to make some progress with some of the traditions around here."

"Oh, no!" Max replied, his mouth agape in horror. "Traditions make the school. You can't throw away the pleasures of the past for some monetary fancy. What would Union College be without the hanging of the golden cords? Or the students booing at the faculty football team? Or chapels twice a week to inspire and refresh the early riser?"

"I don't know about those, but Union College would be a lot richer without the dollar fines for the non-early risers." I replied, sarcasm biting clear down to my wallet.

"You mean that fine is still a dollar! How about worships? That still a dollar, too?"

"Yes."
Max was plainly shocked. "You mean they haven't increased the cost at all! How can they do this? Hasn't the government done anything about the situation? Surely they must be breathing down the school officials' necks."

"The government!" Now it was my turn to let my jaw drop. "Why should they care?"

"My friend, this is in direct conflict with the President's wage-price guidelines. How can we have a good healthy inflation without rising prices?" My friend queried earnestly.

"Maybe we ought to see the administrative officers about this. I'm sure they could set up a committee to cover the problem." I did not want to get in trouble with Uncle Sam.

NEWS NOTES

The College

- Dr. George P. Stone, chairman of the education department, spoke on the ninth commandment in chapel, Dec. 19. This is a part of the series on the Ten Commandments.
- Floyd Bresee, assistant professor of religion, presented the last of the series on the Ten Commandments in chapel Jan. 9. He spoke on covetousness.
- "Of what value is man's vast reservoir of knowledge?" is the question Elder James will answer during Friday vespers, Jan. 13.

Elder James intends to show that although man has accumulated a great amount of knowledge, this knowledge is worthless unless put to work according to God's pattern.

Clubs

- The Sigma Iota Kappa sponsored a white elephant exchange Dec. 15.
- The attendance at Mid-day Meditations is about half of what it was in October, but twice the number of those attending at the beginning of the year, according to Coordinator C. Mel Walgren.

Miss America Coming Feb. 4

Miss America of 1966 will be the featured attraction of the Sat. night ASB program Feb. 4.

Deborah Irene (Debbie) Bryant, 20, is a 5-foot 7-inch brunette. Her reign as Miss America began one year ago when she, as Miss Kansas, won the coveted title.

Debbie was born in Kansas City, Mo., but now resides in Overland Park, Kan. She carries brains as well as beauty with her as is shown by the honorary sororities in science, language and general scholastics to which she belongs.

Her interests include swimming, waterskiing, reading and creative writing. Because of her love for children and because of her desire to see every child have the opportunity to grow to full adulthood she aspires to be a pediatrician. She has completed two years of undergraduate work toward her goal at Christian College.

High points of her past career as Miss America have involved 200,000 miles of travel, visits to numerous hospitals and military bases, participation in drives of various kinds, speaking appointments at conventions, conferences, churches and Christian youth groups.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT

Unionites Fondly Recall Nebraska Winter

By VIRLYS NELSON

Winter in England is very different from winter in Nebraska. The grass is green here all winter long, and as I write there still has not been a trace of snow. When it does snow the amount is small, and it lasts only a short time. Blooming bravely on despite the hard frosts and blustery winds are a few roses which have outlasted even the last rose of summer.

Although the winters in southern England are mild, we are not basking in the sun and pitying our cold Union friends. To the contrary. The English have become somewhat immune to the cold because of the lack of central heating in many of their homes. Walking into an already frigid classroom some "bloke" (the English slang equivalent of boy), opens all of the windows wide to let in some fresh air. The only remedy is to add another layer of sweaters and shiver.

Instead of shoveling snow we dash to class tightly grasping an umbrella hoping to partially shelter ourselves from the driving rain. Quite often the wind adds to the difficulties by tugging at umbrellas in an effort to turn them inside out.

Christmas morning Bonnie Harvey and I went to the service at St. Georges Chapel at the castle in Windsor and saw the Royal Family. Then yesterday we went to William Shakespeare's birthplace, Stratford-upon-Avon, and visited the house of his birth, the home of his wife, Anne Hathaway and other places with family connections. Sight seeing in London and other places has kept us busy as well.

So much from the feminine representatives at Newbold. Masculine news and views are reported by Gary Affolter in the remainder of the article.

"Anyone who wants to play football please come to the desk," comes a voice over the intercom. Naturally not wanting to pass up a chance like this we come. But what is this? You can not play football with a round ball. "Oh, yes you can," comes the reply. "This is continental football." Continental football is what we call soccer.

It gives us an inferiority complex to play with guys here. Just as we have been playing our American sports since we were small, so they have played soccer and can use their feet and heads, etc. like we use our hands. It is a very fast and exacting game requiring a lot of endurance. We are learning slowly but surely, and after an afternoon of bruised shins, a headache and cramps it is obvious that we have been playing soccer.

During Christmas vacation Doug Moline and I went with one of the Swiss boys to the Adventist ski camp in Switzerland for two weeks.

"Why, of course I can tell you why Miss Remley hasn't objected to my going out with you—she still thinks you're a girl."

Felkel Reports From Taiwan

(John Felkel, UC's student missionary, is currently spending the year at Taiwan Missionary College, Taipei, Taiwan. The following is part of a letter dated Dec. 22 1966.)

TAIPEI, TAIWAN—How else can I express thanks for the Christmas present that the students sent me than by just saying "Thank you from the bottom of my heart." It was a thrill all in itself just to see those names that you sent. I don't know how I can really express my true feelings. Please accept my "thank you" as the best that I can offer. Union College has again demonstrated that "She never forgets her own." I will save this money, along with some other that I have, to buy a tape recorder in Hong Kong when I return to the states. Again, thank you so much for the thoughtfulness and the kindness that was in that gift.

Christmas day is almost here but our weather today is like fall weather in the states. Some days will be very cold, but the next day or two will warm up to 70 or 80 degrees. During our "winter season" here the weather is very unpredictable from one day to the next.

Christmas will be celebrated to some extent here at the college in a school party this Saturday night (Dec. 24). Christmas is recognized here but not celebrated at all like it is in the states. Most of the Christmas spirit is for the military personnel from the states, I think. Of course the overseas workers' homes have yuletide decorations of some kind, but Christmas is not a big holiday for the whole country. As we have many more gay celebrations here on other days, one doesn't really feel lonesome for Christmas. Our Chinese New Year will be coming up the first part of February and then we will have a lot of gaiety. I am really looking forward to this time since I have heard so much about it.

Also I hope that I can travel around the island now. I would like to go around the whole island sometime before I return to the states and I think New Year's time will be a good time to do just that.

I hope that I can be sending you a tape soon and I will try to have some movies made to send along also. Our weather is not really good picture weather because, like today, it may be raining all day. I will try to get something to you sooner or later.

Thank you again for the thoughtful gift and for all of your good letters.

Fogg Takes Tournament Title

By BOB BLEHM

Fogg's team won the pre-season tournament championship by winning three games.

In their first game they defeated Verlo, 69-68. Verlo had a ten point lead at one time and Fogg had an eight point lead at another, but neither could hold it, and when the final gun sounded Fogg was on top. Jerry Thayer hit 29 points for the winners and Bob Blehm hit 26 for the losers.

Fogg's second triumph was over Patzer, 79-57. Thayer once again scored 29 points to lead his team. Ralph Kerr and Don Oxley each scored 13 points for the losers.

In the tournament finals Fogg was pitted against a tough Unruh team. Fogg came out on top once again with a late game rally. This time the score was Fogg 57, Unruh

56. Dan Poleschook led the winners with 19 points, and Gene Johnson scored 18 for the losers.

There were two other tournament games which saw Patzer defeat Brodin 69-57, and Unruh defeat Vorhies 53-47. Box scores were not available for these two games.

Last Thursday night, regular season play started. In this game Verlo defeated Patzer 76-50. Ervin Kerr scored 22 for the games top honors. Ed Patzer scored 17 for his team.

Billy Graham Film Will Be Shown

Evangelist Billy Graham's newest feature-length dramatic film, "Shadow of The Boomerang," will have its Union College showing Jan. 21, at 8:00 p.m. in the college gymnasium.

Starring Georgia Lee and television's Buffalo Bill, Jr., Dick Jones, "Shadow of The Boomerang" is an outdoor action picture set in Australia's "Outback," the continent's vast interior region where some of the world's largest cattle stations are located.

Lee and Jones play a brother and sister who arrive in Australia to manage newly acquired family holdings. The brother is immature and impetuous, slow to accept Australian ways. His sister is much more democratic, readily accepted by her new friends with whom she joins in an attempt to instill understanding and tolerance in her brother.

Filmed against the backdrop of the Billy Graham Australian Crusades, "Shadow of The Boomerang" presents Christian reaction to a human conflict. Spokesman for the Christian position is Billy Graham, who is presented in the crusade setting.

"Shadow of The Boomerang" was produced and directed by Dick Ross, president of World Wide Pictures, the organization which has created such previous Billy Graham films as "The Heart Is A Rebel," "Souls in Conflict" and "Oiltown, USA."

Student cards are required at the showing of this new picture. For non-students there will be an admission fee.

ASB Colorado Ski Trip Scheduled Feb. 4-7

The 1967 ASB Ski Trip has been scheduled for Feb. 4-7. Dr. Rene Evard, sponsor, reports that the original dates, Febr. 18-21, have proved impractical due to conflicts in the school program.

This change in date requires a student to have his advance deposit paid by Jan. 15. Students may pay their deposit of $28 to Dr. Evard in the chemistry department.

The advance deposit includes transportation to Colorado aboard the school's bus, lodging for Sunday and Monday evenings, a banquet at Breckenridge Sunday evening and the lift ticket at Breckenridge on Sunday.

The bus leaves Union at 7:00 p.m. Saturday. The group will ski at Breckenridge on Sunday, at Vail on Monday, if the group wishing to go there is sufficiently large, and at Loveland, Tuesday morning. The bus returns to Union Tuesday evening.

IT'S A NORTH WIND THAT BLOWS NO GOOD

Crushed between the twin millstones of January weather and final exams, you are saved from total despair, poor devils, only by the knowledge that winter vacation will soon be here.

Where will you go this year? Will it be Florida again, or are you tired of jails? Then how about Puerto Rico?

A most excellent notion, say I. A balmy and bounteous island with long white beaches and blue, blue skies and green, healing seas. And, most pleasant of all, the warm and gracious people of Puerto Rico! You don't even have to know Spanish to communicate with this friendly folk. Just learn three simple phrases and you'll get along splendidly: "Buenos días" which means "Good morning," "Gracias" which means "Thank you," and "Que será será" which means "Your llama is on my foot."

In order to help you enjoy the fabled land of Puerto Rico it would be well for me to supply a bit of historical background. (It would also be well for me to say a few words about Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades because the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades pay me to write this column and they are inclined to sulk if I omit to mention their product. Of course, they don't stay gloomy long, for they are kindly, cheery men fond of Morris dancing, spelling bees, and temperance punch—fine, upright types, as true and gleaming and durable as the blades they make. And if you've tried Personna's, you know how true and gleaming and durable that is! And if you haven't tried Personna's, poor devil, you've cheated both your purse and face, for Personna's last and last, shave after luxury shave, close, clean, nickless, hackless, tugless, gougeless, scratchless, matchless. Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades come in Double Edge or Injector style and are made only by the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades.)

But I digress. Back to the history of Puerto Rico. The island was discovered by that popular discoverer Christopher Columbus. Incidentally, considering Columbus' popularity, it's odd we know so little about him. What do we really know? Only this:

He was born in Genoa on August 25, 1451, the son of Ralph T. Columbus, a knee-cymbal vendor, and Eleanor (Swiftly) Columbus, a low hurdler. He was an only child except for his five brothers and eight sisters. From early childhood he was an avid reader and spent all his waking hours immersed in a book. Unfortunately, there was only one book in Genoa at the time—Care of the Horse by Aristotle—and after 18 years of reading Care of the Horse, Columbus grew restless. When rumor reached him there was another book in Madrid, off he ran as fast as his little fat legs would carry him.

Disappointment, alas, awaited him there. The only book in Madrid was Cuidar un Caballo, which proved to be nothing more than a Spanish translation of Care of the Horse.

Then one day Columbus heard from a traveller that there were millions of books in India, and he was instantly ablaze to set sail. Off he ran on his little fat legs to the court of Ferdinand and Isabella (Columbus, though more than six feet tall, was plagued with little fat legs all his life) and, as we all know, he persuaded the Spanish rulers to outfit him with three stout ships, the Flopsy, the Mopsy, and the Cottontail, and the rest is history!

Well sir, now you know all about the origins of Puerto Rico. So get packed and get going! You'll love it! Stroll the beaches, swim the coves, breathe the fragrance of hibiscus and bougainvillea. And remember always that the friendly Puerto Ricans are delighted to show you their customs, teach you their language. Why, I'll wager you'll soon know far more Spanish than the three basic phrases. You'll know "Hasta la vista" which means "See you later." "Por favor" which means "Please," and "El tren se paró en las estación" which means "Your llama has eaten my passport."

Gracias from the makers of Personna for giving our blades such a cordial reception, and, por favor, how about trying another of our luxury shaving products—Burma Shave, regular or menthol?
