FAMILY TRADITION: When Sarah, the daughter of Elder and Mrs. Augustus C. Bordeau (brother of D. T. Bordeau, who was one of the first Adventist ministers sent to California), married Elder Rodney S. Owen, she had no idea what kind of tradition she was beginning. However, Sarah's daughter Mary became the wife of Elder Walter J. Blake. Their daughter Florence married Elder Fred E. Mote, and their daughter Ardena became Mrs. Robert E. Parks, whose minister husband is now the director of Trust Services for the Oregon Conference. Betty Parks married Jim McMurry, minister of youth at Carmichael, California, last June. A second-generation minister, Jim is the son of Elder and Mrs. Frank McMurry at Modesto's Parkwood church. The last three generations of this family tradition are pictured here. (Editor's Note: While the RECORDER steadfastly follows the practice of refraining from carrying wedding announcements, this six-generation-minister-family seemed a bit unusual. Our prayers continue for all those touched by the lives in this heritage.)

February Offering Will Finance the Three Nationwide Telecasts

Having used television as a ministry almost as long as there has been TV, the Seventh-day Adventist Church during February takes a bold new strengthening stride in financing three nationwide telecasts.

Since Faith For Today was introduced to national audiences 34 years ago, television has proven a viable ministry—supported now by the second generation of converts to Christ from those original programs of dramatized parables and distinctive preaching. In fact, through all these years nearly a thousand a year, on the average, have written to say that they were first introduced to Christ through Faith For Today and/or its lessons from the Bible Correspondence School.

Before William A. Fagal and his staff transferred to color nearly 25 years ago, George E. Vandeman introduced It Is Written's documentary style in teaching Bible truth. In fact, It Is Written was the Church's first color telecast—moving to color shortly after its inauguration 27 years ago. Then 10 years ago Charles D. Brooks began programming with Black viewers in mind, though Breath of Life has grown to be a widespread cosmopolitan outreach.

In a departure from the annual Faith For Today offering, these three ministries will share this year in what is hoped can be the Church's first million-dollar offering for television.

Both expensive and effective, messages on television reach into the high-rises, behind locked doors, into the privacy of homes, where they can speak to hearts. And so, considering these millions reached by the complementary programming, television is also inexpensive per capita.

It Is Written is the only one of the Church's telecasts to air the same program in any given week coast to coast, a step the Board of Directors took about a year ago. Such programming encourages concerted advertising, making

Musicians Needed for 1985 Session Symphony

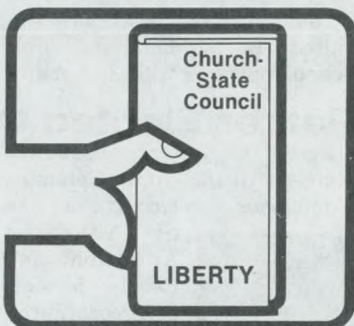

The Music Committee for the 1985 General Conference Session in New Orleans has invited Professor Orlo Gilbert of Southern College of Seventh-day Adventists to organize and direct the session symphony orchestra for the second weekend, July 7, 1985.

Accommodations will have to be at the personal expense of each musician.

To qualify, you must be currently in practice on your instrument and either a past or present member of an academy, college or community orchestra. Musicians of high quality are needed, but you do not have to be a professional musician.

The greatest need will be for string players: violin, viola, cello and string bass. If you do plan to participate, please send your name and address to Mr. Gilbert, Southern College, Division of Music, Colledgeale, TN 37315.

We've got to hand it to you!

Members in our Union showed the greatest dollar and percentage increase in the 1983 LIBERTY offering in the North American Division over 1982.

Special commendation goes to Northern California for its $59,342 (up 37.4%, $1.93 per capita)
Nevada-Utah—$5,629 (up 34.7%, $1.61 per capita)
Arizona—$11,284 (up 8.7%, $1.50 per capita)
Central California—$34,752 (up 31.4%, $1.46 per capita)

The other conferences gave their support too:
Southeastern California—$41,139 (up 4.6%, $1.05 per capita)
Hawaii—$3,960 (down 0.6%, $.95 per capita)
Southern California—$32,208 (up 9.3%, $.85 per capita)

Because the cost went from $2.50 to $3, the outstanding increase made it possible to maintain the same number of subscriptions going to thought leaders. There is no cost increase in 1984. Your extra boost will extend Liberty to additional key people.

Thanks so much.

New Press Management Structure Voted

The Board of Directors of Pacific Press Publishing Association has voted a new management structure with significant changes.

Eugene Stiles, president and general manager of Pacific Press, comes from the General Conference Treasury Department with a strong administrative background, having served both overseas and in the United States in health-care and educational institutions. He also served as manager of the Church's specialized publishing house, Christian Record Braille Foundation.

At the invitation of the Board of Directors, three others have joined the management team of Pacific Press. Martin Ytreberg, vice president of finance, comes from the Alberta Conference, where he has been treasurer. Mr. Ytreberg also has an extensive financial-management background including positions in both the Southern Asia and Far Eastern divisions. Prior to entering denominational work he was a financial analyst and planner with Ford Motor Company.

David Lawson, who joined Pacific Press as vice president for production, has over 30 years of printing experience, serving most recently as manager of the Canadian Branch of Pacific Press (Maracle Press) in Oshawa, Ontario. His vast background in printing operations includes work in Florida as well as working as Queen's printer for the Canadian government.

Bob Kyte, vice president for

Dan Matthews, Charles Brooks and George Vandeman—directors of Faith For Today, Breath of Life and It Is Written, respectively—eagerly await your directives for continued complementary programming, evidenced by your offering February 11.

Ingathering gains are recorded in all conferences.

Per capitas range from Arizona's $13.94 to Southeastern's $3.71

Northern and Southern California conferences show highest conference gains.

Thanks for adding your creative approaches to this annual appeal.

February Offering Will Finance Telecasts possible the airing of mini-series such as those on the health principles of Hunzaland and the roots of the Bible in the Holy Land. During the last three weeks of March It Is Written will air programs telling who and where Seventh-day Adventists are.

Pioneer in seminar follow-up, It Is Written now is introducing 30 lessons on video cassettes, building through the doctrines with strategy for decisions and commitments to Christ. Financed by two lay members at a cost of $250,000, the cassettes are thus being marketed more inexpensively to the churches.

Breath of Life shares some of Faith For Today's Bible courses in this unified television venture, though primary follow-up is done through evangelistic services conducted by Elder Brooks and his staff in areas where the telecast has been aired for a year. More than 2,700 have joined the Church to date from these major campaigns, and Breath of Life churches were established in Los Angeles and Washington, D.C.

Currently aired regularly via satellite across North America, Breath of Life is released on 1,200 cable stations primarily. Its format includes music, interviews, forums and preaching.

Faith For Today follow-up is developing through its new Faith Associates, lay members in every section of North America who have volunteered to become friends of those who have inquired. In addition, the Bible School operates with five major courses, and Elder and Mrs. Fagal keep up their correspondence despite retirement.

Because Faith For Today's commitment is to those who do not regularly watch religious television, its format continues to revolve around the true-to-life parable or story. However, it has suffered a loss of stations over the past decade, as stations formerly offering public service hours have reduced free airtime. Thus, the board has commissioned Dan Matthews, current director, to gear his staff to the preparation of prime-time specials, which must be purchased anyway. Moreover, the new approach includes "windows" in the programs for the sale of tasteful commercials which also provide income to the station.

Syndicators are now considering the promotion of a series for youth and their problems, from a pilot entitled "Getting It Together." And in March the premiere showing of a Christian couple's challenge by cystic fibrosis is scheduled.

Reruns sustain the "Westbrook Hospital" series, some localized by area pastors appearing on TV with the announcements and book offers.

The three ministries—It Is Written with its viewer involvement, Breath of Life with its diversified dialoguing, and Faith For Today with its initiative focus on spiritual values—targeted for specific goals and groups include something for virtually every American or Canadian public. Their common ministry is to display a hopeful alternative lifestyle before North Americans by introducing viewers to Jesus Christ and the peace and security which only He can provide for times like these.

These are your ministries, dear reader, for which you have asked Dan Matthews, George Vandeman and Charles Brooks to give guidance. They and their boards will know next month by your gifts that your prayers are also with them in these outreaches which go beyond the pulpits of your own congregations.

Video Cassettes Enhance IIW Seminars

George Vandeman and Roland Lehnhoff have conducted the first It Is Written "Truth for the End Time" seminars using video cassettes as a means of following up the initial meetings.

"Truth for the End Time" is sent as a complete witnessing kit to pastors and laymen. It contains 30 videotaped messages from Pastor Vandeman, accompanying study guides, New King James Bibles, and copies of Cry of a Lonely Planet. The package is designed to take viewers through a step-by-step doctrinal study.

"These are not sit-back-and-watch sessions," Elder Lehnhoff explains. "Viewers mark their Bibles and cross-reference texts. They become participants in putting Biblical truths together."

Local pastors introduce each video cassette and continue to guide participants in the system of Bible marking. At the end of each study guide is an exercise entitled "And Now—Your Turn." The host pastor can use this section to begin establishing a relationship with participants as he draws out their thoughts and questions.

Patzer Elected Chairman of AAFS

Jere D. Patzer, executive secretary of the Upper Columbia Conference, was elected chairman of Adventist Adoption and Family Services at a recent meeting of its executive and national boards.

Jere D. Patzer

His election to this post reflects the long-standing interest he has maintained in young people and family relationships. Prior to his present employment Elder Patzer was youth director of the North Pacific Union Conference and had previously served in similar positions in the Oregon and Pennsylvania conferences and was a church pastor for several years. One of his latest books, Before You Burn the Rule Book, deals with how a Christian can relate to moral standards of the Church.

His concern for the salvation of children born to unwed mothers is great, but that concern also extends to those young mothers who, he says, "need an extra amount of Christian brotherly love. While we may not see immediate baptisms among the adopted children, we can, as individuals and AAFS work for the salvation of those unwed mothers who often feel a deep separation from God and their church."

AAFS has recently expanded its services to cooperate with the

Dollis Mae

Someday I'm going to write a book. It'll be my favorite of all I have ever published. I'm going to call it simply, Dollis Mae.

You see, Dollis Mae and I have been married over 51 years; and I still think she is the most wonderful girl in the world. So wonderful, there's enough to write a whole book about her!

Let me give you a sneak preview. She is a loving and lovable Christian. She loves her Saviour, her Bible and her Church. She prays for me. She encourages me. She is a lady. She is delightfully feminine. She is thoughtful. She is a soft-spoken, gentle person. She does not nag. She is not a complainer. She has never embarrassed me.

She takes an interest in my work without instructing me how to do it. She treats members of my family as though they were her own. She keeps our home neat and tidy without making it uncomfortable to live there. She has never given me any cause to doubt her love for me.

Now, my wife would be terribly embarrassed if she knew I was writing these things, for publication! And I guess I must admit to some bias. But I want to say it to the world, and so I shall. An ordained minister of the gospel must tell the truth.

SOUTHERN

Conference Vice President for Administration Lorenzo Paytee speaks for the organizational service of the Vietnamese Church in Glendale while Elder Le Huu, former pastor of the congregation, now pastoring in Loma Linda, translates.

First Officially Organized Vietnamese Church of North America Is in Glendale

Adventist church history occurred July 30, when the first officially organized Vietnamese Church in the North American Division was organized in Glendale.

The congregation pastored by Le Cong Giao is a nucleus of refugees from the Communist takeover of South Vietnam in April 1975 and the ensuing influx of boat people to the United States in recent years.

Pastor Giao vividly recalls the events leading up to the fall of Saigon and his miraculous last-minute escape at the airport. "I thought I would be left at the gate," he recounts.

Now, eight years later, the congregation of 192 believers rejoices that it is an officially organized church. It meets in Thomas Hall, adjacent to Glendale Adventist Medical Center.

It was appropriate that the main speaker at the organization service was Ralph Watts, Jr., president of the Southern California Conference; for it was Elder Watts who was responsible for overseeing the evacuation of 410 people from Saigon, including Elder Giao and some of the Glendale congregation. At that time Elder Watts was the president of the Southeast Asia Union. "It was a miracle," Elder Giao exclaimed.

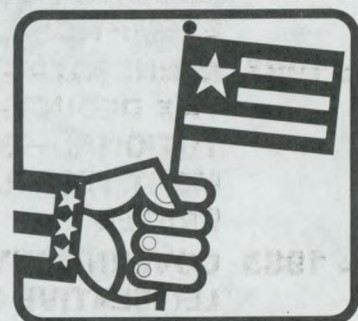

Elder Giao tells of how Elder Watts could have left long before he did but he stayed on arranging the evacuation of workers from the Adventist church and hospital in Saigon. "If he hadn't stayed we wouldn't be here," says Elder Giao.

After Elder Giao settled in Glendale, he was frequently called upon to sponsor other Vietnamese when the boat people began to arrive. "They came from all religions, but very few were Seventh-day Adventists," he explains. "Now about 85 percent of this new church are brand-new converts."

At one time Elder Giao and his family of six took a Catholic family of nine into their two-bedroom apartment. "We were wall-to-wall people for 40 days." That family is now baptized into the church.

Elder Giao gladly tells other conversion stories, such as that of Nguyen Duc Tinh. "Brother Tinh, who is now an elder, didn't believe in God when he lived in Vietnam. In fact, he made fun of God," says Elder Giao. But an ocean voyage in a small craft changed his mind. His contact with Elder Giao's company of believers strengthened him; and, according to Elder Giao, "he's a wonderful church leader."

Buddhist, told Elder Giao, "If I hadn't lost everything in Vietnam, if I hadn't been imprisoned by the Communists, I wouldn't have found God. I lost material things, but I found salvation."

Thanh Luu, a deaconess, fled the Communist oppression while her husband, Cuong, who was a Buddhist, was interned in a re-education camp. When he heard of his wife's escape, he was happy for her; but he never expected they would be reunited. However, after five years he was released. Later he was able to escape to Malaysia. Six months later he was flown to Los Angeles to his wife and his son born shortly after his imprisonment. Thanh told Cuong of her desire to become a Christian. They studied, were baptized together, and are now charter members of North America's first organized Vietnamese Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Educational-Ministerial Retreat Is Held

Students in Arizona Conference elementary schools were able to sleep late on three mornings last fall while teachers with books and pencils hurried off to classes.

Warren Banfield

The Annual Teachers Retreat at Camp Yavapines, Prescott, for the first time, was held in conjunction with the Ministerial Retreat. Both groups benefited from such speakers as Warren H. Banfield from the General Conference; Shirley Burton, director of communications, Pacific Union Conference; Dr. Gerry Thompson and Mrs. Phyllis Bryan Paytee, Office of Education, Pacific Union Conference; E. Frank Sherrill, president, and Ron Russell, superintendent of education, Arizona Conference.

Gerry Thompson

After breakfast and a joint devotional each morning, the two groups separated for individual sessions. Experienced and new teachers and ministers said they were enlightened by the wealth of information disseminated. A highlight of the retreat was the candlelight communion service conducted by Conference Treasurer T. H. Bledsoe.

The following new workers were introduced: teachers—Kathie Blunt, Safford; Craig Bradley, Flagstaff; Deborah Head, Yuma; and Ken Wickersham, Tempe; ministers—Alvin LeCount, Phoenix South Mountain; Brian Wahl, associate pastor, Glendale; and Keith McBeth, Camp Verde.

Teachers expressed their appreciation to the administration for the well-planned combined retreat. Several said, "It really made me feel like a part of the Arizona Conference team!"

On the last day of the retreat, before leaving the dining room, the group applauded Mrs. Bonnie Speicher and her helpers for the delightful food service.

SANTA ANA SPANISH CHURCH evangelism yields a large harvest of souls. Pictured is the first group baptized by Pastor Antoni Romero (center) as a direct result of the evangelistic campaign held during September and October. An additional 30 are currently preparing for baptism. The evangelistic campaign was conducted by Juan Rivera, senior pastor, assisted by Associate Pastors Antonio Romero and Fred Diaz, and Bible Instructor Naomi Montalvo. First Indonesian Congregation Organized

The first Indonesian congregation was organized as an affiliated group in the Southeastern California Conference on September 17. Thomas J. Mostert, Jr., president of the Conference, formally organized the group, which has been meeting in Grand Terrace for more than three years.

Participating in the special occasion were Pastor G. Atiga, coordinator for Asian/South Pacific Ministries of the Union; C. C. La Villa, pastor of Loma Linda Filipino Church, where most of the group have their membership; and Pastor A. Simorangkir, director of education for the Far Eastern Division.

"This is the first pure Indonesian congregation ever organized in the United States," said Pastor La Villa. Elder Mostert responded by saying, "I am glad to be part of a first." Pastor Atiga offered a special prayer of dedication while the congregation held hands.

The congregation consists of more than a hundred members listed and affiliated with the Loma Linda Filipino Church, while attendance has been consistently nearing two hundred. It has rapidly grown from a few who initiated meetings in the Indonesian language for members in the area.

Victoria Has Biblically Oriented Party

Repeating a theme carried out at the 1982 Halloween season, Sandi Huddleston, leader of Cradle Roll-Kindergarten Division in Sabbath school, led in a Biblically oriented party for the Loma Linda Victoria Church members and guests last year.

The "Trick or Treat" theme was renamed "Praise." Vacation Bible School children and their parents were special guests for the bread-and-salad supper and evening of games.

No ghosts or goblins attended this party; but the Queen of Sheba, Moses, Miriam, David, several little angels and other Bible characters were identified following supper. Game time followed, led by Sandi and assisted by Sharon Peterson.

This was a follow-up to a successful Vacation Bible School program conducted in July by Sandi and many faithful helpers. The majority attending the party were non-Seventh-day Adventists.

ONE HUNDRED HISPANIC CHILDREN and YOUTH enrolled at Orangewood Academy and Elementary School in Garden Grove. They constitute 30 percent of the total enrollment at the school; and most of them are members of the Santa Ana Spanish Church, the largest Spanish-speaking church in the Conference. Pictured with the group are Pastor Juan Rivera and Antonio Romero, both of whom are strongly committed to Christian education. Funds for education are raised through a variety of benefit programs and direct donations by members. As a result, all children who want to are able to attend a Christian school. For college-age youth, a scholarship fund has been established enabling worthy students from the church to receive an annual monetary award to attend the Adventist college or university of their choice.

Father and Son Reunited After 65 Years

The phone rang. "Hello. My name is Edwin Nelson, and I am not a member of your church, but I wonder if you could help me. One of your church members from Pleasant Hill Church, Ed Hines, is a friend of mine. We have worked together at the electronics plant in Concord for 20 years. He told me about a church paper you publish that might be able to help me with a problem."

The phone call placed to the local RECORDER office in Pleasant Hill began a chain of events that has changed Edwin Nelson's life.

Edwin, a resident of Concord, was 21 years old when his mother told him that he had not seen his real father since he was seven months old. The father he knew was a stepfather and had never adopted him. His mother would not answer any questions about his real father, and it was not until after her death, some 15 years ago, that Edwin began a sporadic search for his real father.

Meanwhile, James Nelson had remarried and had three sons and a daughter. During that time, however, he had not forgotten his firstborn child, Edwin. He had devoted much time in the search for his son, reading and placing advertisements in newspapers—even appearing on a TV show designed to help to reunite lost family members—but to no avail.

It was Edwin, though, who would find his father, in what he had decided would be his final effort.

Edwin knew only two things about his father—that he had been a member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and that he was last remembered living in Keene, Texas. This precious information he had obtained from his mother's brother.

After writing letters and coming up with only frustration, Edwin discussed his problem with his Christian friend Ed Hines. Ed suggested that he place an ad through the RECORDER office in the Southeastern Record, the Church paper that covers the Texas area. That issue came out in September.

Five days later he went home during his lunch hour, something he rarely does. "I wasn't home five minutes before the phone rang," he remembered.

It was John D. Nelson, also 65 years old, claiming to be his cousin. John now lives in Fair Oaks, California, only an hour's drive from Edwin's home. Formerly members of the Seventh-day Adventist church in Keene, Texas, the John Nelsons had continued to subscribe to the Southeastern Record.

"He said he knew as soon as he read the ad," marveled Edwin.

The cousin wasn't sure of his uncle's current address. But a few days later Edwin received a call from Violet Voss of Woodson Terrace, Missouri, who told him, with tears, that she was his sister and that his father, now 91 years old, was in a nursing home in Sikeston, Missouri. He was anxious to meet his long-lost son.

Over the phone, Violet and her brother compared the notations on the backs of the only baby pictures either had of Edwin. The notations were identical.

It was a grand reunion that followed, joining Edwin Nelson with 20 members of his new family, and his father.

No words were spoken, said Edwin; he and his father "just hugged."

Because of the care Ed Hines showed to a fellow worker, many hearts were made happy; and the Edwin Nelson family has found a caring church in Pleasant Hill.

Grass Valley Grows as Result of Community Outreach

The Grass Valley Church recently completed a study of the entry events and pathways that were most helpful to people joining the church. Pastor Ed Wilson indicated that the survey was based on the last 100 people to be baptized into the church over a time span of about five years.

"The most helpful 'entry event' was Sabbath school," Pastor Wilson states. Of those surveyed, 39 of the 100 people indicated that Sabbath school was their most significant first contact with the church. Worship services, Bible studies, health seminars, and the It Is Written television ministry were also listed as significant, with an average of about 10 people listing each of these as their first contact with the church.

In the pathways that lead people from a first contact to joining the church, Pastor Wilson indicated that Bible studies and baptismal groups, as would be expected, were the most effective.

Perhaps the most important and interesting result of the study was to discover that 54 of the 100 indicated that they had no close Seventh-day Adventist connection prior to joining the church. "This finding is significant," Philip Follett, president of the Northern California Conference, said, "because it indicates that the Grass Valley Church is growing more as a result of reaching the community than biological growth. This is necessary if a church is to survive."

News From Here and There

SEVENTEEN BAPTIZED AT HAYFORK—Although two weeks before Thanksgiving is not considered swimming weather in the mountain towns of Trinity County, 10 brave and rejoicing individuals were baptized in cold, clear Hayfork Creek by Myron Tait, pastor of the Hayfork and Lewiston churches. Seven others were baptized that same afternoon in a member's hot tub. The weather was extremely cold and overcast, but the Lord held the rains until the baptisms were over. After five weeks of meetings by Lay Evangelist Les Gann and his Prophecy Odyssey Crusade, the members of Hayfork thanked the Lord for reaping such a wonderful harvest of new church members.

SPECIAL GUEST DAYS IN MARCH—Special guest days for Northern California Conference churches are being planned for the last three Sabbaths in March of 1984. During this period It Is Written will broadcast a three-part series on "What Are Seventh-day Adventists?" The special guest days are to maximize the exposure the church will receive from these telecasts. The Pastor's Advisory of the Conference felt that providing special services and then following up in April with evangelism series or seminars is an ideal way to turn visitors into members.

West Speaks for Prophecy Series

A Prophecy Series of evangelistic meetings at the Civic Auditorium was sponsored by Hilo Church September 30 to October 23 nightly except Mondays and Thursdays. Thirty-three were baptized at the conclusion of the series.

On opening night, guest speaker Harold West lectured before an audience of 400. Among the lectures were "All Eyes East," "Armageddon," "Day the Sky Explodes," and "God, How It Hurts."

All topics were based on a survey of non-church members, and a professional agency handled the publicity.

Each evening's program opened with the singing of Evangelist David Peterson. Several ukulele numbers also were presented by church members.

Evangelist West, ministerial director and evangelism coordinator of Central California Conference, has lectured on Bible prophecy around the world during the last 20 years, especially in the Far East.

This crusade was coordinated by the evangelism committee under Chairperson Matthew Chow and Vice Chairperson Ralph Neidigh overseeing nine major committees and their sub-committees involving 90 people.

Also assisting was Benjamin Leialoha, pastor of the Waipahu Church.

Christian Women Form Organization

"I want to see a group of Christian women . . . gathering . . . sharing . . . inspiring . . ."

So, today there is such a group. President Rose Teruya, who voiced her thought, put into operation the newest group in the Hawaii Conference last year. She opens the Kaneohe youth chapel the first Wednesday of each month to a group of women for social and spiritual sharing.

At 10:30, Hostess Harriet Yafuso greets each lady with her homemade creative name tag. The white guest book is signed, and a devotional is given by Chaplain Julita Antone.

DeeDee Nelson shares her technique of how to read a Bible passage and get the most out of it. She asks, "What is the subject?"

HELEN ROBINSON, member of the Roseville Church, set a goal of $100 for investment in 1983, but she reached that goal long before the year ended. Helen collects cans of every size and turns them into beautiful wall hangings. Helen's husband, Jim, also collects aluminum cans and turned in over $50 for investment before the year's end. Their dedication of time and talents for the Lord is earning dollars for the truth of God's Word to go to unentered areas of the world.

Who are the main characters? What does this reading tell me of God's love to me? She has presented gems on the first two chapters of the book of John.

The main feature follows this Bible study. In November, Naomi Yamashiro related her story of the crises in the life of her eldest son, Duane. "Don't go ahead of the Spirit when you ask for guidance," she counseled. "Listen, really listen." Fourteen scripture promises were counted as she shared her story. Today, with her complete family in the love of Christ, Naomi is an inspiration to all to follow in the counsel of the Spirit and not trust their own insight and instinct.

In December, Greta Jones from Color I Associates suggested that members be observant as to how a color really looks before making it a part of them. Each has the ability to affect a person's reaction to her by the color she wears.

Diehl To Conduct Health Seminar

"Americans don't just die, they slowly fade away at age 40," says Dr. Hans Diehl, cardiovascular researcher at Loma Linda University, and former director of research and health education at the well-known Pritikin Longevity Center.

After 50 years of cardiovascular research, many are beginning to turn to a lifestyle-oriented approach—going back to basics, many advocated by Adventist giants like E. G. White, and J. H. Kellogg.

Dr. Diehl will conduct a health seminar in the Modesto Central church, corner of 16th and H streets, on January 27 and 28. All the churches are cordially invited to attend this free seminar.

"Portrait of a Killer" will be the topic at 7 p.m. Friday, January 27.

"Lifestyle Medicine: A New Frontier?" will be the title for his sermon at 11 a.m. January 28.

The afternoon schedule is as follows: 2, the film "Eat, Drink, and be Wary"; 2:30, "Slim View of a Broad Subject"—how to eat more and lose weight permanently; 3:30, "The Cholesterol Controversy: How It Affects Your Health"; 4:30, "Lifestyle and Health"; 5:20 to 5:45, vespers with Dr. Lily Diehl, wife of Dr. Hans Diehl, concert pianist and soloist; 5:45 to 7, questions and answers will complete the informative seminar.

The seminar will present scientific evidence that will create more awareness of the potent role of nutrition, exercise, stress, and general lifestyle habits in the development and treatment of heart disease, stroke, diabetes, and certain forms of cancer, Dr. Diehl said.

Cooking Seminar Provides Learning Experiences

More than 35 people learned how to prepare a stuffed vegetable turkey at the cooking seminar held by Fresno Westside Church.

Eileen Ruff conducted the cooking demonstrations which yielded several other tasty, nutritious dishes.

Preparation of the vegetarian turkey was also demonstrated by Eileen Ruff at Soquel camp meeting last year. She was assisted by several helpful members.

Everyone who attended the cooking seminar tasted a sample of each dish, and that amounted to a full plate meal with dessert.

Many expressed their evaluation of the food as delicious, and their cleaned-up plates seemed to uphold that assessment.

EACH YEAR TUOLUMNE COUNTY sponsors an old-fashioned spelling bee, which is held in the little red schoolhouse in historic Columbia State Park. Contestants are two eighth-grade students from each school in the county. This year two of the three eighth-grade students from Mother Lode Adventist Junior Academy in Sonora participated and spelled more than 80 words correctly. Ruth Williams won a second-place trophy and Gina Proctor a third-place trophy.

Oakhurst and North Fork. Others from greater distances are welcome to join.

The speakers featured in the past have been D. A. Delafield, the coordinator of Retirees Affairs for North America; Adrian C. Woods of Placerville, whose hobby of gold prospecting has, in a single year, netted $5,000, which was used to sponsor two evangelistic campaigns in Inter-America resulting in 1,200 baptisms; Fred Ramsey, representative of Re-Creation Unlimited, pointed out numerous opportunities for Seventh-day Adventists to assist in the National Park Service.

New Preventive Medicine Residencies Are Open at LLU

A grant of $300,000 was given to Loma Linda University during October from the United States Public Health Science Division of Medicine to enlarge and strengthen the preventive-medicine residency during the next three years.

The grant will provide stipends and tuition to physicians, and open new residency positions at Loma Linda University.

P. William Dysinger, M.D., director of the residency program, says, "The grant is indicative of the government's recognition of an acute shortage of physicians in preventive medicine and of its concern to hold down the costs of medical care."

The preventive medicine residency at Loma Linda University was initiated in 1981 and fulfills the requirements of the American Board of Preventive Medicine for specialty training. It is supported by both the School of Medicine and the School of Health.

Residents are accepted into the second year of the residency if they have completed an approved clinical year in a primary care specialty such as family medicine, pediatrics or internal medicine.

The second year includes academic study toward the master of public health degree, and the third year is supervised practical experience in preventive medicine.

"The program at Loma Linda appeals to physicians interested in practicing holistic medicine," says Dr. Dysinger, "by promoting improved lifestyles and treating those physical or spiritual conditions which increase risk of disease."

The grant has enabled Loma Linda University to expand and open positions in the preventive medicine residency. The program has accepted applications for a third-year resident (one who has already completed the M.P.H. degree), and now is accepting applications for four second-year residents for July 1984.

New Press Management Structure Voted

marketing, joined church service from private business, first in the Western Canada Adventist Book Center, later becoming manager of the ABC serving Eastern Canada.

Mr. Kyte is returning to Pacific Press from the Central California Conference, where he has been ABC manager. Prior to this he served five years as Omaha Branch Manager and in management in the former Press Book Department. The former Periodical and Book/Chapel Record Departments have merged into the new Marketing Department which includes all functions of product sales and distribution.

Under the new structure two vice presidents have been named for Editorial Development: Dr. Herbert Douglass for English and Dr. Humberto Rasi for International. Also incorporated into the pre-manufacturing/editorial department are art and composition.

The Board feels these changes will significantly enhance the operations of Pacific Press as well as increase effectiveness in supplying the needs of the Church for literature in a timely, cost-efficient way.

Andrews Announces European Study Tour

Andrews University English and history departments will sponsor the 11th European study tour June 10-August 16, 1984. Interested persons may earn up to 12 graduate or undergraduate credits.

Directing the tour will be Dr. Merlene Ogden, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and professor of English, and Dr. Malcolm Russell, associate professor of history and economics.

A full itinerary of places important in English literature, European history, and fine arts will be included in the nine-week, 12-country tour, Miss Ogden said.

The Passion Play at Oberammergau, the Mozart Music Festival in Salzburg, skiing near the Matterhorn, hiking in the Alps, a canal trip in Venice, and time for shopping and extra sightseeing will all be a part of the trip, according to Miss Ogden.

Graduate students may apply credit to a master of arts or master of arts in teaching degree in history or English or toward electives in another program through Andrews. Undergraduates may apply credit to a major or minor in English or history or toward general education or elective credit required for graduation at Andrews.

Cost of the tour will be approximately $3,800, and will include round-trip jet fare from Toronto, all transportation in Europe,
